DEMOCRATS MAKE BIG GAINS IN CONGRESS

REED WINS; REPUBLICAN PRECINCTS GIVE HIM 35,000 PLURALITY

REPUBLICANS LOSE IN NEW YORK, MICHIGAN AND INDIANA

COUNTRY DISTRICTS CUT EARLY LEAD GIVEN SENATOR BY ST. LOUIS

Indications Now Are That Reed's Plurality Over Brewster Will Be Between 35,000 and 40,000—Most of Missing Precincts Rural.

DEMOCRATS ELECT ENTIRE STATE TICKET

Party Apparently Has Also Regained Control of Both Houses of State Legislature Lost Two Years Ago.

Senator Reed was re-elected for his third term in the Senate yesterday in a Democratic sweep of the State which accomplished the election of all candidates on the Democratic State ticket, and which increased Missouri's Democratic representation in Congress from two to at least 11. The number may possibly go to 13 or 14 when complete returns are in. Reed's plurality probably will be between 35,000 and 40,000.

Reed's lead over Brewster is being reduced by late returns, and the indications are now that the final figures will show him victor by considerably less than the plurality he received in St. Louis. On 2988 precincts, with 690 remaining to be heard from, all except one a rural precinct, Reed led by 45,707. Earlier in the day his lead was 56,000.

Reed's election was due to his strong support in Republican and wet St. Louis, and in Republican and wet counties having large German populations. Without this vote, which represented a change from a 60,000 Republican majority in St. Louis to a more than 40,000 Reed plurality and which represented Reed gains of from 500 to 4000 votes in the so-called German counties, Reed would have been defeated, as he consistently ran behind his ticket in the Democratic counties, and in the Republican counties which have no large number of voters of German origin.

What Results Show.

Because of this showing in the returns, it is accepted as conclusive that the campaign made for Reed in the cities and wet communities that he favored amendment to the Volstead law to permit the sale of beer and wines, and the appeal made for him among the German voters that he opposed President Wilson and administration war measures, had the greater influence with the voters of those communities, than did the law and order campaign conducted by R. R. Brewster, his Republican opponent, in the dry communities.

In St. Louis, with only one precinct to be heard from, Reed's plurality was 42,249. Two years ago the city gave Harding a plurality of nearly 60,000. Brewster carried only three wards, the Sixth, Twenty-third and the Twenty-eighth, which he carried by 1055, 763 and 733, respectively. In the other wards there were heavy Reed pluralities, particularly in South St. Louis, some of the wards giving Reed a plurality of from 2000 to 3000.

Results in St. Louis County.

Even St. Louis County, which usually can be counted upon for a Republican plurality of from 8000 to 10,000, gave Reed a plurality of about 1500. While the inside of

WILSON, IN LETTER, CALLS REED 'MAN WITHOUT A PARTY'

Communication, Not Made Public During Campaign, Was Written Oct. 27 to Lon V. Stephens.

A letter written by former President Woodrow Wilson to former Gov. Lon V. Stephens Oct. 27, 10 days before the election, designating Senator Reed as "a man without a party," and stating that if elected he would be in the Senate "repudiated by Democrats and elected above their own man by Republican votes," was given to the Post-Dispatch this afternoon for publication with the permission of Gov. Stephens.

The letter, which was not made public during the campaign, was in reply to one to the former President by Gov. Stephens.

In view of the fact that Reed's plurality in the election yesterday was due to the pluralities he received in St. Louis and in the so-called German counties which usually return heavy Republican pluralities, the letter is most timely.

Text of Letter.

2340 S Street NW.
WOODROW WILSON,
Washington, D. C.,
27th October, 1922.

My Dear Governor Stephens:

I am sincerely obliged to you for your letter of Oct. 21. I know how entirely competent you are to assess the true situation in Missouri and I value accordingly the carefully considered information conveyed in your letter.

I do not think that I ought to attempt any advice as to the election. I am too far away from what I may call the interior conditions of the situation. I feel, besides, that leaders like yourself can be confidently counted upon to guide the loyal Democrats of Missouri to the right course of action.

If Reed is returned to the Senate he will, of course, be there a man without a party; repudiated by Democrats and elected above their own man by Republican votes. I should think that the usual organization of the Senate would be rendered quite impossible.

With cordial greetings to all true Democrats, who, like yourself, uphold the real interests and best ideals of the party and of mankind, and with sincere personal regard.

Faithfully yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Letter by Stephens.

The letter by Gov. Stephens, to which the former President replied, follows:

"My Dear Mr. Wilson:

"It was my intention to write to you fully relative to the outcome of the senatorial primary in August, but I was so crushed at the nomination of Reed that I hadn't the heart to do so. I knew, too, that the Associated Press would fully advise you Mr. Long carried 90 of our 114 counties with a majority of something like 45,000 upon reaching Kansas City and St. Louis. We were swamped in these two cities by an avalanche of pro-Germans, lifelong Republicans and extreme wets. In these two cities alone Reed received a majority of 50,000. He was, therefore, defeaetd by the Democratic

CITY FOR G. O. P. BY 10,000 TO 20,000; REED BY 42,000

Only Democrats Elected, Besides Congressman Hawes, Are Five Members of Lower House of Legislature.

SENATOR CARRIES 25 OF 28 WARDS

Republican Pluralities of 1920 Greatly Reduced — Blanket Ballot Slows Down Counting.

The Republican city ticket carried St. Louis in yesterday's election by pluralities of 10,000 to 20,000, at the same time that Senator Reed obtained his lead of more than 42,000 in the city. The only Democrats elected to office, aside from Justices of the Peace and Constables, were Congressman Hawes, re-elected in the Eleventh District by an increased plurality, and probably five members of the lower house of the Legislature.

The Democrats who appear, on the incomplete figures, to be elected to the Legislature, are Emery W. Chase and John Toolis in the Third District, and William S. Cordry, Con J. O'Brien and James L. Wren Jr. in the Fourth District.

Walthall M. Moore, negro member of the last Legislature, was defeated for re-election in the Third District. Mrs. Mary J. Cowen, the only woman candidate for the Legislature, ran behind the other defeated Democratic candidates in the Fifth District.

The total city vote, including the Socialist and Socialist Labor vote, which were not reported in the unofficial returns, does not appear to have been more than 175,000, or about 64 per cent of the registration of 272,298. In the presidential election of 1920, with a registration of 315,018, the vote was 89 per cent of the registration.

25 Wards Carried by Reed.

Senator Reed carried 25 of the 28 wards of St. Louis. Those which were carried by R. R. Brewster, Republican nominee for the Senate, were the Sixth and Twenty-third, both of which have large negro populations, and the Twenty-eighth, where anti-Reed Democrats were numerous. The Seventeenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-fifth gave Reed comparatively small margins.

In South St. Louis many voters followed the recommendations of the "Liberal Republican" sample ballot sent out by a group of 34 business men and voted the Republican ticket, except that they voted for Reed for Senator. The same practice was followed by a multitude of voters in North St. Louis.

Republican workers in the vicinity of South Side and North St. Louis polling places, who tried to persuade Republican voters to vote for Brewster, reported that they got "short answers" from many men and women, and that some said. "Don't talk Brewster to us, or we will vote the straight Democratic ticket."

G. O. P. Pluralities Reduced.

The Republican victory, as to the city ticket, was more thorough than in 1920, when the Republicans lost two candidates for judicial offices, but elected the rest of the ticket by pluralities which exceeded 50,000 in some cases. Yesterday, with no such large pluralities, they nevertheless elected their whole local ticket. As a result, all local offices, except the two judgeships held by Democrats, will be in the hands of Republicans. Prosecuting Attorney Oakley, a Democrat, who held his office by appointment, was one of those defeated.

The Republican candidates for the State Senate from the even-numbered districts, Senators Depelheuer of the Thirtieth and Anderson of the Thirty-fourth Districts, and William

MICHIGAN SENDS FIRST DEMOCRAT TO SENATE SINCE 1870

W. N. Ferris, Straight-Out Wilson Man, Leads Townsend, Who Voted to Seat Newberry, by 15,000.

"NEWBERRYISM" WAS ISSUE IN CAMPAIGN

Senator-Elect, Former Governor, Had as Organization Only Graduates of His School for Workers.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 8.—For the first time in 52 years, a Democrat has been elected to the United States Senate from Michigan and for the first time in that period a Democrat, running as a candidate for a State office, has polled a clear majority of votes. Woodbridge N. Ferris has beaten Senator Charles E. Townsend by approximately 15,000 votes.

With 494 precincts of a total of 2906 out, Ferris' advantage was 18,216. The missing precincts are scattered over 62 counties.

In this election, Michigan fought out the issue of "Newberryism" to a finish. It is more than four years since Truman H. Newberry and his relatives and friends admitted spending $176,000 to obtain the Republican nomination for the Senate. Since then, Senator Newberry and his associates in the campaign have been tried and convicted in a Federal Court and subsequently freed by action of the Supreme Court in declaring the Federal corrupt practices act unconstitutional.

The case was fought out also in the United States Senate, but this is the first time that the people of Michigan have had a clear opportunity to give their verdict in the matter.

Townsend Voted for Seating.

Senator Townsend voted to seat Senator Newberry. He himself spent more than $30,000 to obtain the Republican nomination for the Senate this year. He ran with the open support of the Newberry organization, built up by the great expenditure of campaign funds in 1918 and 1920.

In the Republican primary, Senator Townsend was opposed by three candidates, all of whom made a pledge to move for reopening the Newberry case in the Senate, the chief plank in their platforms. Town-

Results at a Glance

CONGRESS—The Republican majority of 168 in the Lower House has been greatly reduced. Late returns indicate a possibility that control by Republicans may be by a very scant figure or they may even lose control altogether.

The Democrats have made considerable gains in the Senate where the Republican majority has been 24. Democrats have cut this to 16 apparently.

MISSOURI—The Democrats made a clean sweep of the State offices, pluralities ranging from 10,000 to 20,000 on unofficial returns. Reed was re-elected to the Senate by more than 35,000. The Democrats have certainly elected 11 of the 16 House members, and late returns indicate the number may be raised to 13 or 14.

ST. LOUIS CITY—The entire City Republican ticket was elected by pluralities of 10,000 to 20,000. The two Republican Congressmen were re-elected by reduced pluralities, and the one Democratic Congressman by a largely increased plurality. Five Democrats appear to have been elected to the Lower House of the Legislature.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY—The fight of the Clean Election League was successful and there will be Democratic officials holding office by election there for the first time in years. With a vote of about 23,000 there was a Republican majority approaching 10,000 for those candidates who were indorsed by the League.

PROHIBITION—The beer and light wine amendment is 26,000 behind in Ohio. In Illinois the same proposition is leading. The rigid State enforcement act was beaten in Massachusetts and California. Gov. Edwards, Democrat, was elected to the Senate in New Jersey on a beer and light wine platform.

WOMEN CANDIDATES—Miss Alice Robertson, only woman member of Congress, was beaten by her Oklahoma constituents, as apparently was Mrs. St. Clair Moss of the Eighth Missouri district, first woman nominee of Congress in Missouri. Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, daughter of the late Senator Mason, was elected to Congress at large for the short term on the Republican ticket.

INTERESTING STATE CONTESTS

Ohio: Donahey (D) leads Thompson for governorship.

Indiana: Gov. Ralston (D) defeated former Senator Beveridge (R) for Senate.

Massachusetts—Lodge (R.) re-elected to Senate by plurality of only 8425. His margin in the 1916 election was 32,939.

WOMAN, 70, LEAVING CEMETERY, FATALLY HURT BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Catherine V. Ryan, 70 years old, a widow, who made her home at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium, died at the city hospital at 8 o'clock last night from injuries suffered at 3:45 p. m., when struck by a northbound Broadway car as she was leaving Calvary Cemetery. Her skull and left thigh were fractured and she suffered internal injuries.

Policemen reported that Mrs. Ryan had visited the cemetery to care for a grave. She departed by way of the Broadway gate and started for the east sidewalk to wait for a street car. The motorman of the northbound car told police she stepped directly in front of the car before he had an opportunity to stop. She was unconscious when taken to the hospital.

DUBLIN, Nov. 8.—An attack with machine guns and rifles from nearby housetops was made by Irish Republican forces against the Wellington military barracks this afternoon.

PARTY HAS INCREASED HOUSE MEMBERSHIP 65 ON PARTIAL RETURNS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Democratic gains in the national elections continue to pile up steadily as belated returns come in from all parts of the country. Democratic gains in the House of Representatives are accumulating without counter gain for the Republicans in a single congressional district. The great majority rolled up for the Republicans in the Harding landslide of two years ago has been gnawed into by the Democrats in districts in all debatable states until there seems to be a chance that it virtually may be wiped out, or at least reduced to a slender working force for the administration.

On the latest returns the Democrats and the Republicans are running a close race for control of the House of Representatives. The Democrats so far have 196 seats and the Republicans 200 toward the majority of 218 for which they are straining. Only 25 states have reported a complete vote, and it is plain that the deciding figures are to come from the West and Middle West. The Socialists have elected one member. Iowa is the only State to return a solid Republican delegation.

Returns on Senatorial Race.

Returns show that Republican seats in the United States Senate from New York, Michigan, New Jersey, Indiana, Maryland and Delaware have been captured by the Democrats, and that Democratic seats in the Senate from Nebraska and Ohio have been won by the Republicans. Latest figures indicate that the Democrats have captured also West Virginia. The United States Senate has 96 members. There are now 60 Republicans in the Sanote and 36 Democrats, a Republican majority of 24. Indications are that this will be cut to about 16 or 17.

Some important figures in the Republican administration went down to defeat yesterday and some members of the Senate and House personally close to President Harding will return to private life.

The Republican forces failed to break into the Democratic ranks in the South and lost one congressional district which they have held there for years—the Ninth Virginia. Speaker Gillett was re-elected. "Uncle Joe" Cannon passed on his seat from Illinois to another Republican. Miss Alice Robertson, Republican, of Oklahoma, the only woman in Congress, was beaten by a man—the Democrat whom she defeated two years ago, and the present House got an additional woman member, a Republican, in Mrs. Winnifred Huck, a daughter of the late William Mason of Illinois, who had served in both Senate and House. She was elected to fill out her father's unexpired term and will only serve until March next.

Final Returns Give Him 413,563 to 405,138 for Gaston —His Margin in Last Election Was 32,000.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge had a plurality of 8425 votes over William A. Gaston for the United States Senate, according to a revision of returns from yesterday's State election. The revised vote follows: Lodge 413,563; Gaston 405,138.

Senator Lodge's plurality in 1916 was 32,939.

Returns from 1336 precincts, including 270 in Boston, give for the governorship: Cox, Republican, 423,142; Fitzgerald, Democrat, 368,212.

The State prohibition enforcement act was defeated. The vote on this referendum from 1075 precincts, including 220 in Boston, was: Yes, 213,954; no, 289,746.

Thomas C. O'Brien, Republican, was elected District Attorney of Suffolk County, including Boston, by a substantial margin over Joseph C. Pelletier, Democrat, who was removed from that office by the Supreme Court.

By the Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 8.—Thomas F. Bayard, Democrat, son of the late Thomas F. Bayard, who was Secretary of State under Grover Cleveland, was elected to the United States Senate yesterday on the face of complete but unofficial returns from Delaware. The final returns today give Bayard 40,754 and Senator Coleman Dupont, the Republican incumbent, 39,431.

Congressman Layton, Republican, was defeated by William H. Boyce by more than 6000 majority.

DEMOCRATS CARRY NEW YORK; ARE LEADING FOR SENATE IN INDIANA

SMITH, DEMOCRAT, CARRIES NEW YORK CITY BY 479,000

Thirteen New Places in House Delegation Make 23, With 17 for Republicans and 3 Undetermined.

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Riding on the crest of a tidal wave of votes that swept into office the entire Democratic State ticket and its candidate for the United States Senate, gave the party a majority of the State delegation to Congress. Alfred E. Smith was elected Governor of New York by a plurality of approximately 418,000 over Nathan L. Miller, who defeated him two years ago.

In accomplishing this notable triumph, Smith carried his native city of New York by a plurality of nearly 479,000.

The Democrats have sent at least 13 new members to the State Assembly and taken 10 more seats in the State Senate. Gains made by the Democrats in the congressional elections give them 3 places in the House delegation, with 17 going to the Republicans and three still in doubt.

The complexion of the State Assembly early today was: Republicans, 74; Democrats, 69, and 70 undetermined. Twenty-five Democrats and 25 Republicans had been elected to the State Senate, with one district missing.

The senatorial vote, with 1080 districts missing, was: Royal S. Copeland, Democrat, 1,096,245; Senator William M. Calder, Republican, 846,014.

Record New York City Plurality.

Former Gov. Smith rolled up the greatest plurality New York City ever has given any candidate in any election, in returning to the gubernatorial chair from which he was ejected in 1920 by Gov. Miller.

Copeland, the new Senator, is Health Commissioner of New York City, formerly was Mayor of Ann Arbor, Mich., and until yesterday an untested factor in New York politics.

Smith's victory was anticipated by many political observers, but even his sturdiest supporters had not predicted that, in New York City, he would beat the record plurality of about 417,000 established by Mayor Hylan in 1920. With 67 districts missing out of the 2747 in the city, the margin for him was 468,763.

Miller Loses Home City.

Smith carried Syracuse, home city of Gov. Miller, by 6704 votes. Two years ago Gov. Miller carried the city by 10,051.

Rockribbed Republican Monroe County, which gave Gov. Miller a plurality of more than 26,000 in 1920, was won by Smith by 603. Senator Calder carried the county by more than 5000.

Charles F. Murphy, Tammany Hall chieftain, issued the following statement:

"I never had any doubt of former Gov. Smith's election. His wonderful vote is a great tribute. It is an indorsement of his fight for home rule for New York and other cities of the State. It tells the country that this State is against the Harding administration and the Republican tariff law. It will hearten the Democracy of the nation and brighten the prospects for 1924.

"We hope the final returns will show that Smith will have a Democratic Legislature to help him fulfill the party platform pledges."

DEMOCRAT LEADS FOR GOVERNORSHIP OF NEW HAMPSHIRE

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 8.—According to nearly complete returns from yesterday's election, Mayor Fred Brown of Somersworth, Democrat, has been elected Governor of New Hampshire to succeed Gov. Albert O. Brown, Republican. William N. Rogers, Democrat, was elected to Congress from the First District. The Republicans elected Congressman Wason in the Second District.

MRS. EDWARD T. SMITH ELECTED LEGISLATOR

Democratic Candidate's Victory in County Attributed to Clean Election League.

Nearly complete returns from St. Louis County indicate the election of Mrs. Edward T. Smith of 7171 Kingsbury avenue, University City, to the State Legislature, as Representative from the Second District of the county. Though she was not the only woman candidate for the Legislature in the State, her election is the first definitely indicated.

She is a Democrat. Her election is attributed to the activity of the Clean Election League, which apparently broke the power of the Republican machine in the county. Her Republican opponent was John E. Eggers. The incomplete, unofficial return gave Mrs. Smith 4247 votes to 3297 for Eggers.

Mrs. Smith, who was named on the ballot as Millcene T. Smith, addressed many campaign meetings of the Clean Election League and other meetings. She spoke to farmers and suburbanites with equal facility. Her district comprises the central portion of the county, including University City, part of Webster Groves and other suburbs.

She is pledged to vote for a registration law for St. Louis County. She advocates the elimination of the fee system in county offices. She is chairman of the University City League of Women Voters, and women were active in her behalf. The Smith-for-Representative Club and individual workers made house-to-house canvasses in the district, urging a full turnout of voters.

Mrs. Smith's husband, who accompanied her to meetings all over the county, is president of the St. Louis Law Printing Co.

ST. LOUIS FOR G. O. P. BY 10,000 TO 20,000; FOR REED BY 42,000

E. Caulfield, in the Thirty-second were elected.

Chapman Leads Ticket.

License Collector Chapman, with a plurality exceeding 20,000, led the Republican local ticket. Judge Charles B. Davis was slightly ahead of Judges Taylor and Calhoun and A. F. Ittner, and leads the judicial ticket. E. G. Ossing, who had the smallest vote of the Republican judicial candidates, was more than 11,000 votes ahead of Judge Moses Sale, the leading Democrat.

Prosecuting Attorney Oakley led the Democratic local ticket, and Albert Schweitzer, his Repulican opponent, was more than 11,000 ahead of him.

Congressman Newton's plurality when the St. Louis County vote is added will exceed 20,000. In 1920 he was elected by more than 56,000. Congressman Dyer will win by about 4000, whereas he was 11,500 ahead in 1920. Congressman Hawes got in by 2136 in 1920, and wins by about 8000 this year.

SENATOR 42,402 AHEAD IN ST. LOUIS; THREE PRECINCTS TO REPORT

politics is at times difficult to explain in detail, there are indications that Republican leaders of the county threw their influence to Reed and were instrumental in bringing about his election. In so doing, however, they lost some of the Republican county ticket, an indication that in some instances they may have traded off votes for Republican candidates to get votes for Reed.

The apathy of Republican leaders in some counties having large German populations, if not their actual support of Reed, is also indicated by returns from such communities.

In Franklin County, which adjoins St. Louis County and from which a Republican majority of about 4000 usually is expected, probably has given Reed a small plurality, or if not, the Republican plurality was reduced to a low figure. Osage County, usually Republican by about 2000, apparently has gone for Reed by about that figure. Perry, St. Charles, Jefferson, Warren and Gasconade are other counties of similar character which show similar conditions.

Behind in Democratic Counties.

In such counties as Boone, Audrain, Callaway, Monroe and Marion, strong Democratic counties, Reed ran far behind, being scratched by thousands of Democrats, while in other counties with smaller Democratic populations, he was scratched by hundreds.

In Audrain alone he dropped nearly 3000 below the usual Democratic vote; about 2000 in Clay, 1000 in Boone, 500 in Randolph and several hundred in Platte.

In sharp contrast to the vote in St. Louis, was that in Kansas City, and Jackson County, a strong Democratic community, and the home of both Reed and Brewster. Reed's supporters had contended Reed would carry Jackson County, including Kansas City, by not less than 25,000. The returns today, almost complete, showed Brewster leading Reed by a slight plurality.

On returns at noon today from 2988 of the total of 3876 precincts in the State, including 617 of the 618 in St. Louis, the total vote for Senator was

Brewster, 353,193.
Reed's plurality, 45,707.

On this showing, on the precincts heard from outside of the city, Reed is leading Brewster in the country by approximately 10,000. With more than 1000 rural precincts to hear from, however, many of them in communities in which Brewster is leading, it will not be improbable if Feed's lead is cut down, perhaps to approximately the plurality by which he carried St. Louis.

Vote On Supreme Judges.

BEVERIDGE LOSES; DEMOCRAT IS NEW INDIANA SENATOR

Former Gov. Ralston Leading Republican Nominee by 28,294, in Returns Thus Far Reported.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 8.—Former Gov. Samuel M. Ralston, Democrat, has defeated former Senator Albert J. Beveridge in the race for the Senate by a large majority.

Returns from 2799 out of 3395 precincts in Indiana give Ralston (D) 460,089, Beveridge (R) 431,795, Henry (Socialist), 2690, a plurality for Ralston of 28,294.

Only two of the congressional contests seem to have been settled definitely, Merrill Moores, Republican incumbent, has been returned from the Seventh District, defeating Joseph P. Turk, avowedly a wet Democrat. In the Tenth District Will R. Wood, Republican, is certain of re-election over William Spooner. In all the other districts the races are so close as to make forecast impossible.

Despite the position of the senatorial candidates, the Republican State ticket is piling up a lead with Ed Jackson, Secretary of State, and candidate for re-election, leading Daniel M. Link, Democrat, in 447 of the 3395 precincts tabulated.

Schools—
Lee, Democrat, 188,861.
Baker, Republican, 181,604.
Lee's plurality, 7257.

Indications as to Legislature.

Although returns on State Senator and members of the lower house of the Legislature are meager, indications are that the Democrats have wrested control of both the Senate and the House from the Republicans. This, if correct, means that Gov. Hyde will have a hostile Legislature the last two years of his administration, and the way is opened for many legislative attempts to embarrass the Governor.

During the campaign, Senator Reed frequently stated in his speeches that Gov. Hyde should be impeached for the attempt to legislate out of office all Circuit Judges, and to place the appointment of their successors until the next election, with the Governor.

While it is not probable that any serious consideration will be given to impeachment proceedings, a Democratic majority in the Senate would make such a scheme possible.

The re-election of Senator Reed marks one of the most remarkable comebacks in the political history of the country. Only two years ago he was repudiated by the delegates to the Democratic State convention from all except two of the 114 counties of the State. On the ground that in his opposition to President Wilson and the measures which the Wilson administration proposed as necessary for the winning of the war he had been guilty of party treason, he was refused credentials by the State convention as a delegate to the Democratic national convention, and when he sought a seat in the national convention on the credentials rejected by the State convention, he was again rejected by the Democratic National Committee and by the Credentials Committee of the national convention.

In his own party primary in August he was the winner of the nomination for Senator by a plurality of less than 6000, and it was commonly known that from 30,000 to 40,000 Republicans voted in the primary to bring about his nomination. The returns show that these Republicans and a considerable additional number voted for him yesterday in St. Louis and a few counties.

send was nominated becaues of the split in the vote against him. He received only 150,000 votes as against 250,000 polled by his opponents, Herbert F. Baker, Patrick H. Kelley and John G. Emery.

Ferris Formerly Governor.

The new Democratic Senator from Michigan is by all odds the strongest man in his party in the State. He twice was elected Governor, 1912 and 1914, but in both of those years there was a third (Progressive) ticket in the field. In 1920 he again ran for the governorship and was defeated, although he ran 90,000 votes ahead of his ticket.

Ferris is, in private life, the head of the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, a unique institution. He came to Michigan 38 years ago and founded the institute as a private school for education of lumberjacks and other workers who had been denied educational advantages. The peculiar feature of the school then, as now, is that it took men of any age from 16 to 20, and regardless of their previous training. In the 38 years, the school has graduated more than 40,000 students, and it is these former students, scattered throughout the State, who have always supplied for Ferris the almost total lack of Democratic organization.

Ferris ran as a straight-out Wilson Democrat, declaring himself a supporter of the League of Nations, opposing the Fordney-McCumber (tariff) and Esch-Cummins (transportation) laws and the repeal of the excess profits tax, but he declared "Newberryism" to be the paramount issue of the campaign and he devoted the most of his speeches to it. In spite of his 60 years, he made a whirlwind campaign, touring virtually every county in the State in an automobile and making several speeches daily for a period of more than six weeks.

Ferris declared today that he would make good his pledge to reopen the "Newberry" case in the next Congress and that Newberry certainly would be unseated.

As the result of the elections this year, it now appears that seven of the old guard Republicans who voted to seat Newberry, have been defeated. These, besides Townsend, are New, McCumber, Calder, Frelinghuysen, France and Kellogg. There is some talk here that Newberry will resign.

Ferris has indicated that the basis of his motion for a reopening of the case will be the failure of Senator Spencer's subcommittee to summon Newberry to testify, its failure to subpena the Newberry bank accounts or to force the attendance of B. Frank Emery, the disappearing witness.

Gov. Alex J. Groesbeck and the entire Republican State ticket were elected by comfortable majorities.

In the 1662 precincts for the governorship, Grossbecw, Republican, had 182,146, Cummins, Democrat, 117,585.

Two congressional candidates indorsed by Michigan beer and wine advocates, appeared early today to have been elected They were Clarence McLeod, Republican, of the Thirteenth District, and Robert Clancy, Democrat, of the First District. Both had comfortable leads over their opponents, with about half of the district precincts' heard from.

Grant M. Hudson, a prominent prohibition worker and former head of the Michigan Antisaloon League, was elected to Congress from the Sixth Michigan District. Hudson is a Republican, and defeated Charles Adair, Democrat. The Sixth is represented by a Republican in the present Congress.

MRS. HUCK OF ILLINOIS FIRST MOTHER TO BE ELECTED TO CONGRESS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.

THE first mother has been elected to Congress, returns from the election yesterday showed today. She is Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, elected to fill the unexpired term of her father, the late William E. Mason, Congressman-at-Large from Illinois.

She led a band of nine women from Middle Western states seeking places in the halls of Congress and she alone appears to have been successful.

Until March 1, however, two women instead of one will sit in the House of Representatives. Mrs. Huck, Republican, and Miss Alice Robertson, Republican, of Oklahoma, will be the Congresswomen. Miss Robertson was defeated for re-election.

There is a possibility that the number of women in Congress may be increased to three. On the latest available returns, Miss Kathleen O'Keele, Democrat, is leading Representative Andrew J. Hickey of the Thirteenth Indiana District.

Mrs. Huck, who lives in Chicago, is the mother of four children. She will return to Washington where she spent a part of her childhood during her father's long service.

SENATOR KELLOGG, MINNESOTA, LOSES TO FARMER-LABORITE

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 8.—Frank B. Kellogg, Republican, junior Senator from Minnesota, was defeated in yesterday's election by Dr. Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, it was shown in unofficial returns available late today.

Kellogg, who has served one term in the Senate and is a close friend of the administration, was losing ground as additional returns from rural districts came in and with more than one-third of the State reported, Shipstead was leading by more than 29,000.

DEMOCRATS MAY WIN HOUSE; GAIN IN SENATE IS INDICATED

nates, who ran on a dry platform in New Jersey, was beaten by Gov. Edwards, Democrat, who ran on an openly acknowledged wet platform.

Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, came back, as did Senator McLean of Connecticut, one of the administration leaders in the tariff fight.

In Indiana Gov. Ralston, Democrat, has defeated former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, and thus removed from the Republican field one who had been counted on as an aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination in 1924.

In Iowa Col. Smith Brookhart came through to victory on the Republican ticket, although he was openly frowned upon by some of the Republican leaders, and the platform of the State convention repudiated many of the so-called "radical principles" for which he declared.

On the other hand, Senator France, Republican, of Maryland, charged with radical tendency, was beaten by the Democratic candidate, William Cabel Bruce, Baltimore lawyer.

In Michigan, Senator Townsend, Republican incumbent, who had a fight on his hands over the Newberry issue, has been defeated by W. N. F. Ferris, Democrat; while in Minnesota, where first returns favored Senator Frank B. Kellogg, one of the Republican war horses and a close friend of the President, late returns show him defeated by Henrick Shipstead, who ran on the Farmer-Labor ticket. Mrs. Annie Olesen, the Democratic nominee, is running third.

In Montana, Burton K. Wheeler, the Democratic candidate, is running ahead of his Republican opponent, Carl Riddick, for the seat of Senator Myers, Democrat.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, of Nebraska, floor leader for the Wilson administration forces in the peace treaty fight, was beaten by R. B. Howell, Republican national committeeman from the State, counted among the progressive Republicans.

North Dakota Democrat.

In North Dakota, where the Non-Partisan League was a great factor, J. F. T. O'Connor, Democrat, is leading former Governor Frazier, who had the Republican nomination, lost in the primaries by Senator McCumber, another Republican veteran.

In Ohio Representative Fess, Republican, is far ahead of Senator Pomerene, Democrat, who has been counted on as a possibility for Democratic presidential nomination in event of his success this year. aLbor votes, it is said, were cast against Senator Pomerene because of his stand on the railroad question.

Pennsylvania, going Republican as usual, has sent Gifod Pinchot to the Governor's chair with a Republican administration and re-elected Senators Pepper and Reed, the latter for both a short and a long term.

Rhode Island Elects Democrat.

Senator Gerry, Democrat, Rhode Island, has defeated the former Republican Governor, R. Livingston Beeckman. In Texas, where a Democratic nomination is equivalent to an election, Earle B. Mayfield won the election to the Senate. Support of Mayfield by the Ku Klux Klan was an issue.

Senator Poindexter of Washington, Republican, has a fight on his hands. In West Virginia, the Democratic senatorial candidate, M. M. Neely is leading Senator Sutherland, the Republican incumbent. Wisconsin has returned Senator LaFollette to the Senate with a large majority.

In Wyoming, where Representative Mondell, Republican leader in the House of Representatives, ran for the Senate, the late returns show Senator Kendrick, Democrat, who was said to have some Republican support, to have been re-elected.

The returns show the Democrats making all the gains and the Republicans suffering all the losses in the House of Representatives and the Republicans taking severe defeats in some places where they had not been expected.

Victor L. Berger, the Socialist, has been returned to the House from the Fifth District of Wisconsin, and thus offsets the Socialist loss occasioned by the defeat of Representative Meyer London in New York.

Berger was convicted of a violation of the espionage law during the war and expelled from the House, but his conviction was reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States. He then announced his intention of running for Congress again.

Congressman Andrew Volstead, father of the prohibition act, apparently has been defeated in Minnesota by the Rev. O. J. Kvale, who, however, has declared that he is "dryer" than Volstead.

DEMOCRAT LEADS IN KANSAS FOR THE GOVERNORSHIP

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Jonathan M. Davis, Democrat, is leading W. Y. Morgan, Republican, by 4120 votes on the returns in so far in the race for the Governorship in Kansas. Returns from 1446 precincts out of a total of 2536 gave Morgan 157,666, Davis 161(786. If Davis should be elected Governor, he will be the first Democrat to hold that office since 1912. The Republican ticket is leading for offices below that of Governor.

The soldiers' bonus referendum carried nearly three to one, the returns indicate.

Morgan ran on an Industrial Court platform, while Davis subordinated that issue, declaring himself in favor of modification of the court law. The Ku Klux Klan became an issue late in the campaign, during which Gov. Henry J. Allen, speaking in the interest of Morgan's candidacy, took issue with the organization's activities.

COLBECK'S DEFEAT INDICATED IN ELECTION OF CONSTABLE

Defeat of William P. Colbeck, of 1408 Franklin avenue, Democratic nominee for Constable in the Fifth District, is indicated by virtually complete returns. Colbeck is sergeant-at-arms of the Democratic City Central Committee.

Following the fatal shooting last November of William T. Egan by men believed to be Hogan gangsters, Colbeck has been the reputed leader of the Eganites. Colbeck is said to fear that Hoganites will attempt his life and he has been arrested several times for carrying revolvers.

Returns from the Fifth District indicate that Gabriel Roth (R.), former Deputy Circuit Clerk under Nat Goldstein (R.), and William F. Canty (D.), were elected Constables in the district.

MONTANA ELECTS DEMOCRATIC SENATOR

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 8.—Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat, was elected United States Senator from Montana over Congressman Carl W. Riddick, Republican, according to returns received early today, by an indicated majority of more than 15,000. In 640 election precincts out of 1525 Wheeler had 41,434, against 30,689 for Riddick, and his majority was gaining steadily.

In the First Congressional District 208 out of 470 precincts gave John M. Evans, Democrat, 20,603, and W. J. McCormick, Republican, incumbent, 16,110. In the Second District 279 out of 1055 precincts gave P. B. Moss, Democrat, 12,443, and Scott M. Leavitt, Republican, 15,214.

NORTH DAKOTA RACE NOT YET DECIDED

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., Nov. 8.—Inability to obtain rural returns, due to bad roads, has left the North Dakota senatorial contest between Lynn Frazier, Republican, Nonpartisan and recalled Governor, and J. F. T. O'Connor, Democrat, in doubt. Returns from 573 precincts, almost all urban, give O'Connor 46,988 and Frazier 32,357, but it is considered certain that rural returns will cut down O'Connor's lead materially, if they do not wipe it out.

Democrat Elected to Congress From Kansas District.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—The Republican delegation from the eight congressional districts of Kansas was broken in yesterday's election, returns showed today.

In the Eighth District, William A. Ayres of Wichita, Democrat, won easily over his Republican opponent, Richard L. Bird, also of Wichita. Ayres, a former Congressman, was defeated for re-election two years ago by Bird.

In the Third District, Sproul of Sedan, Republican, was leading Charles Stephens of Columbus, Democrat, by a margin of 1006 votes with nearly two-thirds of the precincts missing.

Republicans in the six other districts appeared safe on the face of incomplete, but representative returns.

DEMOCRAT AHEAD FOR OHIO GOVERNORSHIP

Fess, Republican Senate Candidate, Leads Pomerene—Wet Amendment Loses.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—A. V. Donahey, Democratic candidate for the governorship, took the lead over Carmi A. Thompson, Republican, on returns from 7587 of the State's 8167 precincts today. The vote for these precincts was: Thompson, 735,860; Donahey, 755,433.

Congressman S. D. Fess, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, maintained his lead over Senator Atlee Pomerene on returns from 7621 precincts. The vote: Fess, 727,784; Pomerene, 695,734. The vote for Mrs. Virginia D. Greene, independent, was negligible.

Additional precincts, mostly from the rural districts, polled up a commanding majority against the wine and beer amendment. The vote in 6375 precincts gave a majority against the amendment of 50,033. The actual vote in those precincts was: For the amendment, 581,737; against, 631,770.

Available returns showed an election of eight Republican Congressmen and two Democrats. The results in the remaining 12 districts still were in doubt, the vote in most instances being close. Democratic Congressmen elected are Martin L. Davey in the Fourteenth District and former Congressman Isaac R. Sherwood in the Ninth (Toledo) District. Sherwood is a veteran of the Civil War.

Democratic Gubernatorial Nominee Win's Harding's Home County.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, O., Nov. 8.—Marion County, home of President Harding, was carried by Donahey, the Democratic candidate for the governorship, according to complete returns. CLEAN ELECTION LEAGUE DEFEATS COUNTY MACHINE

At Least 10 and Possibly 11 of Its Candidates Elected Over Opponents on Slate of "Boss" Essen.

The voters of St. Louis county apparently decided the issue of the People against the Machine yesterday by breaking "Boss" Fred Essen's power in the election of 10, and possibly 11, candidates of the Clean Election League's slate of recommendations for 13 major offices. This is indicated by unofficial returns for all but one of the 76 county precincts.

To perpetuate the victory, Clean Election forces will meet this afternoon and formulate plans for the continuation of the league as an active political factor. If it becomes apparent that contests will decide the races for some offices, plans for the contest will also be made.

The county formerly went Republican by about 2 to 1 for all offices. Fred Essen has "bossed" political affairs there for years. His slate was triumphant in the primary of Aug. 1, following which charges of wholesale fraud were made, causing a grand jury investigation now under way.

Five of the Clean Election candidates believed to have been elected were running on the Democratic ticket and five on the Republican, while the eleventh, who may have been elected, was running as a Democrat. It is conceded that the Republicans, who were indorsed because they were regarded as being free of machine control, would have been elected anyway.

Five Democrats Elected.

The county will have, as a result of the election, either five or six Democratic officials. Officials of that party have been a rarity and usually have got in only by appointment to unexpired terms by Democratic Governors. The Prosecuting Attorney, Collector, Presiding Judge of the County Court, one of the Associate Judges of that court, and one of the three State Representatives will be Democrats. The Democratic Representative is a woman. Possibly the County Clerk will be a Democrat, the race for that office being close. Republicans were elected to eight of the 14 major offices, but only one of them, Henry Kirchner, elected Circuit Clerk, is regarded as an out-and-out machine candidate.

The Clean Election League regards the election of a majority or entirely of the County Court, the powerful administrative body of three Judges, and the defeat of J. William Shields, Republican machine adherent, for Collector, as its greatest victories.

New Prosecuting Attorney.

Adam Henry Jones, Democrat, who was backed by the league, apparently will be the next Prosecuting Attorney. He is 33 years old, is married, and lives in Ferguson. He graduated from law school three years ago and has been connected with a downtown law office. In Clean Election campaign speeches he pledged that he would enforce all laws, and would see that gambling, moonshining and bootlegging were vigorously prosecuted. "The bad element must be for good," he declared. Prosecuting Attorney Mueller, whom he defeated, will hold office till Dec. 31, which is the expiration of the term in which the present grand jury may meet.

The county, by the incomplete reretlurns gave Senator Reed 12,203 votes against 10,482 for Brewster, a Democratic plurality of 1721. Four years ago, in the off-year election comparable to this one, the county gave Senator Spencer a plurality of 5762 over Folk, the Democrat, when the total vote was about 15,000. The rumor was going the rounds in the county before this election that the machine planned to help Reed in exchange for support of its local candidates.

The incomplete county vote for Congressman from the Tenth District was: Newton, Republican, incumbent, 13,681; Alexander, 8408. The county, with part of the city of St. Louis, comprises this district. The Republican majorities in the county for State Superintendent of Public Schools, Justices of the Supreme Court and Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals were closer to "normalcy."

Vote Smaller Than Expected.

The total vote yesterday was about 28,000, which was less than politicians had counted on, and less than the Clean Election League thought would suffice for its victory. The total vote in the presidential election two years ago was about 39,000.

The returns for the following county offices are for 75 precincts, except where otherwise noted. The missing precinct was Webster Groves No. 3, which was expected to be strong for Clean Election candidates.

Republican Judges.

Circuit Judges McElhinney and Wurdeman, Republicans, indorsed by the league, won, receiving 16,141 and 16,049 votes, respectively, as against 6811 for Robert Powell and 6675 for Benjamin A. Wood, Democrats.

Woman State Representative.

Mrs. Edward T. Smith, Democrat, was elected State Representative from the Second District, with 4681 votes, against 3543 for John E. Eggers, Republican, and only the one Webster Groves precinct out. James A. Henderson, Republican, who lost a leg in army service overseas, received 9119 votes and Roy Schooley, Democrat, 3297, for State Representative from the First District, complete. The league made no recommendation there. The league recommended that voters write in the name of Edward E. Williams, Republican, in the Third District, but he received comparatively few votes. George F. Heege, Republican incumbent, who voted against registration for the county, was elected, with a vote of 4881, while Joseph C. A. Hiller, Democrat, got 2446, complete.

The vote for members of the County Court was: Presiding Judge, John Wiethaupt, who was seeking a sixth four-year term (R), 11,490, and Richard S. Smiley (D), 11,769, Associate Judge, First District, Fred C. Stille (R), 7240, and Daniel Sheerin (D), 8154; Associate Judge, Second District, John C. Steffen (R), 5618, and J. Thomas Wright (D), 2050. The league backed Sheerin and Steffen, who were elected, and Smiley, who apparently was elected.

The complete unofficial returns for County Clerk gave the Clean Election candidate, Edward Tiffin (D), a majority of two votes over Walter Miller (R), at present a Deputy County Clerk under William Seibel, a leading Essen lieutenant, the vote being 11,684 to 11,682. The return of 19 votes for Tiffin from Eureka precinct swung the balance in his favor. It is possible there were errors in the unofficial tabulations and a contest is likely for this office.

Miss Byrd Anne Yore of Clayton, an insurance agent, gave Henry Kirchner a close race for Circuit Clerk. She did not receive the Clean Election indorsement until after the Clean Election ticket, as an independent proposition, had been ruled off the ballot. She is a Democrat and Kirchner a Republican. She received 11,157 votes against 11,671 for Kirchner.

Adam Henry Jones, Democrat, backed by the league, beat Fred Mueller, Republican incumbent, by 383 votes in the race for Prosecuting Attorney, with all precincts reported. Mueller is regarded not as a machine candidate, but under machine influence.

The vote for Collector was: J. William Shields (R), retiring member of the County Court and Essen lieutenant, 10,810; John Fenton Rudder (D), league candidate, 12,014.

Arthur W. Schmid (R), incumbent, backed by the leageu for Recorder, received 15,464 votes. The vote for 70 precincts was 15,122 for Schmid and 7079 for Joseph Ellis Stevens (D). Sam D. Hodgdon (R), incumbent, received 15,600 votes in 70 precincts, and Clarence Lee Shotwell (D), 6839.

The only tabulation made so far in the races for Justices of the Peace and Constables was for Constable of Central Township. Constable Julius Schoenbein (R), machine leader, received 5677 votes, but E. L. Stanton (D), backed by the league, got 6092 and won.

TWO OF 19 PROPOSALS LOST IN ST. LOUIS VOTE

Majorities Returned Against Increased Pay for Legislators and Personal Injury Measure.

St. Louis returned majorities in favor of all but two of the 19 proposals submitted to vote at yesterday's election. The two which failed to carry here are No. 1, a proposed constitutional amendments, 14 measures compensation of members of the State Legislature from $5 a day for 70 days to $10 a day for 100 days, and No. 18, an initiative measure seeking to enact a State personal-injury law.

St. Louis voted in favor of the workmen's compensation law, passed by the last Legislature, but submitted to a vote by referendum, as proposal No. 11.

The vote on the 19 proposals is statewide, but there has been no tabulation of the vote on them in the rural counties, as a result of which the results probably will not be known until the official canvass of the vote has been made by the Secretary of State. The official tabulation is usually obtained about 10 days or two weeks after the election.

The Vote on Each.

The St. Louis vote on the three constitutional amendments, 14 measures submitted by referendum and two initiative proposals, follows:

No. 3	87,158	29,507

No. 5	67,640	45,313
No. 6	69,728	42,654
No. 7	70,717	42,653
No. 8	67,042	43,237
No. 9	64,490	45,879
No. 10	61,266	49,066
No. 11	76,227	38,068
No. 12	65,964	42,050
No. 13	60,274	48,952
No. 14	61,249	48,246
No. 15	60,437	48,989
No. 16	61,133	47,954
No. 17	61,750	47,219
No. 18	42,000	78,587
No. 19	60,527	45,213

What the Proposals Are.

Proposals Nos. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9 are the Hyde administration laws providing for consolidation of various state departments and for a State budget system. Proposals Nos. 10 and 17 are the circuit and congressional redistricting bills which were submitted to referendum. Proposal No. 19 is an initiative proposal seeking to enact a law providing new state senatorial districts. Proposal No. 3 is a constitutional amendment providing for maintenance of roads from funds derived from automobile licenses and Proposal No. 12 is the reference of the county unit school law.

WILSON, IN LETTER, CALLS REED "MAN WITHOUT A PARTY"

votes and his spurious nomination was due to Republicans who illegally participated in our Democratic primary.

"We have an anti-Reed organization laboring under disadvantages to bring about Reed's defeat at the polls. Many thousands of loyal lifelong Democrats throughout the State are opposing him and will vote for Brewster, the Republican candidate. Still we are satisfied that Reed will receive many thousands of Republican votes in St. Louis and Kansas City which may bring about his election. Many of our friends feel that we will be beaten; yet in the strange mixup I am unable to forecast the result of the fight. I feel that his election would mean the destruction of our organization in Missouri, and that it will have a serious effect upon the national situation.

"Large Majority With You."

"The result of the primary showed clearly that a large majority of Democrats of Missouri are with you, endorse your politics and favor the League of Nations.

"Senators Caraway and Robinson of Arkansas, Stanley of Kentucky, Shields of Tennessee and Walsh of Massachusetts are stumping the State in Reed's behalf. Stanley, in a recent speech at Salisbury, Mo., spoke very kindly and sympathetically of you and stated your great heart would be saddened if on the morning after the election you found that Reed had been defeated. I don't want to annoy you, but I am sure that if you are opposed to the election of Reed under the circumstances, and care to say so over your signature, it will go a long ways to help us in our war upon this renegade and imposter.

"I am very sorry to say that the Republican organization in St. Louis is not, seemingly, giving Brewster the support, as yet, to which he is entitled.

"Assuring you of my high personal regard, and trusting that your health is improving, I beg to remain,

"Cordially your friend.

"LON V. STEPHENS."

HERRIN SHERIFF WINS ELECTION AS COUNTY TREASURER

Officer, Who Was Severely Criticised by Grand Jury for Neglect, Appears to Have Led Ticket.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 8.—When the Williamson County Circuit Court convened at 10 a. m. today [illegible] the first of the Herrin [illegible] cases, [illegible] coming in from yesterday's election in the county indicated that Sheriff Melvin Thaxton had been elected [illegible] the [illegible] candidate on the county [illegible] the probability that [illegible] would not [illegible]. Thaxton [illegible] special grand jury [illegible] the indictments for neglect of duty [illegible] taking [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]

Continuance Refused.

The State announced ready. Kerr asked for a continuance to the next term of court on the ground that, on account of the large number of defendants and witnesses, there had not been sufficient time for preparation. Judge Hartwell refused a continuance, stating that the question had been fully gone into when the setting was made.

Judge Hartwell announced that the next step would wait upon a conference which the State had asked and ordered a recess of 30 minutes for the conference.

Immediately the defendants and their friends gravitated into groups and there was such a hubbub that the Judge reascended the bench and ordered that the "reception" cease, and cautioned the people to refrain from expressing feeling one way or another.

During the recess Kerr and Farrington were in close consultation at the counsel table. Farrington said he did not expect to remain throughout the trial, but would be present off and on.

Clark's home is at Weaver. He is a miner and farmer. In addition to the indictment in the present case, he is charged in eight other indictments with murder, in two with assault and two with conspiracy. Grace is a miner and lives at Marion. He is under six additional charges of murder, two of assault and two of conspiracy. Hiller is a miner and taxi driver of Herrin, who is under four additional charges of murder, two of assault and two of conspiracy. Carnagi is a Herrin miner with two additional charges of murder, two of assault and two of conspiracy against him. Mann is a Carterville laborer with four additional charges of murder, two of assault and two of conspiracy against him.

Case an Issue in Election.

There was fortuitousness and hint of drama in the setting of the cases on the day following the election which was more than anything else, a test of the county's sentiment which was expected to have a bearing on the riot trial.

The overshadowing issue in the election was the candidacy of Sheriff Melvin Thaxton for the office of County Treasurer and the question of his election turned upon his course of official conduct at the time of the killings. He was at that time a candidate for the treasurership and his failure to take steps to prevent the killing of the Lester strip miners was attributed to solicitude for the votes of the miners.

The miners were understood to be almost solidly for him, regardless of their politics. Local meetings are understood to have been held at which plans were made for getting out the full vote of the miners, and the women of their families. The sentiment in the agricultural sections in the southern and eastern parts of the county was understood to be against him, but the vote of the women in these sections was not so heavy. Opposed to him was George Calhoun, proprietor of a battery station in Marion.

Many on Venire Miners.

The venire which has been drawn from the jury box is 130. About 60 per cent of these are miners. The others are mostly farmers and business men. After these are exhausted it will be discretionary with the Judge whether additional names shall be drawn from the jury box or deputies shall be sent out to summon veniremen at random.

The prosecution is conducted by State's Attorney Delos Duty, assisted by Assistant Attorney-General Middlekauff and State Senator Otis F. G. Lenn of Murphysboro. The defense is conducted by A. W. Kerr of Springfield, chief counsel for the United Mine Workers of Illinois, assisted by George R. Stone, Rufus Neely and George B. White of Marion, A. C. Lewis of Harrisburg, R. T. Cook of Herrin and W. P. Zerber of Benton.

Ralph Lozier of Carrollton, Democrat, has a safe lead over the Rev. [illegible] of Moberly, Republican, in the Second.

Former Congressman Milligan is leading Congressman Lawrence in the Third and his election seems assured.

In the Fourth, the returns are not sufficient to indicate whether Congressman Faust, Republican, or William E. Spratt has been elected.

Former Mayor Henry L. Jost, Democrat, of Kansas City, has defeated Congressman Ellis, Republican, in the Fifth.

Former Congressman Dickinson, Democrat, apparently has defeated Congressman Atkeson in the Sixth.

In the Seventh, S. C. Major, former Congressman, appears to have defeated Representative Patterson.

With only 50 of the 222 precincts in the Eighth District missing, Mrs. St. Clair Moss of Columbia, the only woman nominee for Congress in Missouri, was trailing Congressman Roach, Republican, by more than 2409 votes. It is probable Roach was elected.

In the Tenth Congressman Newton, Republican, was re-elected.

In the Eleventh, Congressman Hawes, Democrat, was re-elected.

In the Twelfth, Congressman Dyer, Republican, was re-elected.

In the Fourteenth, James F. Fullbright, Democrat, apparently has defeated Congressman Hays.

In the Fifteenth, the race between Joseph Manlove, Republican, and Frank H. Lee, Democrat, both of Joplin, is close, the meager returns being insufficient to indicate the winner.

SEVEN ARRESTS MADE AT POLLING PLACES

One Man Held for Insisting on Helping With Count, Although Told to Depart.

Seven arrests were made yesterday at various polls in St. Louis, six of persons attempting alleged illegal voting and one for persistence in remaining in the polls during the count.

In addition to two arrests early in the day, the following were made later:

George Jaeger, 23 years old, of 2800 Gamble street, gave his name as Frank James of 1533 Franklin avenue at the polling place for Precinct No. 8 of Ward 5. He declared he sometimes had given his name as James, had resided at the Franklin avenue address and thus was entitled to vote. Police declared their inquiry showed he had not stayed at the Franklin avenue address recently.

In appearing at the polling place at 513 Pine street, Michael Fitzgerald of 2317 Olive street gave his name as George Hobbs. H. H. Durant of 819 Pine street, a challenger, declared he had known Fitzgerald for four years and under no other name than Fitzgerald.

At the same polling place Abe Forshaw gave his residence as the El Toro Hotel, 3 North Sixth street. It was found that he had moved to 1533 Franklin avenue. He said that he had moved only recently and was entitled to vote. At the El Toro Hotel it was said he had not lived there for some time.

Robert Bresnahan, 3635A Dodier street, attempted to vote at 2217 Franklin avenue, claiming residence at 2340 Wash street. Inquiry there brought the statement from a woman that shortly before the last registration day two men had called upon her and had asked to be permitted to give that number as their residence. She said she acquiesced when they said no trouble could come of it.

John H. Quinn, 4342 Duncan avenue, was arrested at the polling place at 4334 Clayton avenue at 11 p. m., at the request of a Republican challenger, who said Quinn insisted on remaining in the polling place and assisting with the count, though he had been asked to go.

NEGRO IS ELECTED JUSTICE OF PEACE

Crittenden E. Clark Will Be First of Race to Hold Such Position in St. Louis.

Crittenden E. Clark, a negro, Republican nominee for Justice of the Peace in the Fourth District, yesterday was elected to succeed Harry W. McChesney, who had failed of renomination. Clark is the first negro elected a Justice of the Peace in St. Louis, politicians say.

Eight of the 11 Justices of the Peace in St. Louis who sought reelection were successful. They are: First District, Harry J. Pfeiffer (R); Second District, Henry Pfeffle (R); Third District, Edward Rice (D); Fourth District Court No. 2, Joseph L. Schuler (R); Sixth District, James P. Miles (D); Seventh District, Frederick W. Beckman (R.); Eighth District, George Grassmuck (R.), and Ninth District, Williom O. Moore (R.).

In the Fifth District Claude W. Martin (R.) and E. J. O'Hare (D.) were winners. Neither William J. Blesse nor Andrew Gazzolo, present Justices of the Fifth District, were candidates for re-election.

The following Constables were elected:

First District, Edward J. Hoffmeister (R); Second District, Harry M. Lohmann (R); Third District, John J. Kennedy (D); Fourth District (two elected), Langston Harrison and Charles H. Turpin (R); Fifth District (two elected), Gabriel Roth (R) and William F. Canty (D); Sixth District, John F. Byrne (D); Seventh District, Henry Landwehr (R); Eighth District, Edward W. Klorer (R), and Ninth District, William C. Metz (R).

HERRIN SHERIFF WINS ELECTION AS COUNTY TREASURER

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 8.—When the Williamson County Circuit Court convened at 10 a. m. today to try the first of the Herrin massacre cases, returns coming in from yesterday's election in the county indicated that Sheriff Melvin Thaxton had been elected County Treasurer by the largest vote given to any candidate on the county ticket, with the probability that his majority would not be less than 2500.

Thaxton was criticised by the special grand jury, which returned the indictments, for neglect of duty in not taking adequate steps to prevent the disorders at the Lester strip mine on June 22, when three union miners were killed, and the massacre of the following day, in which 20 were killed. There was a heavier vote in the mining sections, where Thaxton ran ahead of the ticket, than in the agricultural districts.

Chief interest centered in Thaxton's race for the treasurership and in the race of Deputy Sheriff S. E. Storme for the County Clerkship. Storme also ran ahead of the other candidates on the county ticket.

Defendants Assemble Early.

Two hours before court opened, the 38 defendants named in the indictment, who were out on bond, began assembling in the courtroom. They soon filled a bench inside the rail extending across the courtroom, and the late arrivals found seats among their friends outside the rail. The eight men held without bond were not brought into court until after Judge Hartwell ascended the bench, by which time the courtroom was well filled. The defendants and their friends chatted and joked as they waited for court to open.

State to Move for Dismissals.

It was known that the State would move for the dismissal of all but a few of the defendants in the present case, with a view to facilitating selection of a jury and trial of the case, deferring the trials of the others under other indictments which rest against them.

Before court convened A. W. Kerr, chief counsel for the defense, said every one ofr the defendants who had been out on bond was on hand and that they would have been on hand if they had not been under bond. He declined to make any statement about his plans for the trial of the case, or whether he would oppose the motion to nolle pros part of the indictments, but said he and Frank Farrington, president of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, would make statements later in the day.

When Judge Hartwell entered at 10 o'clock and rapped for order there was no response to his call for the sheriff or a bailiff and court was not convened with the usual "Oyez," the Judge proceeding to call forward the first 30 of the men on the jury panel.

Frank Farrington Present.

Frank Farrington came in a few minntes later and caused such craning of necks and commotion that Judge Hartwell had to rap for order. There was renewed confusion when the eight men held without bond were brought from the jail, exchanging greetings with friends.

When Judge Hartwell called the attorneys to the bench to discuss the setting arrangements, Farrington went with them and stood listening while the dispositions were made.

Continuance Refused.

The State announced ready. Kerr asked for a continuance to the next term of court on the ground that, on account of the large number of defendants and witnesses, there had not been sufficient time for preparation. Judge Hartwell refused a continuance, stating that the question had been fully gone into when the setting was made.

Judge Hartwell announced that the next step would wait upon a conference which the State had asked and ordered a recess of 30 minutes for the conference.

Immediately the defendants and their friends gravitated into groups and there was such a hubbub that the Judge reascended the bench and ordered that the "reception" cease, and cautioned the people to refrain from expressing feeling one way or another.

Mann is a Carterville laborer with four additional charges of murder, two of assault and two of conspiracy against him.

11 MISSOURI SEATS IN CONGRESS SEEM WON BY DEMOCRATS

Number May Be Increased to 13 or 14 — Republicans Apparently Have Elected but Three.

On early returns, the Democrats seemingly have elected 11 Congressmen in Missouri, and the Republicans three, with two seats doubtful. On the face of these returns 11 of the 16 Missouri seats in Congress seem certain to go to Democrats, and the number may be increased to 13 or 14.

In the Congress elected two years ago, 14 of the 16 from Missouri were Republicans, and only two were Democrats. If the present figures are borne out by complete returns the Missouri delegation will stand about as it usually stood before the Republican landslide of two years ago.

Romjue Leads Millspaugh.

Early returns give former Congressman Romjue, Democrat, a strong lead over Congressman Millspaugh, Republican, in the First District.

Ralph Lozier of Carrollton, Democrat, has a safe lead over the Rev. E. Y. Keiter of Moberly, Republican, in the Second.

Former Congressman Millgan is leading Congressman Lawrence in the Third and his election seems assured.

In the Fourth, the returns are not sufficient to indicate whether Congressman Faust, Republican, or William E. Spratt has been elected.

Former Mayor Henry L. Jost, Democrat, of Kansas City, has defeated Congressman Ellis, Republican, in the Fifth.

Former Congressman Dickinson, Democrat, apparently has defeated Congressman Atkeson in the Sixth.

In the Seventh, S. C. Major, former Congressman, appears to have defeated Representative Patterson.

With only 90 of the 222 precincts in the Eighth District missing, Mrs. St. Clair Moss of Columbia, the only woman nominee for Congress in Missouri, was trailing Congressman Roach, Republican, by more than 2400 votes. It is probable Roach was elected.

In the Tenth Congressman Newton, Republican, was re-elected.

In the Eleventh, Congressman Hawes, Democrat, was re-elected.

In the Twelfth, Congressman Dyer, Republican, was re-elected.

In the Fourteenth, James F. Fullbright, Democrat, apparently has defeated Congressman Hays.

In the Fifteenth, the race between Joseph Manlove, Republican, and Frank H. Lee, Democrat, both of Joplin, is close, the meager returns being insufficient to indicate the winner.

BERGER ELECTED TO CONGRESS THIRD TIME FROM WISCONSIN

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 8.—Representative elect Victor L. Berger, for the third time, is Wisconsin's choice for Congress from the Fifth District. Twice elected to Congress and both times refused his seat, Berger, following his defeat two years ago by William H. Stafford, Republican, made a fourth campaign, turning the tables on Stafford by an apparent comfortable majority.

As leading Socialist in Wisconsin, Berger's election came as the result of the quietest campaign his party has made in the history of Wisconsin Socialism. Repeal of the State prohibition enforcement law and adoption of a number of amendments to the State Constitution to permit acquisition of property by the State, where the chief issues advanced in the Socialist platform.

SEVEN ARRESTS MADE AT POLLING PLACES

One Man Held for Insisting on Helping With Count, Although Told to Depart.

Seven arrests were made yesterday at election polls in St. Louis, six of persons attempting alleged illegal voting and one for persistence in remaining in the polls during the count.

In addition to two arrests early in the day, the following were made later:

George Jaeger, 23 years old, of 2800 Gamble street, gave his name as Frank James of 1533 Franklin avenue at the polling place for Precinct No. 8 of Ward 5. He declared he sometimes had given his name as James, had resided at the Franklin avenue address and thus was entitled to vote. Police declared their inquiry showed he had not stayed at the Franklin avenue address recently.

In appearing at the polling place at 513 Pine street, Michael Fitzgerald of 2317 Olive street gave his name as George Hobbs. H. H. Durant of 819 Pine street, a challenger, declared he had known Fitzgerald for four years and under no other name than Fitzgerald.

At the same polling place Abe Forshaw gave his residence as the El Toro Hotel, 3 North Sixth street. It was found that he had moved to 1533 Franklin avenue. He said that he had moved only recently and was entitled to vote. At the El Toro Hotel it was said he had not lived there for some time.

Robert Bresnahan, 3635A Dodier street, attempted to vote at 2217 Franklin avenue, claiming residence at 2340 Wash street. Inquiry there brought the statement from a woman that shortly before the last registration day two men had called upon her and had asked to be permitted to give that number as their residence. She said she acquiesced when they said no trouble could come of it.

John H. Quinn, 4342 Duncan avenue, was arrested at the polling place at 4334 Clayton avenue at 11 p. m., at the request of a Republican challenger, who said Quinn insisted on remaining in the polling place and assisting with the count, though he had been asked to go.

NEGRO IS ELECTED JUSTICE OF PEACE

Crittenden E. Clark Will Be First of Race to Hold Such Position in St. Louis.

Crittenden E. Clark, a negro, Republican nominee for Justice of the Peace in the Fourth District, yesterday was elected to succeed Harry W. McChesney, who had failed of renomination. Clark is the first negro elected a Justice of the Peace in St. Louis, politicians say.

Eight of the 11 Justices of the Peace in St. Louis who sought reelection were successful. They are:

First District, Harry J. Pfeiffer (R); Second District, Henry Pfeffle (R); Third District, Edward Rice (D); Fourth District Court No. 2, Joseph L. Schuler (R); Sixth District, James P. Miles (D); Seventh District, Frederick W. Beckman (R.); Eighth District, George Grassmuck (R.), and Ninth District, Williom O. Moore (R.).

In the Fifth District Claude W. Martin (R.) and E. J. O'Hare (D.) were winners. Neither William J. Blesse nor Andrew Gazzolo, present Justices of the Fifth District, were candidates for re-election.

The following Constables were elected:

FREE MEDICAL RADIO SERVICE AVAILABLE FOR SHIPS AT SEA

United Fruit Company Establishes Service—Messages Take Precedence Over All Others Except SOS Signals.

The United Fruit Co. announces the inauguration of a free medical radio service from its hospitals in the various countries of Central America and from its passenger steamships to all ships at sea. So far as the United Fruit Co. and its subsidiary companies are concerned, this service is available without charge to ships of all nationalities through the following radio stations operated by the United Fruit Co. or the Tropical Radio Telegraph Co.

All United Fruit Co. passenger steamships carry doctors and free medical service may be secured by radio from any of them by a radiogram addressed "Ship's Doctor" followed by the name of the steamship.

This free medical service is established primarily for the benefit of ships not carrying doctors. However, should occasion require, ships' doctors may hold consultation by radio with the United Fruit Co. ships' doctors and hospital staffs.

The physicians and surgeons comprising the medical staff of the United Fruit Co. and its subsidiaries are thoroughly qualified, but in view of the fact that radio medical advice to ships at sea is given free and without an opportunity for a personal examination of the patients, by them no responsibility will be assumed by either the company and its subsidiaries or the physicians or surgeons giving the advice as to its accuracy or for error in the receipt or transmission of any message sent or received in connection therewith.

"DH Medico" radiograms will be given preference over all other radiograms, excepting S O S calls, throughout the radio service of the United Fruit Co. and subsidiary companies.

EWSTER APPARENTLY CARRIES KANSAS CITY

the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Sen- Reed trailed R. R. Brewster by 9 votes today with 46 precincts out 339 in Kansas City and rural kson County yet to be heard m. The 343 precincts which had orted up to the middle of the rning gave Brewster 50,284, Reed 865. This upset all precedent, as Reed managers had claimed Kansas City and Jackson County for ir candidate by 20,000 to 25,000. Many and widely varying ex- nations are offered for this d reverse in his own home n, which at the same time is the e town of Brewster. Reed has n in politics here as a petitioner the suffrage of Kansas City dur- most of the 30 years he has been Missouri, having asked for votes Prosecuting Attorney, Mayor, vernor of Missouri and United tes Senator. Each time previous- the clans have rallied under the h of Democratic faction leaders to l up handsome pluralities for him.

Ku Klux Klan a Factor.

Some say that opposition to Reed the Ku Klux Klan, which fought Senator outspokenly, cut the ed vote here. Others have been kind enough to say that the Kan- City folk finally have learned at sort of person Reed is and that y liked their other neighbor, ewster, better. Brewster's pledge hold the Eighteenth Amendment d supporting legislation inviolate o is accredited as a reason for his ength here. Personal interroga- s yesterday indicated large num- s of women voting for the Repub- ns.

Practically the entire Democratic nty ticket has been elected here contrast to the almost clean Re- blican sweep of the county under landslide conditions of Novem- , 1920. One of the successful mocrats was Miss Sarah Lucille rner, elected to the State Legisla- re from the Sixth District of Jack- County over a Republican male ponent.

Congressman Ellis Defeated.

Henry L. Jost, former Mayor of nsas City, has defeated Congress- an E. C. Ellis of the Fifth Con- essional District for re-election, l precincts giving Jost 45,632; El- s 38,717. Jost is running well ad of Reed.

Both Reed and Brewster have re- sed to comment in detail on re- turns, Reed having elected to await ore complete figures and Brewster ating merely that he is confident will be elected.

Reed was presented with substan- l majorities by all of the Demo- atic machine-controlled wards, but se do not cast as many votes rel- ively under conditions prevailing re now as formerly, while the sidence wards, where Brewster ran ong, are larger. Little election dis- er occurred here, the machine utenants having apparently ac- pted the dictum of the Police and lection Boards that no "rough uff" would be tolerated. Brewster rried his home ward, the Fourth, 2 to 1.

The strength of the klan at the lls here is said to be indicated by e 11,996 votes received by Glen L. uener, independent candidate for Circuit Court, who was indorsed the klan but had little other cking. This showing is as against ,108 votes for Circuit Judge Buck- r, Democratic incumbent, and ,047 for Spellman, Republican, on e basis of 237 city precincts.

(Copyright, 1922.)

MANCHESTER, Nov. 8.—Things re going from bad to worse in Eu- ope, and we are only beginning to alize how serious it is, H. G. Wells, Labor candidate for the London Uni- versity seat in the House of Com- mons, told Lancashire graduates of the university yesterday.

"First, in Russia we saw modern civilization broken down, then Aus- tria and now Germany," he said. The outward and visible sign of is creeping death of our civiliza- n is the collapse of the currency stem.

"The immediate problems the war eated were those of getting a ague of nations and facing the pre- posterously burdensome debts be- tween nations and between individ- als. The Labor party is the party st likely to attack these problems a large and competent manner."

EARLY MARRIAGES IN VOGUE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Early marriages are the vogue in Minneapolis, according to Carl E. Bruce, Deputy Clerk of the District Court, who writes many of the marriage licenses obtained at the Court House.

Within the last year, Bruce said, 20 per cent of the licenses issued have authorized the marriage of girls 18 years old. The others range, he said, for the most part, around 20 years. The men are frequently 21 and not infrequently under that age. Before the war, according to veteran clerks in the office, most brides and bridegrooms were around 25 years old.

JAPANESE "WETS" ACTIVE

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 24.—To the casual observer there would not appear to be any chance of Japan following the United States and going "dry," but the distillers of sake and brewers of beer, the latter now almost as much a national drink as the former, are taking no chances. A nation-wide campaign has been inaugurated in which speakers from the colleges and universities dilate on the beneficial qualities of sake and beer.

Dr. Suzuki, a well known chemist, is delivering a series of lectures among the titles of which are: "Evils of Hypocritical Propaganda;" Sake After My Impressions of America," and "Prohibition and Japan."

MISSOURI'S ONLY NEGRO LEGISLATOR DEFEATED

Walthall M. Moore, Lawyer, Loses in Third (St. Louis) Legislative District.

Walthall M. Moore, the only negro who ever sat in the State Legislature of Missouri, who was elected two years ago in the Republican landslide, was defeated for re-election in the Third (St. Louis) Legislative District, which apparently has elected two Democratic and two Republican legislators.

This district was formerly the Sixth, but in the redistricting was changed to the Third.

Moore is an attorney and lives at 3035 Pine street. As a legislator he introduced and secured the passage of a bill converting Lincoln Institute into a university, with a $500,000 appropriation; also a bill creating a negro inspector of negro schools. In the extra session he introduced an anti-lynching bill. In the Fifty-first General Assembly he was a member of the Committees on Eleemosynary Institutions, Teachers' College and Permanent Seat of Government.

He was born at Marion, Ala., May 1, 1881. He attended public schools and Howard University at Washington, D. C. He came to St. Louis in 1896 and was married in 1911. He was a clerk in the St. Louis postoffice and later in the railway mail service. While thus employed, he began the study of law and helped to organize the first incorporated negro steam laundry in Missouri.

PUMMELED BY WOMEN VOTERS

Line in Front of New York Polling Place Resents Man's Remark.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—"Women in politics make me sick," ruminated Eugene Komanski, dry goods merchant, as he surveyed the line of feminine voters in front of a polling place on upper Broadway. The next thing Komanski knew he was in a West Side court, his face bruised and scratched, his clothes torn and collar missing, answering a charge of disorderly conduct, preferred by one of the women.

"The worst of it is," said Komanski, after he had told his story and been dismissed by the court as sufficiently punished already, "they called me a 'Big Tammany cheese,' when I'm a straight Republican."

MEN BIND WOMAN IN OFFICE AND ROB SAFE OF RECORDS

LAWSUIT EVIDENCE REPORTED MISSING

Manager Gives Name of Former Employe to Police—Woman Says Pair Threatened Her With Death.

Miss Dorothy Carrington, 26 years old, of 1681 Missouri avenue, was found at 9:30 a. m. today bound and gagged and tied with wire to a radiator in a room back of the office of the J. C. Crowdus Realty Co., 1618 Chestnut street, where she is employed as bookkeeper and cashier.

When able to make a statement, two hours later, at the city hospital, Miss Carrington told detectives that two young men, about 5:15 p. m. yesterday, entered the office and, drawing revolvers, demanded the books of the company.

Threatened With Death.

She said she at first refused the request, but when threatened with death, told the men the books were in the safe, which was not locked. The men, she added, thereupon took her into the rear room, commanded her to lie down and then gagged her with a towel and bound her wrists, ankles and hair with wire to a steam radiator and the legs of a bench.

She said she heard the men remove books and papers from the safe and start a fire in a heating furnace in another room, and then go to the basement. Becoming faint from the harrowing situation, Miss Carrington said, she lost consciousness and does not know what occurred after the men went to the basement. Her next recollection of events was when she was restored at the city hospital today.

J. A. Crowdus, manager of the concern, said the books and records of the company had been taken from the safe and either stolen or destroyed in the furnace, and that $10, the only money in the safe, had been left untouched.

Contained Law Suit Evidence.

Crowdus gave the police the name of a former employe, and said that the stolen records contained important evidence that he expected to introduce in prosecution of a law suit that he recently had filed.

the Uni tedS¼ ¼ ¼ ¼

At the city hospital it was said that Miss Carrington's condition was not serious; that she had not been injured or attacked, and had suffered mostly from shock. She usually closes the office about 5 o'clock, Crowdus said, and he left her alone there about 4:55 p. m. yesterday.

Charles Angert, 2561A North Market street, a mail carrier, discovered Miss Carrington's plight when he delivered mail there this morning, and notified the police.

MISS ROBERTSON DEFEATED BY MAN SHE WON OVER IN 1920

Six of Oklahoma's Eight Congressional Seats Are Captured by Democrats.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 8.—Six of Oklahoma's eight congressional seats went to Democrats in yesterday's election and this morning it appeared that a Democrat would be elected in one of the two doubtful districts remaining.

The three Democratic Representatives from the State—Charles D. Carter, Third District; F. B. Swank, Fifth District, and Jim McClintic, Seventh District—were re-elected. Republicans were unseated in three districts. In the Second District W. W. Hastings, Democrat, defeated Miss Alice Robertson, the only woman in the Sixty-seventh Congress. Hastings, after serving three terms, was beaten by Miss Robertson by 228 votes in 1920, when the Republicans won five districts in Oklahoma. It was the same story in the Fourth District. Tom D. McKeown, Democrat, who was unseated in 1920 by Joseph C. Pringey, defeated Pringey this time.

The Eighth District has always gone Republican. M. C. Garber, who defeated Manuel Herrick, the "aerial daredevil" of Congress for the Republican nomination, had a lead over Zach Harris, but the race was too close on returns available to warrant prediction of Garber's election.

"They counted me out two years ago, but at the end of three days they decided I was elected, after all," she said.

Judge's Life Threatened.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 8.—Threats of death if he persisted in meting out jail sentences to liquor law violators caused Judge Page Morris to announce that more drastic punishment was in store for violators of the prohibition law. At least three anonymous letters have been received by him and turned over to postal authorities. A few weeks ago Judge Morris announced intention to jail liquor law violators. Thus far he has sent 96 men to jail for terms of from 25 days to seven months.

PRESIDENT GETS ELECTION RETURNS OVER SPECIAL WIRE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Surrounded by members of his Cabinet, several high officials of the administration and a half dozen close personal friends, President Harding received election returns last night in his study in the White House.

Bulletins were received at the executive offices over a special Associated Press wire and sent directly to the President. Other wires brought reports from Republican leaders in the various states.

The executive, taking advantage of the election-day dullness in the governmental departments, was playing golf when the first returns from Massachusetts arrived during the afternoon.

Mrs. Harding, who, although confined to her bed, convalescing from her recent illness, manifested deep interest in the progress of the campaign, was informed from time to time of the results. The President often directed that bulletins showing a definite trend in the count be taken to her room and several times acted as messenger himself.

HUNT, DEMOCRAT, NAMED GOVERNOR OF ARIZONA

By the Associated Press.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 8.—Election of the Democratic ticket Congressmen was practically assured on the face of partial returns from 12 out of the 14 counties in Arizona early today.

The election of Senator Henry C. Ashurst and Congressman Carl Hayden by safe majorities was indicated.

Supporters of Gov. Thomas Campbell, seeking re-election, early today conceded the election of G. W. P. Hunt, Democrat. Hunt's plurality in the State will be between 4000 and 5000, scattering returns indicated.

Denies Story of "Six Notches."

By the Associated Press.

ARDMORE, Ok., Nov. 7.—The widow of "Bud" Ballew, famous peace officer and gun fighter of the Southwest, who was slain last spring at Wichita Falls, Tex., appeared at a local newspaper office yesterday and exhibiting the weapons as proof, denied reports that one of the two pearl-handled "six-shooters" which "Bud" wore at the time of his death bore six notches. She said she wished to correct the erorneous impression which originated from the report that the notches stood for six men who met death at "Bud's" hands.

Are you among these thousands?

THOUSANDS of people keep on trying, year after year, to build health from food that has been robbed of certain elements required for perfect nutrition.

If your food doesn't contain the mineral properties that go to build up nerve, tooth and bone structure, there is no other means by which you can get these vital elements.

This is one reason why so many well-informed people eat Grape-Nuts—the food that enriches the blood, and builds sound, healthy bodies.

Grape-Nuts is made from whole wheat flour and malted barley—baked for 20 hours, which develops the natural richness of the grains and makes for ready digestibility.

And Grape-Nuts is perfectly delicious—served with milk or cream, or made into an appetizing pudding for dinner.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET APPEARS TO HAVE WON IN NEVADA

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 8.—The entire Democratic State ticket with the possible exception of mine inspector was elected yesterday on the face of incomplete returns compiled today.

Senator Key Pittman's re-election as United States Senator by the Democrats is believed to be assured by a majority of about 2500. Charles Leychards is expected to win over Grant Miller for Congress by a safe margin, although Col. James G. Scrugham has a closer fight for the governorship with John H. Miller, but appeared today to have been elected by about 1000.

The present divorce law, with its six months' residence provision, remains undisturbed by yesterday's voting, despite the hard fight made by the Right Rev. George C. Hunting, Episcopal bishop of Nevada, to change the law to require a year's residence.

Republican Re-elected in Alaska.

By the Associated Press.

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 8.—Early returns from scattered precincts in southeast and central coast points indicate the re-election of Dan Sutherland, Republican incumbent, as delegate in Congress over E. J. (Stroller) White, Democrat, by a two to one vote. The entire Republican legislative ticket in the first division also probably was elected, the returns indicated.

Pronounced Quake Recorded.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A pronounced earthquake was recorded last night at the Georgetown University seismographical observatory, tremors beginning at 6:11 p. m. and continuing until 7:10 p. m. The center of disturbance was estimated to have been 4600 miles south of Washington.

EDWARDS WINNER BY 85,000 IN NEW JERSEY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 8.—Hit by a wave of antiprohibition sentiment, United States Senator Frelinghuysen, close personal and political friend of President Harding, met defeat by at least 85,000 in his race for re-election. His opponent was Gov. Edward I. Edwards, who, running on a platform advocating modification of the Volstead act, had the support of what is probably the strongest and most resourceful Democratic organization this State has ever known.

Former State Senator Runyon, Republican candidate for the governorship, was defeated by former Circuit Court Judge Silzer, also a Democratic organization candidate, and running on the same wet plank, by approximately 45,000. It now seems likely that the State's delegation of 12 in the House of Representatives will be equally divided between the two parties.

R. Wayne Parker, who has served many years in the House, with two interruptions of short duration, was among the Republicans to suffer defeat. The present New Jersey delegation has 11 Republicans and one Democrat.

From the opening of the campaign prohibition was accepted as the big issue. Frelinghuysen had voted for both the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, and in his campaign he declared his support for prohibition and its enforcement. Frelinghuysen, Runyon and the Republican congressional candidates unquestionably suffered from an adverse reaction in the State on the new tarif act, the anti-soldiers'-bonus attitude of the administration and the support given to Senator Newberry, but all these seemed to be secondary to the desire of the voters to express a protest against prohibition. The women of the State in large numbers rallied to the support of the Republican drys, but their efforts were ineffectual.

DIVORCE GRANTED TO MRS. BRUEGGEMAN

Chairman of Federal Commission Awarded Decree on Charge of Desertion.

Miss Bessie Parker Brueggeman, of 501 Clara avenue, chairman of the United States Employes' Compensation Commission, with offices at Washington, today was granted a divorce from Albert H. Brueggeman, 45 years old, formerly of St. Louis, whose present address, Mrs. Brueggeman said, is unknown to her. She charged desertion.

Brueggeman was president of the St. Louis Refractories Co., and left St. Louis suddenly on March 24, 1921. It was said at that time that he had gone to Mexico on a business mission. G. Parker Toms, Mrs. Brueggeman's son by a former marriage, succeeded Brueggeman as president of the refractories company.

Mrs. Brueggeman testified that she was married to Brueggeman at Clayton Jan. 27, 1899, two years after the death of her former husband. She said Brueggeman deserted her without cause and that he has not since communicated with her, nor does she know of his whereabouts. She added, in response to a question, that, as far as she knew, his moral character was good.

Mrs. Roger Generelly, 5206 Waterman avenue, and Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, 4951 Lindell boulevard, were character witnesses for Mrs. Brueggeman. Judge Jesse McDonald represented her and Judge Garesche heard the case.

Mrs. Brueggeman is a daughter of the late George W. Parker, once a railroad official, who was the Republican nominee for Mayor of St. Louis in 1901 against Rolla Wells. It was in this campaign that Mrs. Brueggeman, who accompanied her father on his circuit of speechmaking, acquired her first experience in politics.

She later was active in the civics section of the Wednesday Club and in the Civic League. After women were enfranchised she was elected Republican Committeewoman from Missouri and later became a member of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee. In 1920 she contributed $1000 to the Republican campaign fund and made speeches in Missouri for the National and State ticket. In October, 1921, she was appointed by President Harding to the Government Employes Compensation Commission, with offices at Washington, at a salary of $4000 a year.

FRENCH SENATE EXPECTED TO VETO WOMAN SUFFRAGE BILL

(Copyright, 1922.)

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Senate is expected to veto the woman suffrage bill, despite a great appeal made yesterday by newly elected Senator Viviani. The bill was voted on by the chamber three and a half years ago, but the Senate has blocked it, declaring that the 1924 elections would be turned upside down if women, who are one-third again as numerous as men in France, were given the vote. Some fear that women would be violent reactionaries is held by the church, while some quarters see them developed into the reddest bolshevists.

Women will probably be given the right to vote at municipal elections, but not more. The press has been entirely favorable to giving the women the vote, as it is believed a change would vitally affect depopulation and alcoholism. But it cannot be said the vast majority of French women have departed from their consistent indifference in the matter.

KILLING OF MAN FOLLOWING HOLDUP IS HELD JUSTIFIABLE

Verdict Returned By Coroner's Jury Investigating Death of Frank Laczney, Alias Lynch.

A Coroner's jury today returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the death of Frank Laczney, alias Lynch, 26 years old, of 435 North Twentieth street, who was shot and killed on Nov. 4 by John Lindner, 1329 Blair avenue, after a holdup of a gambling game at 1401 Blair avenue.

Witnesses testified that Laczney was one of the three men who held up the game and that Lindner shot him as the three robbers made for a passageway at 1405 Blair avenue. John, a brother of Lindner, who lives at the same address, testified that his brother had fired at Laczney only after the three robbers had refused to halt and had opened fire on him.

John described the shooting. He said Frank's wife had told him that men were holding up the game, which was at the home of Edward Scheidler across an areaway from the Lindner home. He and his brother, Frank, ran down and tried to stop the three men's escape. In the exchange of shots, John was wounded in the hand. The jury's verdict was that John had shot in self-defense.

Coroner's Jury Holds Chauffeur.

Manuel Kowalsky, 26 years old, 1926 Franklin avenue, a chauffeur, was held by a Coroner's jury today on a charge of careless driving after an investigation of the accident on Nov. 4 at Jefferson avenue and Rutger street in which two boys were killed. The boys, Paul Addison, 13 years old, 2317 Park avenue, and Jerrell Smotherman, 8, of 1405 Missouri avenue, were riding on a bicycle. A truck driven by Kowalsky ran into them.

FATHER GILFILLAN'S CONSECRATION SERVICE

New Cathedral Rector Formally Becomes Bishop Coadjutor of St. Joseph.

The Rev. Father Francis Gilfillan, rector of the St. Louis Cathedral, was consecrated as Bishop Coadjutor of the diocese at St. Joseph, Mo., with impressive ceremony today at the New Cathedral, Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue. He received the appointment from the Pope on July 8 last.

Archbishop Glennon, acting as consecrator, officiated at the ceremonies, assisted by Bishop Lillis of Kansas City and Bishop Byrne of Galveston, who was made a Bishop at the New Cathedral four years ago, the only other consecration of a Bishop at the New Cathedral. Archbishop Glennon was also celebrant of the high mass at which the Rev. F. G. Holweck, pastor of St. Francis de Sales Church assisted.

Six Visiting Bishops.

Six visiting Bishops—Bishop Harty of Omaha, Althoff of Belleville, Tihen of Denver, Keane of Sacramento, Tief of Concordia and Schwerdtman of Wichita—attended the ceremony. Seminary students preparing for the diocese of St. Joseph attended in a body, and a number of priests from the St. Joseph diocese were present.

The New Cathedral, with a seating capacity of approximately 2800, was filled, with several hundred persons standing in the rear of the church and in the balcony.

The Very Rev. M. S. Ryan, who preached the sermon, traced the growth of the Catholic Church in Missouri and particularly in St. Louis.

Deacons of honor were P. Carney, of Moberly, and a Benedictine father from the monastery of Conception, Mo. Deacon of the mass was the Rev. James Coffey of St. Leo's Church, with the Rev. Walter Tucker of Webster Groves as subdeacon. Chaplains to the Rev. Gilfillan were the Rev. Peter O'Rourke of St. Mark's Church and the Rev. John Lyons of St. Pius Church. The music was directed by William Diebels and Sylvester Tucker, and the Cathedral choir with 50 boys and 20 men rendered a musical program of Gregorian chants.

Details of Ceremony.

Three processions—priests, Bishops and officers of the ceremony—entered the Cathedral from the Lindell boulevard entrance, wearing the regalia of the church. The ceremony was in three parts—the preliminary examination, the consecration and the investure. In the first part Father Gilfillan gave his oath of submission to the Pope, and professed categorically his belief in different matters of faith that have been particularly attacked, especially the doctrine of incarnation. The papal bulls were read in the consecration proper and he pledged himself to perform various matters of Episcopal duty. Father Gilfillan received the crozier from Archbishop Glennon, who also placed the ring with its amethyst setting on his finger. Only Bishops are permitted to wear rings of this nature. The offering of two candles joined together, a gilded loaf and a silver loaf and a gilded barrel and a silver barrel was made by the Rev. Gilfillan.

Following the ceremony a banquet, attended by a number of priests and laymen, was held in the school auditorium.

Father Gilfillan is 50 years old, a native of Ireland, and was educated in St. Patrick's College, Carlow, and in the Catholic University of Washington. He was ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Kain in St. Louis in 1895, and he has been stationed in the New Cathedral parish since Oct. 15, 1896, serving 26 years here. He was appointed pastor in 1907 after serving as assistant successively to Father J. J. McCaffery and Father P. F. O'Reilly.

Career of Father Gilfillan.

He has served as a member of the board of directors of Kenrick Seminary and as a member of the Board of Synodal Examiners. He celebrated the silver jubilee of his priesthood in June, 1920. He has been given much credit for having helped Archbishop Glennon make the New Cathedral a possibility.

A Bishop coadjutor has the right of succession on the death of the Bishop whom he assists. Father Gilfillan will serve as coadjutor to Bishop M. F. Burke, who is 77 years old.

UNDERWOOD TO QUIT AS HEAD OF DEMOCRATIC SENATE MINORITY

Alabaman Says Condition of Health Makes Step Advisable After March 4.

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 8.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama yesterday formally announced that he will not be a candidate for leadership of the Democratic minority in the Senate after March 4.

"The condition of my health," said the Senator, "makes it advisable both in justice to the party and to myself that I should not offer myself for re-election. I do not want my friends to feel any unnecessary alarm about my health, but it is not robust enough for me to continue after March the duties of leadership which require such constant attention."

Upon reaching home from Washington recently Senator Underwood was attacked by bronchitis and had to cancel his speaking engagements. His term as Senator from Alabama extends four years from next March.

AT DEATH'S DOOR

"Ten years of stomach trouble reduced me to a living skeleton. I had attacks of pain that doubled me up like a jack-knife and I was as yellow as a gold-piece. No medicine or doctors helped me, and was really at death's door. A lodge brother advised me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and I found it to be the only medicine to touch my case." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. EAST ST. LOUIS CARRIED SOLIDLY BY DEMOCRATS

Large Majorities for Soldiers' Bonus and Light Wine and Beer State Amendment Proposals Registered.

TWO WOMEN RUN BEHIND TICKET

Ralph Cook, Nominee for State's Attorney of St. Clair County, Polls Highest Total, With 9532.

Complete returns from the 61 precincts in East St. Louis show that the Democratic candidates carried the city solidly and that large majorities were returned in favor of the proposals for the soldiers' bonus bond issue to amend State laws so as to permit manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

There were 11,596 in favor of amending the State prohibition laws and 2432 against amendment. The total in favor of a soldier' bonus was 11,609, with 2844 in opposition. The proposals, to carry, must receive a majority of all votes cast. The total vote in East St. Louis was 16,350 out of a total registration of 19,105. The prohibition vote is regarded merely as an expression of sentiment, as it does not affect Federal laws.

Ralph Cook, of East St. Louis, Democratic nominee for State's Attorney of St. Clair County, led his ticket with 9532 votes. He is a son of Silas Cook, now Judge of the East St. Louis City Court and former Mayor.

Edward E. Miller, Republican nominee for Congressman from the Twenty-second District, led the Republican ticket in East St. Louis, his home, with 6979 votes. He is State Treasurer and was for many years secretary to Congressman William A. Rodenberg, whom he seeks to succeed.

Women Run Behind Ticket.

Two women on the Democratic ticket, Mrs. Jo Evans, nominee for Clerk of the Probate Court, and Nelle M. Farthing, nominee for County Superintendent of Schools, ran behind their ticket in East St. Louis, where both reside, although each carried the city.

The total vote in East St. Louis for the Republican and Democratic tickets follows:

For State Treasurer—Oscar Nelson (R.) 6839, Peter Bartzen (D.) 7799.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—Francis G. Blair (R.) 6794, James A. Murphy (D.) 7565.

For Representative in Congress, Twenty-second District—Edward E. Miller (R.) 6989, Edward E. Campbell (D.) 7867.

For State Senator—R. E. Duvall (R.) 6277, Eugene W. Kreitner (D.) 8002.

For State Representative—James W. Rentchler (R.) 7540, Thomas L. Fekete Jr. (R.) 8471, Frank Holten (D.) 14161, William A. Murphy (D.) 12,599.

For Probate Judge—Frank Perrin (R.), 6767; George F. Wombacher (D.), 7458.

Belleville Gives Republicans Majorities for County Offices.

Returns from 15 of the 17 precincts in Belleville showed majorities for Republican nominees for St. Clair County offices, a 10 to 1 vote in favor of light wines and beer and a 2 to 1 vote for a State bonus for soldiers.

Sheriff Martin Schnipper, Republican nominee for re-election, received 3684 votes, as against 2253 for Charles Arbogast, Farmer-Labor nominee, and 1033 for John Barry, Democratic nominee.

Edward E. Miller of East St. Louis, Republican nominee for Congress, received 2279 votes, as against 1580 for Edward Campbell of Alton, Democrat.

H. C. Lindauer, Republican nominee for State's Attorney, received 6662 votes in 46 precincts of the county, including the 15 Belleville precincts, compared with 3312 for Ralph Cook of East St. Louis, Democratic nominee.

Ross Adams, Republican nominee for County Treasurer, received 5081 votes in 42 out of 67 precincts, including 13 Belleville precincts. His Democratic opponent, Richard Wangelin, received 4214.

DR. RAVENEL URGES CHANGE IN HEALTH BOARD FUNCTIONS

Elimination of Force-Wasting Detail Work Advised by Missouri University Department Head.

GIVES ILLUSTRATION OF MODEL PROGRAM

Plan Worked Out for City of 100,000, With Budget of $194,000, Outlined by Speaker.

Dr. M. P. Ravenel, head of the Department of Preventive Medicine at the University of Missouri, in a lecture on tuberculosis yesterday afternoon, advised reorganization of the State Board of Health so as to eliminate a number of functions which he says do not properly fall within its province.

The lecture was the first of a series to be presented by the Tuberculosis Society of St. Louis and was given at the Melbourne Hotel.

Dr. Ravenel took the position that the State Board of Health is wasting force in attention to detail along lines which do little or nothing to advance the true purpose of such a body. He declared that the supervision of medical examinations for young doctors, the control of public nuisances and the prosecution of food adulterators are duties that should be removed from the board's jurisdiction.

"Of Secondary Importance."

"These branches of activity do not affect the public health directly, and hence are of secondary importance," Dr. Ravenel said. "While the presence of garbage pits and slaughter houses endangers the public welfare, no one has ever caught a disease from them. They are nuisances which should be controlled by local authorities. The State Board should not be bothered with them.

"I do not believe it is the proper function of a board of health to give medical examinations. Fully half the time of our State body is occupied with this sort of work.

"Nor are food adulterants longer considered a great danger to health. Most of the adulterated foods sent to the board have no health significance whatever. The food adulterator is a cheat, and should be controlled by legal forces.

"Particularly these three responsibilities should be removed from the Board of Health and assigned to other agencies. The board is so cluttered up with comparative nonessentials that it has no time for the real work to be done."

Gives Model Program.

As an illustration of what he holds to be the model program for a State health board, the lecturer cited a plan worked out by the American Public Health Association for a city of 100,000 inhabitants.

The ideal board was organized as follows:

Administration—This department is to supervise public health education.

Bureau of Sanitation—This bureau is to handle engineering problems which have a direct bearing on public health.

Division of Foods—In this department the work of milk inspection and a general supervision of food preparations is to be conducted. Methods chiefly are to be dealt with.

Bureau of Communicable Diseases—This department is to carry on the work with contagious or infectious maladies. A special subdivision is to handle the problem of tuberculosis.

Bureau of Child Hygiene—This department is to be the supervisor of work with expectant mothers and also to direct school hygiene.

Bureau of Nursing—Training and management of public nurses.

Laboratory—To carry on research work in public health subjects.

Vital Statistics—A department to keep books on the public health.

Budget of $194,000.

Dr. Ravenel said that the budget for such a board in such a city would total $194,000. Of this amount $83,000 is to be set aside for nurses and $111,000 used for all other purposes.

Dr. Ravenel criticised the various departments of national health services. He mentioned that the United States Public Health Service was under the Department of the Treasury, that the census was under the Department of Labor, and that diseases of animals, which are akin to human diseases, were studied in the Department of Agriculture. It was Dr. Ravenel's opinion that the various divisions which deal with health problems should be co-ordinated under one department.

In his discussion of tuberculosis Dr. Ravenel stated that most medical opinion agrees upon the generality of tuberculosis infection. About 98 per cent of mankind have tuberculosis in a mild form at one time or another, he said. Proper modes of life, a robust constitution and a vaccination which most persons develop prevent a world epidemic of the disease, Dr. Ravenel explained.

"Dumb Cane," of Legendary Use in Punishing Criminals, Exhibited at Flower Show

Its Stem, When Eaten, Rendered Evil-Doers Speechless Several Weeks—Other Plant Curiosities Are Shown.

Plant curiosities are exhibited today in the autumn show of the St. Louis Flower Show Association in the Coliseum by the Missouri Botanical Gardens.

One of the curiosities is a shoot from the great cypress tree of Santa Maria del Tule, Mexico, regarded as the oldest living thing upon this planet, recent tests indicating the tree to be approximately 5976 years old. This tree was described in the Post-Dispatch Magazine of last Aug. 13.

Another is a seedling from the Daniel Boone judgment elm at Femme Osage, Mo.; still another, a giant redwood seedling and one from the redwood's Australian rival, the eucalyptus, which attains a height of 500 or 600 feet.

"Ant-loving" Plants.

There are two "ant-loving" plants among the curiosities, one an acacia, which provides horns in which certain ant species make their home. Their coming and going, like that of human beings, drags particles of dirt into the home and the nitrogenous properties given off from the dirt is the staff of life of the plant. The second "ant-lover" is a West Indian orchid (the cow's horn), whose large pseudo-bulbs are hollow like a cow's horn and are equipped with small trap doors which give ingress and egress to the ants who, failing to wipe their feet, bring in collections from the outside on which the plant subsists.

Another collection is of insect-eating plants—the Venus fly-trap, which squeezes venturesome flies to death and then surrounds their bodies with a peptic fluid which decomposes them into digestible food for the plant, and the pitcher plant, whose nectar in the bottom of its pitcher-like bulb holds a liquid entrancing in odor to insects and into which they plunge and drown.

Plant Used in Punishment.

There is a specimen also of South American "dumb cane." The legend of this plant is that it was used for the punishment of criminals among South American Indians. The stem of the plant, when ground up and eaten, produced a swelling of the tongue which in turn induced an inability to speak lasting sometimes several weeks, depending on the amount of the cane eaten. The plant now is quite commonly used for ornamentation because of its variegated leaves.

Another in the exhibit is the sensitive plant, whose leaves close when touched and which must be seen in daytime, because at night the plant is folded up in slumber. Still another is the telegraph plant, so named from the fact that at the base of each large leaf is a pair of tiny leaflets which move up and down like semaphores in a block signal system.

Carnations took their places upon the show benches today for review by the judges and lifted livid heads to vie with the chrysanthemums, with which the show opened yesterday.

So entrancing were the long tables of huge single-stem chrysanthemums that few visitors yesterday paused at the entrance beside the "daddy of the show," the lowly original chrysanthemum, which grows like a weed along Chinese highways. A solitary plant of the original ray flower, something like the American daisy, with blooms scarcely an inch in diameter, is installed just at the right of the entrance. From it has sprung all the gorgeousness that covers the large arena—even the prize winning monster exhibition Japanese single stem, whose shaggy head measures a circumference of 28 inches, a diameter of 12 inches and a thickness of 10 inches. Its evolution is a story of constant striving during the century that has elapsed since the introduction of the original Chinese flower to England.

Much of the striving has been to increase the size of the bloom and its gorgeousness, but now similar effort is bent toward dwarfing the flower. The collection of 25 dwarf plants being exhibited by Elmer C. Smith of Adrian, Mich., is one of the chief features of the show to those horticulturally intelligent.

Through the years of its rise, the chrysanthemum has been poorly adapted to house culture because of its rangy, rough stem, attaining a scraggly height seldom less than three feet. Smith, through five years of experimentation, has checked the stem growth in a fashion to produce a squat, bush-like plant, without sacrificing the flower. In fact, he simultaneously has increased the number of blooms and molded their contour into button-like pompons of dainty exquisiteness. His "Baby Doll" and "Bright Eyes", diminutive blooms, are in the eyes of many as rare as the giant exhibition single stems.

Nehring Praises the Show.

Prof. Arno H. Nehring of Cornell University, upon completing his duties of judging the chrysanthemums last night, remarked: "It was my privilege this year to see the national show at Indianapolis, the annual Chelsea show in London and the hundredth anniversary show in Berlin. In my opinion none of those excelled this show in the quality and rarity of the specimens exhibited nor in general attractiveness."

The judges conferred the silver medal of the Society of American Florists and Ornamental Horticulturists, the large national body of florists, for the best flowering plant not heretofore exhibited in the United States, upon the new water lily, Mrs. George H. Pring, produced by George H. Pring, horticulturist of the Missouri Botanical Garden. As previously described in the Post-Dispatch, the Pring lily is the largest day-blooming white tropical lily yet created.

Roses, including the Mrs. Warren G. Harding, a new creation, will take their place in the show tomorrow. Exhibition hours are 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m. The show will close Sunday night.

ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS SWEEP COOK COUNTY

All Except One Republican Supported by Chicago Mayor Defeated, but Other Party Leads in State.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—While the Republican State ticket polled a safe majority in the election yesterday, a Democratic landslide in Cook County, which includes Chicago, swept all of the Republican candidates supported by Mayor William Hale Thompson, with one exception, to defeat.

Illinois' $55,000,000 soldiers' bonus referendum and the light wine and beer proposition were sweeping the State on the face of early returns.

The wine and beer referendum resulted in a 3-to-1 victory for the wets.

MAYFIELD ELECTED TO SENATE FROM TEXAS

Former Ku Klux Klan Member Overwhelmingly Defeats Independent Opponent.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 8.—Earle B. Mayfield, Democrat, overwhelmingly defeated George E. B. Peddy, Republican and independent Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, in the general election yesterday. Mayfield's vote this morning stood 167,139, against 70,039 for Peddy. These figures were reported by 211 counties out of 251, and it was estimated they accounted for at least half, if not more, of the total vote cast.

Gov. Pat M. Neff was re-elected, his majority over W. M. Atwell, Republican, from the 211 counties, being 132,510. Gov. Neff's vote was 162,209 and Atwell's 29,699.

Republican Congressman Chosen.

The returns also indicated re-election of Harry Wurzbach of San Antonio, only Republican Congressman, in the Fourteenth District. His opponent was Harry Hertzberg. Congressman J. J. Mansfield, Democrat, of the Ninth District, was re-elected despite the Republican effort to defeat him.

Mayfield's victory follows one of the most bitterly contested political disputes in the history of the State. His avowed opponents started, after Mayfield's victory in the second Democratic primary, a hectic campaign to keep his name off the ballot, charging erroneous expense returns. There followed a multitude of court proceedings.

KLANSMEN HALT PLAY TO PRESENT CASH TO Y. W. C. A.

PACKAGE CONTAINING $845 HANDED OVER

Letter Also Given to Mrs. William McFadden, President, Who Was Called From Audience.

Four masked men, in full regalia of the Ku Klux Klan, interrupted the first act of a Y. W. C. A. benefit performance at the East St. Louis High School auditorium last night by marching to the stage, summoning Mrs. William McFadden, president of the association, from the audience and presenting her with a package which, it was later learned, contained $845 in currency and a letter directing that the money be placed in the association treasury.

After the four men had departed the play was continued in spite of curtailment, Miss Cecile Coombs, superintendent of music in the East St. Louis public schools, who was the soloist, refusing to continue with her part.

Substance of Letter.

The letter was read by Lou Chacken, a member of the cast. In substance the latter said: "The Eye of the Invisible Empire is upon you. It has seen the good work of the Young Women's Christian Association and the Klan wishes to be enrolled as a member. Please accept this contribution to the finances of the Y. W. C. A."

Just before the conclusion of the performance Chacken again addressed the audience, thanking the friends of the association who had assisted in its drive for funds. He added that the association is "always glad to receive help from any other worthy organization regardless of race, creed or color."

Taken by Surprise.

Mrs. McFadden said she was completely surprised by the visitation and at first did not know whether to accept the gift or to refuse it. Persons in the audience also were uncertain what attitude to take. Tension was lessened after the first act when a little girl loudly remarked, "Oh, Mamma, weren't you scared?"

Miss Sara Curry, playing the leading feminine role, and Frank Daly, the hero, were in the midst of an ardent love scene when the masked men walked upon the stage. In astonishment they discontinued acting and proceeded under strain after the men had departed. The play was "The Cameo Girl." Mrs. Paul M. Horner, who conducts an elocution class at St. Teresa's Academy, was in charge.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS SHOWN IN SEVERAL WESTERN-STATES

Republican Incumbents Defeated in Arizona and Oregon Gubernatorial Contests.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 8.—Democratic gains were made in several Western states in yesterday's election, both in the Congressional and gubernatorial races.

Arizona and Oregon elected Democratic Governors in place of Republican incumbents. In Montana, New Mexico, Oregon and Utah, though the figures from three of the states, which are sparsely settled, were far from complete, Democrats were in the lead for congressional places now held by Republicans. Hawaii, for the first time, elected a Democratic delegate to Congress.

The Ku Klux Klan figured in the concede defeat of Ben W. Olcott, Republican incumbent, for the Oregon governorship and in the apparent defeat of Thomas Lee Woolwine, Democratic candidate for the California governorship. Both had denounced the klan in warm terms. It also figured in the apparent success of a compulsory public school attendance law in Oregon.

California split on the prohibition issue, the same electorate which voted against Woolwine, avowed supporter of light wines and beer, giving a heavy lead against a statewide prohibition enforcement measure. Simultaneously, in San Francisco, a subtantial lead was given, in figures compiled early today, to a measure designed to perhit lights wines and beer, were that possible under national laws. This was intended as an expression of opinion by the public, according to those responsible for its obtaining a plave on the ballot.

TURK PLANS CAN'T BE TOLERATED, LORD CURZON SAYS

British Foreign Secretary Declares Situation in Near East Constitutes Greatest Menace to Peace.

ASSERTS ALLIES ARE IN FULL ACCORD

Referring to Reparations, He Says He Will Not Be Party to Arrangement for Evasion by Germany

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—The Angora Government has reiterated its demand for the evacuation of Constantinople and the removal of the allied warships, according to information from authentic quarters here today. The Nationalist authorities declared the presence of the allied troops and warships are incompatible with the Kemalist administration at Constantinople.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Foreign Secretary Curzon in an address today declared that the position in the Near East at this moment "constitutes the most definite menace to the peace of the world." He asserted that the Turkish pretensions were without justification and could not be tolerated.

"There is only one way whereby you can make peace," declared Lord Curzon, "and that is by absolutely harmonious action between the principal Powers. * * *

"In the last 24 hours, however, events have dealt a rather rude shock to the expectations of the allies from the Mundania conference and the forthcoming conference at Lausanne.

"The policy of the Turks is one of nationalism gone wild, and is almost suicidal in its character.

"The pretentions of the Turks cannot be tolerated. They have no conceivable justification. They are an affront to the allies and a challenge to Europe.

"Allies in Absolute Accord."

"There is absolute accord between the allied generals and high commissioners on the spot. . . . Turkey must learn that there is a limit to the concessions which we are willing to make her. We cannot purchase peace at the cost of humiliation and of disgrace.

"Turkey must learn that the strength of Great Britain and the might of Europe are a rock against which she will hurl herself in vain."

Lord Curzon said the recent Turkish action was complete and was by largely fictitious agitation among the Indian Moslems representing this country as hostile to Islam. The Turks had themselves done the very things Great Britain was represented as aiming at.

"If we are returned to power," he added, referring to the coming parliamentary elections, "I shall wish to take up the question of reparations, the Near East and Tangier.

The German Reparations.

"I shan't be a party to evasion by Germany of any just obligations; I won't save her at the expense of our old ally (France), but I will try to be fair between the two. I am hopeful that we will be able to arrive at a conclusion by peaceful means. . . .

"I hope the new Italian Premier will go to Lausanne and that I shall have the pleasure of meeting him there."

A special cabinet meeting was called this afternoon to consider the Near Eastern crisis. General, the Earl of Cavan, chief of the imperial general staff, was summoned to the meeting.

State of Siege, if Necessary, Authorized to Keep Order in Constantinople.

By the Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 8.—The allied commissioners in Constantinople have been given full authority to declare a state of siege or take any other measures to preserve order.

This was the response of the allied governments to the cabled requests of the high commissioners for permission to take complete and speedy action. It is now certain that the allied authorities here will deal with any attempts at disturbance or infringement of the Mudania convention in a drastic manner.

British, French and Italians are as one in their determination to check the powerful movement which the Kemalists have set in motion. The British have at no time since the intentions of the Turkish Nationalists were made evident relaxed to the least degree their vigilance, and now French warships are about to proceed here or are on their way to strengthen the allied authority.

Greek Consul Reports Massacre by Turks at Caesarea.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—A message from the Greek Consul-General at Beirut, according to the Greek legation here, says that the Turks have burned Greek prisoners in the concentration camp at Caesarea and massacred the Christian inhabitants of that city. Eight Greek officers, the Consul-General adds, were shot by order of Kemal Pasha on the charge of breaking the rules for prisoners.

Britain Asks for Postponement of Lausanne Conference.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The British Government, in a communication which Lord Hardinge, the Ambassador, presented to Premier Poincare last evening, has requested a postponement of the Lausanne conference to Nov. 27 because of the British elections. Although the French Government has not yet replied, it was indicated at the Foreign Office that the Premier would oppose such a long delay, but might consent to a shorter one, Nov. 20 being mentioned. The original date fixed for the conference was Nov. 13.

OPINION OF COURT HOLDING MINIMUM WAGE FOR WOMEN IN CAPITAL UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Measure Should Be Accomplished by Amendment, Judges Declare—Case, in Which Tribunal Reverses Itself, to Be Appealed.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia in June, 1921, by a two-to-one vote, decided that the district minimum wage law, applying to women and minors, was constitutional. The same court by a two-to-one vote has just decided that the law is unconstitutional. Whether the court was right in June, 1921, or in November, 1922, will be determined by the Supreme Court of the United States. In the meantime, about 12,500 persons in the district whose wages have been fixed by the Minimum Wage Board face a prospect of reductions if their employers see fit to take advantage of the current ruling. Legal officers of the district have begun the preparation of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court and will seek to have the case brought to an early decision.

The minimum wage law was passed by Congress in 1918 after a fight in which Senator Reed, declaring the law unconstitutional, was a leading figure. Another Missourian, former Gov. Joseph W. Folk, now a lawyer at the capital, is identified with the case as attorney for the Children's Hospital, on whose suit attacking the validity of the law the two conflicting decisions of the Appellate Court were handed down.

Different Complexions of Court.

Folk argued the case at its first trial and again after a rehearing had been granted. The suit sought to enjoin the Minimum Wage Board from enforcing an order requiring the Children's Hospital to pay its women employes not less than $16.50 a week, or $71.50 a month.

The first decision, in favor of the law, was rendered by Chief Justice Smyth, with Justice Stafford concurring and Justice Van Orsdel dissenting. Justice Stafford, who is regularly a member of the District Supreme Court, was at that time sitting temporarily on the Appellate bench in the absence of Justice Robb, who was ill. After Justice Robb had returned to the bench, the Children's Hospital succeeded in getting a rehearing of the case. Robb voted with Van Orsdel against the law, with Chief Justice Smyth dissenting.

The court's reversal of itself is the subject of a bitter arraignment by Smyth in his dissenting opinion. After reviewing the various moves in the case, the Chief Justice says: "It would seem that the appellants, finding themselves defeated, sought a justice who had not sat in the case, but who, they beleved, would be favorable to them, and enticed him, by an appeal directed to him personally, to assume jurisdiction and join with the dissenting justice in an attempt to overrule the decision of the court. I shall not attempt to characterize such practices—they speak for themselves."

Holds Latest Decision Is Void.

Smyth contends that Justice Robb had no power to displace Justice Stafford in the settlement of the case. He points out further that the law requires that three justices shall sit in the Court of Appeals, and contends that in this case four justices have acted. Therefore he holds that the decision invalidating the law is itself invalid.

Justice Van Orsdel, author of the majority opinion in the second instance, asserts that "no greater calamity could befall the wage earners of this country than to have the legislative power to fix wages upheld."

"It would deprive them," the opinion continues, "of the most sacred safeguard which the Constitution affords to take from the citizen the right to freely contract and sell his labor for the highest wage which his individual skill and efficiency will command. The laborer would be reduced to an automaton—a mere creature of the State. It is paternalism in the highest degree, and the struggle of the centuries to establish the principle that the State exists for the citizen and not the citizen for the State, would be lost."

Declaring the question relates to the general power of Congress to fix wage contracts between private individuals, the opinion proceeds: "If Congress may establish a minimum wage for women, it may establish a maximum wage, or it may name a fixed wage. If it may regulate wages for women, it may, by the exercise of the same power, establish the wages to be paid men. The power of Congress to fix wages between private individuals is either constitutional or unconstitutional. There is no leeway for legislative or judicial discretion.

"Other Angles" in Case.

"A fundamental principle is involved, and it does not lie in the courts to declare a law fixing the wages of women constitutional and a law fixing the wages of men unconstitutional. The moral stimulus in the one instance is no greater than in the other. If higher wages are essential to preserve the morals of men, this leads to another angle. If the law is to be equitably enforced, it requires a most careful and judicious inquiry by the board into living conditions—the cost of rent, clothes, food and recreation. If the power, therefore, exists to fix wages the power must likewise be conceded to fix the prices of all commodities entering into the determination of an equitable wage. In no other way can justice be accorded. The wage fixed for an employer to pay his employe cannot be justified, if based upon the unrestrained prices which the employe may have to pay the merchant for food and clothes, or the landlord for rent. The logical result of such a course relegates the whole matter of prices of the realm of legislation.

"The liberty protected by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution included the freedom of contract and the right to contract with relation to one's business.

Freedom of Contracts.

"Chief among such contracts is that of the personal employment, by which labor and other services are exchanged for money or other forms of property. If this right be struck down or arbitrarily interfered with there is a substantial impairment of liberty in the long established constitutional sense. The right is as essential to the laborer as to the capitalist, to the poor as to the rich; for the vast majority of persons who have no other honest way to begin to acquire property, save by working for money.

"The public safety and welfare may justify the Legislature in limiting the hours of labor in mines and other hazardous industries and require safeguards to be employed in conducting dangerous occupations. Such regulations, however, affect only the mode of operation and do not invade the domain of prices. They are wholly distinguished from the purely economic question of how much the employer shall pay the employe for his services. In one case the business conducted is so inherently dangerous that its regulation as to methods of operation becomes a valid exercise of the police power.

"The public health and safety demand not that the business be confiscated, not that proprietorship therein be curtailed or limited, not that the economic control thereof may be in the least affected, but that the business be so conducted that the public health and safety may not be seriously endangered.

"Should Come by Amendment."

"Legislation tending to fix the prices at which private property shall be sold, whether it be a commodity or labor, places a limitation upon the distribution of wealth and is aimed at the correction of the inequalities of fortune which are inevitable under our form of government, due to personal liberty and the private ownership of property.

"These principles are embodied in the Constitution itself, and to interfere with their freedom of operation is to deprive the citizen of his constitutional rights. In other words, regardless of public sentiment or popular demand, such a radical change, if deemed necessary, should not be accomplished by legislative enactment or judicial interpretation, but by way of amendment in the orderly way provided."

STATE SENATOR GRAY'S DEFEAT BY DEMOCRAT IS BIG UPSET

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CARTHAGE, Mo., Nov. 8.—The greatest upset in the election in Jasper County was the defeat of State Senator Howard Gray by A. L. McCawley, Democrat, of Carthage. With returns incomplete, McCawley is leading by more than 500 and indications are that incoming returns will increase his lead.

Gray was Speaker pro. tem of the State Senate and was the Republican leader in pushing through Gov. Hyde's program. McCawley also aided the Governor, drafting the consolidation bill and others which fell under Democratic displeasure and were blocked by the referendum petitions which McCawley opposed. Gov. Hyde appointed McCawley to the State Tax Commission, but the Senate refused to confirm him.

Gray has been a Republican leader in Jasper County for 35 years and had come to be regarded as invincible. The Democrats also elected three members to the State House of Representatives from Jasper County.

MINE BLAST DEATH TOLL REACHES 80 IN PENNSYLVANIA

INVESTIGATION INTO CAUSE IS PLANNED

Gas Was Ignited Possibly by an Open Lamp — Practically Certain 112 Men Were in Mine at Time.

By the Associated Press.

SPANGLER, Pa., Nov. 7.—The Reilly Coal Co.'s mine, swept by a gas explosion Monday morning, was cleared of its dead yesterday.

Rescue crews yesterday afternoon brought out five bodies, believed to be the last in the workings. This brought the total of those known to be dead to 80. Thirty-two miners were rescued.

112 Were in Mine.

Officers of the company declared that a recheck of their records made it practically certain that 112 men were in the mine when the explosion occurred. The total of listed survivors includes six miners who were in the cage when the flood of gas and smoke issued from the mouth of the shaft. The total dead includes the three miners, rescued alive, who failed to regain consciousness.

Further search of the headings was made last night. Mine officers and rescue men realized the possibility that one or two men might have entered the mine yesterday without reporting to their bosses. All miners listed as missing have been accounted for, however.

The quiet precision which marked removal of the bodies to the morgue was evident as preparations for the funerals got under way. Identified bodies were removed from the morgue as quickly as they were claimed. Company officials notified widows and relatives that they will take charge of funeral arrangements if desired.

Funerals of Some Today.

A number of bodies will be buried today. Most of the victims were Roman Catholics and their pastors, who figured conspicuously in relief activities, arranged to conduct the last rites of the church in two small cemeteries where a number of volunteers are digging graves.

Preliminary to an investigation to determine, if possible, the cause of the explosion, mine experts spent considerable time in the workings yesterday. They confirmed declarations previously made by company officers that the men who escaped from the headings owe their lives to the fact that force of the explosion found a double outlet.

When the gas was ignited, possibly by an open lamp, the flame roared out through the fan house, while the gas and smoke traveled through the main heading in the other direction and shot to the surface through the shaft. The consequence was that little debris was dislodged and miners who were conscious were able to stagger toward the fresh air zone at the sixth heading, where they were found by the first rescue party.

BROOKHART WINS IOWA SENATE RACE

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 8.—Smith W. Brookhart, Republican, has been elected United States Senator from Iowa over Clyde L. Herring, Democrat. Returns from 1083 precincts out of 2348 in the State make it appear that he will be victor by a majority of about 175,000. The vote in 1083 precincts: Brookhart, 195,650; Herring, 120,050.

Brookhart was fought by an element of leaders in his own party because of his alleged radicalism.

Gov. N. E. Kendall has been reelected over J. R. Files, Democrat, by the usual large plurality.

The proposal to issue $22,000,000 state bonds to finance a state soldier bonus was adopted by an affirmative vote of landslide proportions. There is an even chance one of Iowa's next delegation to the Lower House of Congress will be a Democrat. In the Second Harry E. Hull, Republican incumbent, is leading Wayne G. Cook, Democrat.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Father Wilbur Elucidates.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ON Sunday night at the first of this season's meetings of the Open Forum, Mr. Clarence Darrow and the undersigned debated the question "Is Life Worth Living," and the debate was excellently reported in your paper. However, for the benefit of those who read the report but who were not present at the meeting, who know nothing of the character of the Community Forum and its audiences, and who may have been puzzled by certain remarks of my own, may I be permitted to make the following statement:

The line I took upon this occasion was strictly calculated upon: (1) The rules of the Forum. (2) The topic for debate, as formulated by the executive board. (3) The character of my opponent and our audience. (4) And for that matter, the general incapacity of miscellaneous audiences anywhere and at any time to follow metaphysical demonstrations, an incapacity which is unhappily all the greater even among cultivated people after some 300 or 400 years of false popular philosophy.

In view of all four of these circumstances I was precluded from presenting the metaphysical arguments for the existence of God and for the immortality of the soul; arguments which I regard as in themselves valid and cogent, and which would have, of course, settled the whole question at issue in an indirect fashion. Under the circumstances I was obliged to base my plea for the worth of life upon the actual or possible spiritual experience of the average man in this world. My whole argument presupposed, was implicitly based upon, and was entirely consistent with, the ordinary Catholic teaching concerning "actual" and "habitual" grace, the distinction between the "natural" and "supernatural orders," and the necessity of the three "supernatural virtues of faith, hope and charity" for a good and salutary life. But none of these matters, if one excepts a certain allusion to the "light of faith," was mentioned or could have been under the circumstances profitably discussed by me.

Fortunately for them and for this world, quantities of men seem to be, by the grace of God, living the life of "faith, hope and charity" without having much of any intellectual comprehension of what these virtues mean. How this can be will be understood by any Catholic who understands Catholic teaching concerning "the universality and sufficiency of Divine Grace," "the baptism of desire," "perfect contrition," "invincible ignorance," and the very important distinctions between those articles of the faith which are necessary by a "necessity of means" and those which are necessary only by a "necessity of precept."

It was to the spiritual experience of such unknowing members of the "soul of the church" that I was obliged to appeal on Sunday night in order to vindicate the worth of life, reminding them that to dutiful, self-controlled, kind, heroically patient and enduring souls, there comes a vision, "through a glass in a dark manner" or to translate the original text literally, "through a mirror in a riddle," as St. Paul says: A vision obscure, but certain, of the worth of life; a vision which is at once a foretaste of and an initiation into, eternal life.

RUSSELL J. WILBUR.

P. S.—If anyone cares to say that the above is a shining example of the large amount of more or less indispensable technical philosophical and theological baggage which the Catholic Church has accumulated in her long journey through 19 centuries, he is at perfect liberty to do so. It is also an example of the fact that no intellectually short and easy solution exists of the mystery of life.

Hasty Car Crews.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM entering a protest against the United Railways of the city of St. Louis, in behalf of the citizens living west of King's highway. This evening on a Southampton car I happened to be a passenger, and am a regular one of the "cattle tribe" order daily, and not only ride once or twice a day, but usually make the rounds on an average of at least five or six times. What I wish to state is: Can there be no remedy to compel cars to wait at an intersecting car line, such as King's highway and Arsenal streets, and take on the passengers, from one line or the other, especially when both cars are at a standstill at this junction?

Now at exactly 8:40 o'clock I alighted from a southbound Southampton car, and a Tower Grove car was at a standstill on the east side of King's highway, and instead of the Tower Grove car waiting, not to exaggerate, the lapse of 30 seconds, which would have accommodated me and several others, and would have placed us at least 20 minutes further toward our homes—we could only stand and suffer, due to the negligence of the U. R.

Tax Exemption for Soldiers?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SEVERAL months ago I read an article in the paper that Harry Hawes made a statement that ex-soldiers were granted certain exemptions from taxation. I now ask Mr. Hawes, through the Post-Dispatch, to state specificially just what these exemptions are.

NORMALCY REPUDIATED.

One of the greatest political reversals in American history was recorded in yesterday's vote.

Not only were there sweeping Democratic gains all over the country, but wherever the issue was raised the voters condemned prohibition. The most remarkable reversal was that in New York, where former Gov Smith was elected Governor by a plurality of 400,000 votes and the Democrats carried the United States senatorship and won 13 seats in the House of Representatives. Democrats elected Senators in New Jersey, Maryland, Missouri and at this writing were leading in Indiana and North Dakota. The returns are not sufficient to show fully the sweep of the Democratic victory, but indicate a tremendous Republican loss in Congress, where the Republican majority is almost, if not quite, wiped out.

Missouri returns to the Democratic column with the congressional delegation practically where it was before the landslide of 1920. The indications are that the Republicans have elected only three congressional candidates.

While the Democratic State ticket swept Missouri, the indications are that Senator Reed ran behind his ticket everywhere except in St. Louis and the counties where the German-American voters predominated. With over 1300 precincts to hear from he was leading by about 50,000 votes, more than 40,000 of which came from St. Louis.

The election was a smashing blow against Republican reaction and the intolerance and hypocrisy of prohibition. Tariff robbery was condemned overwhelmingly. Volsteadism was knocked out wherever the voters got an opportunity to hit it.

AN INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS COURT.

A. C. Bedford, chairman of the American section of the International Chamber of Commerce, announces that that body has completed plans for establishing an International Court of Arbitration for the settlement of commercial disputes. The new court is to be a private agency. It will have no official relation with any government or governmental institution. Its authority will derive from the good will of litigants who are in honor bound to abide by its awards without appeal.

The idea of this court, Mr. Bedford explains, originated, first, in the successful experience of the United States Chamber of Commerce in adjusting commercial differences and, second, in the need, long recognized in international trade, of a tribunal where issues of this character could be heard and passed upon quickly, competently and equitably.

Besides adjusting differences the court will undertake the constructive work of "promoting friendly trade intercourse and furthering more complete understanding among the peoples of the world." The personnel of the court, naturally, will be such as to inspire confidence. The outstanding business men of the nations, or men distinguished in public service, will serve as officers. In disputes experts will be named as arbitrators. The court, from its headquarters in Paris, will start out with the support of the business men of twenty-six nations. Without dissenting from Mr. Bedford's explanation as to the court's origin there can be no doubt that the parent of the idea is the League of Nations. It seems, too, as if this private business agency might, in practical effect, be a valuable auxiliary of the League of Nations in its capacity to adjust questions which, otherwise, either would be referred to the League or would germinate differences that eventually would have to be passed upon by the League. The root cause of wars, it is agreed, is economic, and a court of such vast jurisdiction that composes commercial difficulties may well become an economic prophylactic of inestimable value.

The world moves. The "parliament of man" may still be beyond the vision of eminent personages in every land, but evolution cannot be stayed by such obstructionists. The physical unity of the world comes on apace, and an inevitable corollary of physical unity is intellectual and moral unity. The fact is written, not only in the stars, but in the prosaic ledgers of the nations—in the statistics of imports and exports—that every nation is an integral part of the world. As such it must perform its partner's share in maintaining the world's friendly trade relations—that is to say, the world's peace and prosperity.

WAR-MAKING CONSTITUENCIES.

Paris is quite dismayed over the conduct of Kemal Pasha in demanding the immediate allied evacuation of Constantinople in disregard of the Mudania conference agreement. The defenders of the Nationalist leader explain that he is being pushed by the extreme Nationalists. No explanation in defense of the leader, however, can mitigate the effect of his policy, which is to imperil all the settlements, past and pending, for the pacification of the Near East.

The defense of Kemal on the ground of pressure from his constituents serves again to extinguish an illusion which had been cherished during and since the war; namely, that governments and not peoples were the makers of war. We have had a chance repeatedly since the armistice to observe that, though political leaders may harangue and incite, it is the people themselves who finally authorize international belligerency and intolerance.

Lloyd George secured his continuance in the premiership by agitating the crushing of Germany through impossible reparations, a platform which has embarrassed and bedeviled him ever since. France overthrew Millerand because he was beginning to listen to the voice of reason on reparations, and Poincare sailed in on a platform of blind Germanophobia. Italy's supernationalists, though now apparently diluted with disguised socialists and reds, have been a force for pell-mell international aggression. In America we have our Reeds and Hearsts to inflame the Irish and Germans against Great Britain and the latter to cultivate hatred and suspicion of Japan.

The real popular interest, of course, is peace with all nations. But too many people, alas, are not educated to resist the appeals of oratorical and journalistic flatterers and demagogues. The reform of diplomacy, of course, is necessary for the protection of peace, but diplomacy will not reform until the public requires it to do so. The need for popular peace propaganda throughout the world is still without limit.

THE HOUSE OF BONDAGE.

Once more the lurking chemical demons of the underground have taken a heavy toll from among the men who labor there to provide those above with fuel. The somber tragedy of Spangler is as old as the mining industry. With all its progress, science has been unable to erect effective safeguards against the silent, unseen and treacherous enemy of the coal miner. The sword of Damocles still hangs ominously over the heads of the men who supply us with heat, transportation, light and power.

Only a few days before the disaster, a committee of investigators from New York, reporting on the condition of other Pennsylvania coal miners, declared that "men are driven harder than ever an Egyptian Pharoah drove his slaves." Worse, those who rebelled were driven from their homes with a brutality comparable to that attending the expulsion of the Israelites from Egypt. Mothers dying from exposure, children starving in hen houses, were sketched in as high lights of this desolate panorama.

The connection between, and the conclusions from, the two tragic stories are obvious. The people of the United States simply will not much longer permit such treatment to be meted to people who labor in the shadow of death to provide an indispensable necessity of life. We must have coal. Somebody must mine it. Certain individuals are willing to perform that dangerous and dirty task. It follows inexorably that they should receive not poor, but the very best treatment, indeed, and a rate of compensation compatible with the risks and disadvantages of the job.

CONCERNING BANKS AND BANKERS.

(Selections from the book, from which, in "This Freedom," Rosalie's "excessively orderly mind gets sudden direction"—to quote Prof. Heller's interesting review.)

1.

A man of large wealth, however intelligent, always thinks, more or less—"I have a great income, and I want to keep it. If things go on as they are I shall certainly keep it; but if they change I may not keep it."

2.

We must not think we have an easy task when we have a difficult task, or that we are living in a natural state when we are really living in an artificial one. Money will not manage itself, and Lombard street has a great deal of money to manage.

3.

In consequence all our credit system depends on the Bank of England for its security. On the wisdom of the directors of that one Joint Stock Bank it depends whether England shall be solvent or insolvent.

4.

A panic, in a word, is a species of neuralgia, and according to the rules of science you must not starve it.

5.

A theorist may easily map out a scheme of government in which Queen Victoria could be dispensed with. He may make a theory that, since we admit and we know that the House of Commons is the real sovereign, any other sovereign is superfluous; but for practical purposes, it is not even worth while to examine these arguments. Queen Victoria is loyally obeyed—without doubt and without reason—by millions of human beings. If those millions began to argue, it would not be easy to persuade them to obey Queen Victoria, or anything else.

The best thing undeniably that a government can do with the Money Market is to let it take care of itself. But a government can only carry out this principle universally if it observes one condition: it must keep its own money.

7.

A low rate of interest (in England) long protracted is equivalent to a total depreciation of the precious metals. This is the meaning of the saying "John Bull can stand many things, but he cannot stand two per cent."

8.

A very high pay of prestige is almost always very dangerous. It causes the post to be desired by vain men, by lazy men, by men of rank: and when the post is one of real and technical business, and when, therefore, it requires much previous training, much continuous labor, and much patient and quick judgment, all such men are dangerous. But they are sure to covet all posts of splendid dignity and can only be kept out of them with the greatest difficulty. Probably in every Cabinet there are still some members (in the days of the old close boroughs there were many) whose posts have come to them not from personal ability or inherent merit but from their rank, their wealth, or even their imposing exterior.

9.

A large bank is exactly the place where a vain and shallow person in authority, if he be a person of gravity and method, as such men often are, may do infinite evil in no long time, and before he is detected.

10.

Adventure is the life of commerce, but caution, I had almost said timidity, is the life of banking.

11.

Important business can only be sufficiently discussed by persons who can say very much what they like very much as they like to one another.

From "Lombard Street," by Walter Bagehot (1873).

OH, SYMPATHY!

Oh, sympathy! Thou art the fairest flower
That ever bloomed within the human heart,
Remain with us and grant to us the power
To set ourselves from selfishness apart.

While others tell of friendship tried and true;
But sympathy, thou art the fertile ground

Be with us, ere we press the thorn of pride
And arrogance against our brother's side.
Restrain us ere we build a wall of hate
Between our brother and a better fate.

Remain with us that we may have the grace,
While from the baser things we dwell apart,
To look upon an erring sister's face
And judge her not, we seeing not her heart.

We may not all have love or wealth or fame,
Nor understand that which we cannot see—
But we can all play fair in life's great game
If thou remain with us, oh, sympathy!

Breaking It Gently.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Brown!" exclaimed Mr. Smith. "What a coincidence, meeting you. I ran into your husband half an hour ago."

"How funny!" replied Mrs. Brown. "And how did you think he was looking?"

"Pretty poorly."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear you say so. Everybody says he's looking much better lately."

"Well, he looked seedy enough just now," said Mr. Smith.

"I wonder why it was," said Mrs. Brown.

"Oh, I can tell you that!" said Mr. Smith. "You see, I was in my car when I ran into him."

A Good Word for Him.

Hans Schmidt was reputed to be the meanest man in the neighborhood. He died. His body was placed in the grave, and according to an old Pennsylvania German custom the people stood around the open grave, waiting for someone to say some good things about the deceased before filling the grave. After a long wait, Gustave Schulze said: "Well, I can say joost one good thing about Hans; he wasn't always as mean as he was sometimes."

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

WOMAN'S EMANCIPATION.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

IF ever an autocratic Government had dared to deny to the German university student his beer and his pipe, a revolution of the intelligentsia would have been certain. Does the American young woman feel the same way about her cigarette? Probably not, if you take the average as a standard. But a girl from Barre, Vt., and one from Stamford, Conn., have shaken the dust of their skirts—if short skirts have dust—on the precincts of Wellesley and sworn that liberty without education is better than education without liberty. One of them explains: "We resigned as a protest against the antiquated opinion that ladies mustn't smoke. Wellesley is too narrow for the modern girl. Imagine barring cigarettes! Why, as a matter of fact, our great-grandmothers of frontier days smoked corncob pipes. We girls of today come by our tastes honestly." Both of the deserters are "freshwomen." They have got into the newspapers early in life. Regret may come later. For their sake, we hope it will. For the game isn't worth the candle. Even the modern girl can live and be moderately happy without cigarettes. We are informed that many do. And we are tempted to enlarge a bit on the distinction between the corncob pipe of the frontier and the Wellesley cigarette. There is no flippancy about a corncob. It is compatible with a discreet tongue and lips that utter no nonsense. It is manly, it is not ladylike. The minor vices of kindergarten bachelors are hardly worth cultivating in these days of woman's emancipation.

HONOR AND POLICY.

From the New Republic.

IN proceeding with the payment of interest on her debt to the United States, England is actuated, no doubt, by the long tradition of British financial honor. But British honor has a way of proving itself good business also. If England should ever again be involved in a great war she would be able to draw upon the vast financial reserves of America as no nation which asked to be forgiven its debts could. If we exclude such remote possibilities, England still has much to gain from a policy of payment. For a generation at least American capital employed abroad will be commonly employed in conjunction with British capital. The British will be found possessed of the franchises and concessions and the diplomatic support upon which profitable exploitation in Asia, Africa and South America depend. The British will keep the promoters' and bankers' profits, which will be the richer the greater capital fund they can draw upon. And in order to draw freely upon American capital they need just such conclusive proof of national honor and solvency as debt payment affords.

LIQUOR ON FOREIGN SHIPS.

From the Nation.

JUDGE HAND'S upholding of the Daugherty ruling prohibiting liquor on foreign ships in American ports was expected. The only exception that he makes is to permit foreign vessels to carry the stocks necessary for the crews' rations on the return voyage. Appeals from this decision the transatlantic steamship companies will of course take, but Judge Hand—he is one of the soundest men on the Federal bench—will probably be upheld. So we are one step nearer serious international trouble over the prohibition question. England has quite rightly refused to assent to our searching her ships beyond the three-mile limit and has entered an emphatic protest—in marked contrast to Mr. Wilson's complaisance in the seizing of American ships by British cruisers prior to our entering the war—against the recent capture of a schooner off Atlantic City. Retaliation from abroad we may certainly look for. No European country will be content to have the conduct of its ships controlled in its home ports by American-made law. The Nautical Gazette reports the suggestion of retaliation in the form of a requirement that no American ship shall enter a foreign port without a full supply of liquor on board!

The Conning Tower

REFERRED to the Circulation Department.

Sir: This is purely a circulation scheme. I have told 25 friends of mine that I am going to land in The Conning Tower. These 25 friends will read the Post-Dispatch diligently for the next six days, which will mean an increased circulation of 150 Post-Dispatches. Of these 25 friends at least 10 will undoubtedly acquire the Post-Dispatch habit. Of these 10 probably four, seeing what luck I had, will follow the same plan and inform 25 of their friends that they are going to land in The Conning Tower, which will give the Post-Dispatch an additional circulation of 600. Of these 600 undoubtedly 300 will acquire the Post-Dispatch habit and of these 300 probably—well, anway, you see what I mean. ANTH.

In addition to the ordinals of drama and literature mentioned Saturday, there are, offers Sig. Joseph Medill Patterson's "The Fourth Estate" and John Philip Sousa's "The Fifth String," and—suggested by Anna—"Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" and "Twelfth Night."

Also if one lisped in numbers, "The Tenth of Kedar."

Oh, yes, and Owen Johnson's "The Sixty-First Second."

The New Therapeutics.

A soldier of the Legion lay dying in Algiers;
There was lack of woman's nursing, there was dearth of woman's tears;
But a comrade knelt beside him as his life blood ebbed away,

AMERICAN MILK IN RUSSIA

Evaporated Product From States Meets Enormous Sale.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 6.—American evaporated milk is finding an enormous sale in Russia. Nearly as much milk in tins, including brands never retailed in the United States, is shown in the shop windows of Petrograd and Moscow as can be found displayed in American cities. Many of these brands apparently are canned exclusively for the export trade.

The price here for a one-pound tin is from 20 to 30 cents. American milk may be bought at the railway stations, in the villages and at the great markets in the cities. In many instances it is peddled by children.

WOMEN STUDENTS LEAD MEN

Northwestern Sorority Members First in Scholarship Standing.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Women at the Northwestern University lead men in scholarship, according to average standings of the sorority and fraternity and non-fraternity members taken during the spring semester, 1922, and made public yesterday.

Women members of sororities have an average grade of 1.48. Men students in the non-fraternal dormitories rate next to sorority women in scholarship with a grade of 1.22. The men fraternity members fell below either of the other classes in scholarship, rating 1.07 as an average grade.

It Seems to Me

IT will not be necessary after all to organize a smoker for those two girls who resigned from Wellesley rather than give up cigarettes. They weren't at Wellesley and they didn't resign and cigarettes had nothing to do with it. Still the issue was an excellent one. Perhaps someone who actually is in a position to resign will do so just to keep the discussion going.

"You are dead right about Wellesley," writes E. J. "I was there—two years. I don't think they called the Proctor 'House Mother.' That expression was probably coined by some clever newspaper man to describe the institution in a phrase. But they certainly lived up to it. It was 'House Mother' stuff all through. Never was a place so fitted for the cultivation of a race of young female prigs. Consider the college motto—'Not to be ministered unto but to minister.'

"Think of the 'silence time.' * * * A bell is rung. Every girl required to seize a Bible or other devotional work and seek seclusion until another gong sounds. The Sunday afternoons when the students had to go in squads to the rooms of the professors (females, of course) and have readings from such books as 'Miss Tootsie's Mission.'

"Sickish little prayer meetings were going on constantly. Once I attended (compulsory) a meeting where an elderly lady physician spoke in a guarded way of some facts about life which every normal young person should and does know before the age of 16 and seven girls fainted—an, actual fact. Being a husky young woman, I had to help carry some of them out.

"We never saw a male being from one month's end to the other and so when we did finally escape we either fell into the arms of the first man we met or, figuratively speaking, got us to a nunnery.

"Be glad that, from the nature of things, H 3d will be obliged to go elsewhere."

THE criticism is being made frequently of late that American colleges and universities are ungodly places. With that opinion we quite agree. We think it is the religion—the compulsory religion—which does it. We never saw a college where compulsory chapel didn't play perfect hob with the religious instinct. Up at Williams—where we paid frequent visits—it was a regular practice for the undergraduates in the back pews to make book on the length of the prayer. Finally some of the more serious minded students had to interfere and bring pressure to bear to set a limit on the stakes.

It seems to us that religion is part of man's emotional nature and we don't see how an emotion can be systemized. Certainly there is nothing in the average service of a college chapel to win anybody to the proper mood. Generally he isn't quite awake and he is compelled to hurry to get to his seat in time, and all that combined with the fact that he has no choice in the matter makes him resentful. Those in control of religious training ought to be observant of the wisdom of the athletic experts and learn that there is also such a thing as overtraining. Certain states of mind which are identified by preachers as downright atheism indicate nothing more than that the student has grown a little stale on religion.

But it must be admitted that acute skepticism starts early in these days of the younger generation. A young woman of our acquaintance tells with great pride the story of her retort to Maude Adams. The young woman was then 9 years old, and the play was "Peter Pan." In accordance with the requirements of the plot Miss Adams stepped to the footlights and asked, "Do you believe in fairies?"

"Certainly not," said the little girl in her most audible voice, "and you ought to be ashamed to be ignorant enough to ask such a question."

For our Tuesday book list we nominate: "Where the Blue Begins," by Christopher Morley; "Tramping on Life," by Harry Kemp; "The Driver," by Garet Garett; "Gigolo," by Edna Ferber; "Rita Coventry," by Julian Street, and "Junger," by James Branch Cabell. HEYWOOD BROUN.

• 250 Tons of Money Moved.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Two hundred and fifty tons of money, worth about $50,000,000, have been moved through the streets of Chicago's congested downtown district within the last few days, it was learned with the announcement of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank yesterday that it had completed moving all valuables from the old quarters to the new $7,500,000 building at La Salle and Adams streets.

The women of the Grace Methodis Episcopal Church, Skinker road and Waterman avenue, will have a Christmas bazaar in the church parlors Nov. 17. The sale will open at 1 o'clock to continue through the day and evening. A light luncheon will be served during the day and a turkey dinner in the church dining room at night.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Bethel Evangelical Church, Greer and Garrison avenues, announce a bazar Thursday, Nov. 9. A sale of needlework and aprons will begin at 2:30 o'clock. Supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

MISS MARIE BAKER TO BE MARRIED TOMORROW

Will Become Bride of Wilson Benoist—Edwards-Glasgow Wedding at Kirkwood.

Two weddings of unusual interest are on tomorrow's social calendar.

The first is that of Miss Marie Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Baker of 4545 West Pine boulevard, and Ensign Wilson A. Benoist, U. S. N. This will be the first of two weddings within a week in which a son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Benoist will be a principal. The marriage of Miss Annie Laurie Bloodworth and Francois Benoist will take place next Wednesday.

The Baker-Benoist nuptials will take place at 11:30 o'clock in the New Cathedral, the Rev. Father Tucker officating, and a reception will follow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Baker. Miss Doris Drummond will attend the bride as maid of honor, and Francois Benoist will be best man. Miss Drummond's gown is blue crepe romaine, draped at either side, and made with a bertha of lace about the shoulders. She will wear a flesh-colored georgette hat adorned with some of the same lace, and will carry Ophelia roses.

The bride's gown is of white satin. There will be a garniture of pearls at the waist holding in place the skirt draperies. The bodice is simply made, with a boat neck and short sleeves. The satin court train has been embellished in orange blossoms, and a wreath of the blossoms will hold the tulle veil in place. She will carry lilies of the valley.

Ensign Benoist and his bride will depart tomorrow evening for a four-day honeymoon trip, and will return to be members of the Bloodworth-Benoist bridal party. They will leave St. Louis for Coronado, Cal., where Ensign Benoist is stationed, on Nov. 16. Upon their arrival they will be the guests for two days, of the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Lieutenant-Commander Patrick N. Lynch Bellinger, and Mrs. Bellinger, after which they will take possession of their apartment. The bride attended the Sacred Heart Convent, and is a graduate of Eden Hall, Philadelphia. She made her debut as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet Ball. Ensign Benoist was educated at St. Louis University and the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The wedding of Miss Constance Carter Edwards, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Nelson Edwards of Kirkwood, and Charles Spears Glasgow, son of Frank Glasgow of Lexington, Ky., will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the Grace Episcopal Church of Kirkwood, the Rev. Dr. J. J. Wilkins officiating. A reception will follow at the Edwards home. Mrs. Walker MacMillan will be her sister's maid of honor, and Miss Mary Blaine Tompkins, bridesmaid. Edward Park Davis will serve Mr. Glasgow as best man and the following will be groomsmen: Murray Edwards, brother of the bride; Walker MacMillan, and Thomas and Samuel McPheeters.

The bride will wear a gown of bridal satin. The skirt is quite full, with an irregular hem line, and the bodice has a bertha of rose point lace. There will be long flowing sleeves, and the rolled girdle will be of the same material as the gown. The court train is satin, with a band of duchesse lace trailing the end. Orange blossoms will adorn the coronet which is to hold in place the tulle veil arranged in a cap effect. Her flowers will be lilies of the valley and gardenias.

Mr. Glasgow and his bride will spend their honeymoon in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and will reside in Lexington.

JEANNE EAGLES IS SUPERB IN GREAT PLAY

Bitter Tragedy, "Rain," One of Really Great Dramatizations the Theater Has Seen.

By HEYWOOD BROUN.
Dramatic Critic of the New York Morning World.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—"Rain" is an enormously interesting play and in it Jeanne Eagles gives an extraordinary performance. This bitter tragedy is a dramatization by John Colton and Clemence Randolph of Scmermet Maughan's short story, "Miss Thompson." It seems to us that in this indirect approach to the theater Maughan comes off better than in anything which he has done directly for the stage. Certainly 'Rain" is vastly superior to the same dramatist's "East of Suez."

On the basis of the first two acts it seems to us almost as fine as any modern play in this mood which we have seen in recent years. The last act falls away a good deal from this high standard, but it ends superbly and, all in all, we think "Rain" is as well worth our attention as any play now in New York.

Infidelity a Glamour.

We were particularly impressed with the tang of the talk. Eugene O'Neill's hairy ape might well have come to "Rain" to learn what fire there is in frankness. A number of phrases which seldom come into the theater appear in "Rain," and appear not as the mere effort of a playwright to be shocking but as inevitable and almost beautiful echoes from life. Infidelity there is a glamour. A role which falls to Jeanne Eagles is fascinating throughout in its compelling reality. The story is another version of "Thais." But this time the narrator cannot see the joke. To him the passion which sweeps together Sadie Thompson and the Rev. Mr. Davidson is a bleak blaze. And that is rather curious, for the play is violent throughout in its attack on the repressions of Puritanism. And yet when uncontrollable forces break these bonds the mood of the playwright is one of unutterable despair. He can't seem to forget that circumstances have made it inevitable for one of his characters to die horribly.

For our part we liked the play a little less from the moment salvation began to get its grip upon Sadie. We should hate to confess a sentimental predilection for happy endings, but Jeanne Eagles makes the rebellious and defiant Sadie one of the most thrilling figures we have known in the theater. We were inspired to a point where we felt moved to rush to the nearest missionary meeting in order to shout "No" when the plate was passed.

Denounces Exhorted Religion.

In recommending "Rain" we ought to say that it is distinctly not a play for the evangelically minded. The theater has never seen anything so vehement in its denunciation of exhorted religion.

The action of the play takes place in a trader's store in the port of Pago Pago, which is an American South Sea station. As good luck would have it, the first night audience contained, among others, a recently returned visitor from Pago Pago.

What we believe to be The Finest Tribute ever paid to a Motion Picture by the St. Louis Post Dispatch

P. D. Monday Nov. 6.

"Clarence" a Film Gem.

If all photoplays were "Clarences," nobody would lead a happier—or more useless—existence than motion picture reviewers. Here, in sooth, is a film that can be recommended from every viewpoint of criticism. It is easy to believe that Booth Tarkington, from whose stage success it was adapted, had a hand in the direction. Certainly it is a credit to him, to his play, and to the producer who made it. It is the main feature of an otherwise attractive bill at the Missouri Theater this week.

To say that Wallace Reid and Agnes Ayres have the leading roles may leave a false impression. For the fact is that nobody "leads" in this picture. There is a cast which, for unity and total competence, excels all that this writer has seen. Reid, as the astounding entomologist, is delightful; Miss Ayres is a charmingly harassed governess, but Miss May McAvoy is as equally intriguing as Cora, the flapper—in short, the assemblage of parts is perfect.

Into a family continually upset by the conflicting impulses of a tired business man, a marshmallow-eating wife and two spoiled young ones, comes the quaint personality of Clarence, an incredibly talented nondescript, who can play the saxophone, repair a gasoline motor, thrash a bounder and classify the coleoptera. More important in this case, he can soothe nerves. In his meek, oblivious way he foils a plot or two, reconciles couples married and unmarried, and brings off an amour of his own. A most astonishing fellow, this Clarence. To be sure, there is a happy ending of the pure, "made in Indiana" brand, but, compared with the various forms of Shiekery now raging on the screen, the story displays a stoic restraint. The photography is superb. Not a foot of film is wasted in the acting. "Clarence" is one long, deep hearty chuckle.

"THE MAN WHO SAW TOMORROW"—IMPOSSIBLE YOU SAY—

KANSAS CITY WOMAN GOES TO LEGISLATURE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Miss Sarah Lucille Turner, one of the women elected to the Missouri Legislature, is "about 25" years old, pretty and equipped for her job. Miss Turner, known to her family and intimates as "Sally," was elected as a Democrat, from the Sixth Jackson County Representative District, composed of Kansas City residential wards. She is a graduate of the Kansas City School of Law, was admitted to practice law in Missouri more than a year ago, and was junior law clerk to a law firm here for a long time before she finished her law course.

In the primary she had a real fight, having to dispose of another Democrat backed by the "Goat" factionalists of Tom Prendergast. Yesterday she bested a male Republican effectively, and with less trouble, as Joseph B. Shannon, Democratic boss of the "rabbits" faction, had turned to her aid after the primary.

How She Got Into Politics.

Miss Turner got into politics in truly feminine fashion. One day in the spring, during a discussion at the law school, a number of male students declared that "this business of women running for office was all wrong." That evening Miss Turner went to the courthouse and filed for the Democratic nomination for State Representative. It is said that this did not arouse large demonstrations of approval at her home, but parental emotion did not becoem prohibitive. A "kid brother," a classmate in law school, who approved of his sister's action very strongly, was her mainstay in the primary campaign. They made a house-to-house campaign.

Not a Faddist or a Reformer.

"I am not going to the Legislature to start any reform movement, or to be representative of any one set of people," Miss Turner said today.

"I am going to represent the Sixth District of Kansas City, all of it as well, I hope, as any man could do. I attended the State convention of candidates at Excelsior Springs, and from what I saw there I regard myself as probably not below the average of legislative candidates.

"If there is any one thing I would like to try to do, it is to help simplify laws. There are so many of them, and they are so complex.

"But I do not go as a faddist, nor as a special envoy of women and children, although I want to represent them, too, along with the other people in my district."

Miss Turner, who was born in Centralia, Ill., has lived most of her life in Missouri. She is proud that she "gets her politics" from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Turner, who are Democrats of Kentucky stock.

MONDELL APPARENTLY LOSES SENATE RACE TO KENDRICK

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 8.—Frank W. Mondell, Republican floor leader in the House of Representatives and for more than 25 years almost continuously a member of Congress, apparently has been defeated for the United States Senate by Senator John B. Kendrick, Democratic incumbent. Returns compiled up to 8 o'clock this morning gave Kendrick a lead of more than 3000 votes, with a growing margin. Totals of 307 of 659 precincts in the State gave Mondell 11,722, Kendrick 15,122.

The race for the governorship is close, with W. B. Ross, Democrat, leading John W. Hay, Republican, by 580 votes, the figures are as follows: Ross, 12,394; Hay, 11,814.

Judge Charles E. Winter, Republican, probably has been elected to Congress to succeed Mondell.

DEMOCRATS WIN BACK THE SOLID SOUTH

Hull Elected to Congress in Tennessee; Republicans Lose Old Seat in Virginia.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—The Democrats won throughout the South in yesterday's election. They regained some offices lost in the Republican landslide of two years ago and in the Ninth Virginia the Republicans lost a congressional seat they had held for years. In Tennessee, Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, was elected to the lower house of Congress. William Cabell Bruce, Democrat, defeated Senator J. I. France in Maryland.

In South Carolina Thomas G. McLeod, Democrat, was elected Governor without opposition. Other members of the State ticket also were unopposed.

The Democratic State ticket, headed by Clifford M. Walker for Governor, carried Georgia by overwhelming majority, and all Democratic candidates for Congress won.

The entire Democratic congressional ticket swept Mississippi. Hubert D. Stephens was overwhelmingly elected Senator to succeed John Sharp Williams, retired. The House delegation of eight Democrats will include two new faces, Jeff Busby and T. Webber Wilson.

Louisiana returns to Congress her present delegation of eight Democrats. The seats were not contested.

Kenneth D. McKellar, Democrat, candidate for re-election as United States Senator from Tennessee, is maintaining a lead of more than two to one over his Republican opponent, Newell Sanders. In the contest for Governor the count so far shows Austin Peay, Democratic nominee, with a total of 92,608 votes, and Gov. Alf Taylor, Republican candidate for re-election, 60,763.

Unofficial returns early today from the 11 congressional districts in Kentucky indicate that this State has elected three Republicans and eight Democratic Representatives.

Democrats were victorious in each of the Southern states electing Senators. They follow: Park Trammell, Florida; H. D. Stephens, Mississippi; Kenneth H. McKellar, Tennessee; Claude A. Swanson, Virginia, and W. F. George, Georgia.

PLURALITY 571 FOR REED IN ST. CHARLES COUNTY

First Democratic Candidate for U. S. Senate to Carry That County in 40 Years.

St. Charles County gave a Democratic majority for United States Senator in the election yesterday for the first time in 40 years, old-time politicians say. The vote of the county was 3170 for Senator Reed and 2599 for Brewster, according to unofficial returns with two small precincts missing out of 36. This is a plurality of 571 for Reed.

There was a vote of nearly 6000 in the county and Republican majorities of 1000 to 1800 were returned for State offices, which demonstrates the number of Republicans who were attracted to the Reed banner, although the County Democratic Committee is comprised of seven "Wilson Democrats" and two who were for Reed. The committee voted, Oct. 14, not to invite Reed to speak in the county and adopted a resolution praising former President Wilson and his ideals for world peace. Previously a Democratic candidate for the State Legislature had resigned his candidacy because, he said, he could not support Reed, declaring that the Senator did not stand for party principles.

St. Charles County, one of the counties comprising the Ninth Congressional District, gave Congressman Hukreide, Republican, 3240 votes and Clarence D. Cannon, Democrat, 2566. Cannon has apparently defeated Hukreide in the whole district.

John P. Arr, Republican, received 3290 votes for State Senator from the Tenth District, which includes St. Charles and nine other counties, and Nick Cave, Democrat, 1922.

MAJOR PART OF $400,000 BEMIS ESTATE IS LEFT TO TRUST

The major portion of the estate of James Ward Bemis, vice president of the Ozan Lumber Co., who died suddenly Oct. 30, is left in trust by the will which was filed in Clayton today by the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., executor and trustee under the will. The estate is valued at between $400,000 and $500,000.

After setting aside 50 shares of stock in the lumber company for the benefit of a cousin, Lucy M. Bemis, and a special trust fund to provide a monthly income of $250 for his mother-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Braun, the will directs that the rest of the estate be held in trust, the income to go to the widow, Mrs. Susan Braun Bemis, during her life, and after that to the children of his brothers, William N., Horace E., and Charles F. Bemis.

Mrs. Bemis, to whom Bemis deeded their $100,000 residence on the Hanley road, near Clayton, in December, 1921, is to receive the household effects, automobiles, jewelry and other personal property of her husband. The will was drawn Sept. 20, 1919.

WOMEN AND DRYS DEFEAT HITCHCOCK

German Element Also Against Nebraska Senator—C. W. Bryan Made Governor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 8.—The women's vote, the prohibition question, the Esch-Cummins law and the German element caused the defeat of Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock in yesterday's election in Nebraska. The support of the Nonpartisan League and the fidelity of the Hitchcock Democrats are given as the principal reasons for the election of Charles W Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan, as Governor in a contest in which Bryan now seems to have been the only Democrat elected.

Hitchcock was opposed to prohibition and voted against it several times. During the campaign, however, he said prohibition was the law of the land and that he stood for the law. Prohibitionsts, however, refused to support him.

He had opposed suffrage, but announced that since suffrage was the law, he stood for it. Suffragists refused to support him. There is bitter opposition in Nebraska to the Esch-Cummins law. Hitchcock favored the bill and voted for it. His opponent used this with great effect.

The German element, which formerly had supported Hitchcock, turned against him almost to a man because of his stand in favor of the League of Nations. There are 60,000 so-called German votes in Nebraska.

In many quarters, the charge is being made today that the Bryan Democrats did not play fair with Hitchcock, but "knifed" him. Senator Hitchcock does not make this charge. R. B. Howell, Hitchcock's successful opponent, had the support of the Nonpartisan League, which claims 40,000 votes. Bryan had the support of the Nonpartisan League and his vote was almost the same as received by Howell. The German element's opposition to Hitchcock did not extend to Bryan.

Hitchcock last night conceded the election of Howell, who is Republican national committeeman. In congratulating his successor, the Senator said that he estimated Howell's plurality would be 22,000 or more. This was based upon what was claimed to be an indicated Hitchcock plurality of 7000 in Douglas County, of which Omaha is the seat.

With 624 of the 1921 precincts of the State reported, Bryan had 71,947 and Randall 55,076. The same precincts gave, for the United States Senate, Howell, 72,910; Hitchcock, 51,655.

AMERICAN HISTORY FOR AMERICAN CHILDREN

Mistreatment of Puritans in England Caused Them to Go to Holland to Live.

Puritans in 1608 Moved to Holland.

By HENDRIK VAN LOON,
Author of "The Story of Mankind."
(Copyright, 1922.)

IN the little village of Scrooby, in Nottinghamshire, in the central part of England, there lived many Puritans. They used to meet at the house of William Brewster, but they did so at the risk of their own comfort and liberty. Three hundred years ago a man who was "unpure" in his doctrines was held to be as dangerous to the safety of the community and the state as the man who is uncleanly in his personal habits is nowadays believed to be a menace to the health of the entire town.

That we may deal better with the latter we have created a separate "Board of Health." This Board of Health watches that no rubbish lies around in forgotten places, for it might serve as a happy home for millions of flies, and it does not allow the formation of stagnant pools because they would be the breeding places of billions of mosquitoes and, therefore, be the cause of malaria and yellow fever.

But in the year 1608, when people were still very ignorant, they regarded those among their neighbors who disagreed with them as enemies of the public weal, and when they hanged a heretic they were not following the dictates of a cruel and unjust conscience, but they acted as all good citizens should act when they see their neighbors expose the common country to the risk of some terrible epidemic.

Of course, it was very annoying, just when everybody was happy and contented, to have a number of butchers and bakers and candlestick makers (for most of those Puritans were humble folk) stop the procession of merry villagers and proclaim loudly that they (the merrymakers but not the interrupters) were all wrong in their faith and ought to desist from further jollification

Indeed, it was annoying that everybody's hand was against the poor Puritans. There was no reason why they should be quartered or burned at the stake since they rarely gave public offense. But as their absence was more welcome than their presence, they were driven from their homes by the sure but slow process of petty persecutions.

Their children could not go to school and they could not have a church of their own, and they found themselves treated unfairly whenever Puritan and non-Puritan competed in a business way. Until at last, in sheer despair, they decided that they would leave their old homes and look for a happier place of residence. They were told that they would receive a cordial welcome in the country of Holland, just across the North Sea.

Puritanism had never been popular in the Dutch republic. But that curious state was just then fighting a gigantic war for religious and civic independence and acted as the amateur champion of tolerance, a title which it held for many years. The people of Leyden (who only a few years before had passed through a terrible but famous siege) let it be known that they might be able to make room for a few of the persecuted and would give them a place of worship of their own. Thither the Puritans from Scrooby moved in the year 1608, and for the next 12 years Leyden was to be their home.

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

Popular Landlord in Tokio.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 12.—"A nobleman and a Noble Man" is the description of a Japanese paper of Count Sakai of Yarai, Ushigome, Tokio, one of the greatest landlords of the capital. The Count, who owns 170 houses in one quarter of the city, has, according to the newspaper, offered to sell these houses to his tenants on the installment plan, the occupants to pay double their present rent for five years, at the end of which time they are to own their own homes.

MAN RIDING IN STOLEN AUTO INJURED IN COUNTY ACCIDENT

Two Companions Arrested—Machine Is Identified by Owner, Who Had Reported Theft.

Bernard N. Deaver, 34 years old, of 2219 Market street, suffered scalp wounds and injuries to the back at 11:30 p. m. yesterday, when an automobile in which he was riding with three others climbed an embankment in front of 7047 Clayton road after the driver had dodged an obstruction where the road is being made near that point. He was taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

William Beasley, 26, of 1826 South Seventh street, a switchman, and Lawrence Pittaluga Jr., 24, of Normandy, Mo., saloon keeper, who were in the automobile with Deaver, were arrested when police found the license of the machine corresponded with the automobile license of Benjamin Lamberson, 2941 Olive street, who had reported his car stolen from in front of the Olive street address at 8 p. m.

Lamberson later identified the machine. The three men in the car said they had hired it and a driver, and that the driver had disappeared after the accident. They did not know his name or any more about him, they said. He is being sought by the police.

"SELF-MASTERY THROUGH CONSCIOUS AUTOSUGGESTION," by Emile Coue. (American Library Service, Publishers.)

DON'T you want what you want when you want it? In that case remember that you are made up of two strictly separated entities rolled into a strictly inseparable oneness. They are, your Consciousness and Unconsciousness; let's call them Con and Unc, for short. The game to get just what you want is played like this: Make Con make Unc do what Con wants. But don't let Con know that it wants what it wants. In this extremely simple practice of autosuggestion you must take care, however, not to bring your will into play, if you are troubled with one of your own. At the same time, autosuggestion must be employed consciously, else it is downright dangerous. That's the way I understand it if I don't misunderstand it.

Into the discard, then, with your expensive and laborious courses of education. The first principle of getting what you want is: Don't think, and make no effort. Go get yourself a string with just twenty knots (so you don't have to count) and repeat twenty times as you slowly run it through your fingers—only be sure your eyes and your mind are shut, and your lips moving:

Day by day,
In every way,
I am getting better and better.

It is not a poem by Eddie Guest, but a medico-moral formula calculated to save you thousands in doctors' bills and years in jail. You don't have to know which organ is affected for it to be cured. Under the influence of the autosuggestion, "Day by day," etc., your Unc. sometimes nicknamed Sub-con or Co-con, will by itself pick out the organ in need of improvement and act on it. But don't forget the apocalyptic 20; there is no safety in any other number.

The thaumaturgical Emile says that "this explains simply and clearly." To some people it does.

Oh, just one other direction. While telling your beads with one hand, you should stroke the sore part with the other, without letting your left hand know what the right doeth. We suppose the stroking of the stomach or the heart which the Professor strongly recommends is a sort of first aid to Unc when engaged in picking on you.

Now if you follow the directions unthinkingly—don't you forget not to think!—you'll get what you want. If you don't, you haven't played fair. Perhaps you have peeped, or forgot to move your lips, or not spoken loud enough for Zamaliel or Katerfelto to hear your orison; or your intelligence has given a faint flicker. Anyway, you've made a foul. You must try over again.

Coue is dead sure that his "method" is immediately remedial and finally curative for every conceivable disorder, physical and mental. He enumerates many cases and submits many testimonials. Marquis Curzon and Countess Beatty are among his cures. Let's trust the "Master Mind of Autosuggestion" to do something for that consuming affliction of our own:

Day by day
In every way
I am getting bitter and bitter.

The Master Mind commends his method particularly for summer complaint and its antithesis, and says nothing about that torturing Thirst; so we'd perhaps better keep on with our own little remedy.

Mr. Emil Coue comes from Nancy, France, and belongs in Wellston, Mo. His dispensation of Applied Psychology is childish prattle about the Conscious and the Unconscious, running to the length of 30 pages and followed by "Thoughts and Precepts of Emile Coue," taken literally by Mme. Emile Leon, his disciple. To scientific discovery his "teachings," accepted with unreasoning docility by those that are born every minute, bear no resemblance or relation. We believe there is something to Autosuggestion. It is a long-recognized species of hypnotism. The influence of the imagination upon the moral and physical being of mankind cannot be gainsaid. But here's a mental healer who tells me that the will is under absolute control of the imagination; that vertigo is caused exclusively by the picture we make in our minds that we are going to fall, and that, with no exception, if I am afraid of running my car into a lamp post I have to do it. In a word, c'est plus fort que moi. And when the same scientist tips me this gold piece of advice: "Never discuss things you know nothing about, or you will make yourself ridiculous," can he object to this bit of Otto suggestion: Master, teach thyself—Physician, heal thyself?

Emile Coue may be infinitely more intelligent than this silly book which reads like a bad joke. The dreadful thing about this latest bizarre departure in "applied psychology" is the commotion about it. A new and dangerous and expensive fad is going to afflict America. And I see no remedy except the very allopathic one of a violent "laying on of hands." Still, one must not give way to one's temper.

Day by day,
In every way
I am getting so
I don't care a.

"AN INTRODUCTION TO POETRY," by Jay B. Hubbell and John O. Beaty. (The Macmillan Company.)

THE book's chief aims are two: first, to offer the technical apparatus for a good elementary knowledge of English poetry; second, to offer the practical material for a survey of English and American poets, old and new. Present-day poetry is not essentially different from that of a century ago. Today's violent reaction against 19th century ideals is nothing new in history. As Miss Harriet Monroe has so cleverly said. "The new in art is always the elder old." Only a knowledge of older poetry helps us to find a proper perspective for judging the poems of our own day.

Its sensible catholicity makes this introduction to the fuller enjoyment of the art of poetry valuable for the general reader by which the authors mean, supposably, a person with superficial knowledge but a keen casual interest in a given reading matter. The average college student of today under such a definition might well be described as a general reader (only thta generally he does not read), and to him, particularly, this book should prove beneficial with its expository substance and its very numerous and for the most part judicious selections whose compass reaches from "Annie Laurie" to Sandburg's "Chicago" and from "Samson Agonistes" to J. G. Fletcher's "Broadway's Canyon."

It is interesting to note the conclusion of these careful students of poetic movements that on the part of the best contemporary writers of free verse there is a tendency toward a greater regularity of form. It is felt that free verse is too easy to write and that its facility betrays the poet into diffuseness and feebleness.

The authors show that the war with Germany proved at once a great stimulus to the production of poetry and a great interruption to its composition. The consensus of the poetic voices raised up by the great conflict may be stated in the words of Siegfried Sassoon, who is perhaps the ablest among them: "Let no one ever from henceforth say a word in any way countenancing war. . . . For war is hell and those who institute it are criminals. . . . Its spiritual disasters far outweigh any of its advantages." It is only the second and third generations after a war that imagine war as something romantic and holy.

"THE CAMBRIDGE HISTORY OF BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY, 1783-1919," Edited by Sir A. W. Ward and J. P. Gooch. Vol. 1, 1783-1815. (The Macmillan Company.)

TWO years before the Congress of Versailles took place President Wilson announced that in the coming pacification of Europe entirely different methods would have to be pursued than those that were in vogue at the Congress of Vienna in 1815. This splendid volume gives in an authoritative way just what happened at Vienna, and also subsequently at Paris, and we are now in a position to judge whether the two congresses at Vienna and Versailles really differed very much from each other, and to evaluate the services of the two English representatives, Castlereagh and Lloyd George, respectively. The task of the latter was in one respect simpler than that of the former, because he was the Prime Minister, while Castlereagh was only the Secretary for Foreign Affairs and as such had to take orders from the Prime Minister and the Cabinet at home. Their tasks, however, were alike dictated by history and tradition. They comprised first of all the maintenance of the colonial and maritime supremacy of Great Britain. In this fundamental aim there seems to be very little difference between Castlereagh and Lloyd George. Both did wonderful service for their country in this respect.

Second, in both cases, England had undertaken certain obligations to her allies. Here praise cannot be bestowed equally on both. Castlereagh promised only things that did not hurt England, as, for instance, complete freedom to Spain. But Lloyd George made promises to the Czechs and the Serbs which, now that they are redeemed, constitute a grave danger to Great Britain. Panslavism has been strengthened enormously at Versailles and sooner or later the disastrous effects of that policy on English interests will appear.

Third—and here the greatest difference appears between the two statesmen: At the Congress of Vienna the famous balance of power in Europe was established. This was made effective later by one and only one feature of Castlereagh's policy. That defeated France was to be reduced to its ancient limits went without saying. But Castlereagh built the balance of power on firmer grounds than that of a League of Nations which he had advocated at Vienna. After Napoleon's return from Elba and his surrender the final touches to Europe's peace had to be made at Paris, and here it is clear that Castlereagh was a far greater statesman than Lloyd George. He laid down the principle that while the defeated enemy must pay the price of his own deliverance, nevertheless war should not degenerate into "an indiscriminate and destructive pillage." But he, like Lloyd George, found that "on this question the British Cabinet and, to a large extent, the British nation were influenced by the passions of the moment. They were quite ready to join those continental Powers who wished, not merely to bleed France white, but to deprive her of large portions of territory, so as to render her defenseless and impotent for the future. From the first, however, Castlereagh (and he had throughout the sincere support of Wellington) took an entirely opposite view. * * * He saw clearly the folly of placing her in such a situation as to make her despair of the future. * * * He stood entirely unmoved by the outburst of emotion which swayed his colleagues and most of his countrymen, and with rare statesmanship carried out coolly, and with infinite tact as well as unbending resolution, a policy which events completely justified. * * * Scarcely ever has a statesman better served his country and Europe."

Now contrast this with the actions of Lloyd George. He understood as well as Castlereagh the underlying principles of British foreign policies. He agreed to the terms of the armistice which President Wilson offered to the Germans. He entered the Congress of Versailles with the policy of Castlereagh, being bound thereto in fact by the sacred signature of England to the armistice conditions. But the "outburst of emotion" on the part of his countrymen also took place as in 1815, particularly in December, 1918, during the election campaign. Did he stand "unmoved" by it like Castlereagh? History records no greater failure than that of Lloyd George in this respect. He hurried back to England and promised the people that Germany would be bled to the last farthing.

England has already paid with three years of misery for this repudiation of an English signature and Lloyd George has lost the glory and the crown of immortality which his undoubted talents would have otherwise secured for him.

In the Literary Letter Box

W. L. GEORGE TO LECTURE NO MORE. W. L. George has withdrawn from the lecture platform. On October 4th he delivered before the Emerson Club in London what he declares to be his last lecture. In the future, the author of "Ursula Trent" and "Her Unwelcome Husband" will devote himself exclusively to the business of writing, although, he adds, he will, of course, continue to say a few words at public banquets, or preside over meetings the subjects of which are sympathetic to him. It is characteristic that his last lecture should be on a subject which recalls the main strain of his literary life, namely, "The Intelligence of Woman." Is Mr. George resigning from the chair of Womeniscience in fafor of His Excellency the U. S. Ambassador at St. James?

PERHAPS Washington never told a lie, but some of his biographers have been telling them about him ever since the days of the cherry tree. One of the two things that we all know about Washington is that he exhorted his people to beware of "entangling alliances." William Roscoe Thayer now tells us, in his "George Washington," that the phrase is not Washington's and, in fact, did not appear on the political horizon until it was first used by Thomas Jefferson in his inaugural address, 1801, sixteen months after Washington was dead and buried.

"BEST-SELLERS" and classics do not constitute the only types of books sold in America, contrary to the prevalent notion. There is also a "steady-seller," a sort of intermediate literary creature. The "steady-seller" never gets into the lists of "the 10 most popular books," but continues to sell after the "best-seller" is forgotten.

AND now Sex, following History and Science, is exclusively outlined by the dauntless Dr. Wilbur P. Birdwood who has probably written more books unknown to the public than any other man now living.

CHILDREN'S Book Week, each year in November, is an opportunity for discussion in clubs, schools, parent-teachers' associations, libraries, magazines and newspapers, of the books that children like to read, the books that will enrich boys' and girls' lives. Thousands of public libraries and book stores in the United States and Canada are holding special displays of books for young people, and offering advice and help to parents and others selecting books as Christmas gifts and for the child's own library.

MANY times the question is raised: "Is an eventful life or a college education the better preparation for writing fiction?" Those who have occasion to note the biographies of writing men will conclude that a great number of successful authors have been educated in both life and college.

HARPER & BROTHERS state the interesting fact that they have recently received two orders for the following titles of Thomas Hardy's works: "Dress of the d'Urbervilles" and "Far From the Madding Crow."

"THE TALE OF TRIONA," by William J. Locke. (Dodd-Mead & Co.)

DEAD, indeed, is the Great War as a field for the fiction writer, but not the backwash thereof, as Mr. Locke has proven to us time and again by his post-bellum stories. Not the war itself, but the people who were in it and have become interesting because of that fact, are the grist for Locke's mill.

"The Tale of Triona" is about the adventures of a supposedly Russian-born young Englishman who represented himself as having played a certain high-heroic part in the conflict. In truth, he was not born in Russia, his name was not Triona, but plebeian John Briggs, and his supposed adventures were really those a Russian soldier whose body he had encountered on the field had recorded in a diary, which he carried away and the notes of which he used to write a book of experiences that astounded England and brought him wide fame.

When his reputation is running at high tide, he meets a young English girl, whose father and brothers have fallen in the war, and who, possessed of some fortune, goes to London to see the world. Her mother was of an East Indian army family and her father was a prosperous tradesman for marrying whom her mother was cast off. He made her as happy as a man could make a woman with mere wealth and plentude, without culture though that was what she most craved. Olivia had noted and understood this vacuum in her mother's life and sympathized with it.

Great was her fortune, therefore, she thought, when this cultured author came into her life. When he married her, she felt she was being taken into her proper cultural sphere. Then came the revelation of Triona's plagiarism, the lie that he had lived and by which he had risen to fame. He was just the son of a common workman, talented in his way, but essentially plebeian. Instead of going up, she had gone down.

This is a situation that Locke likes to build up for himself, one to be finely treated in his most whimsical vein. Many of his readers are not going to be as well pleased with him as usual, however, for there is going to be a feeling that Maj. Olifant and not Triona should have had Olivia in the end. However, the book is fine, gripping reading with smashing climaxes.

"BATOUALA," by Rene Maran. (Thomas Seltzer).

A DEADLY picture of the blessings of civilization as enjoyed by the subject blacks of the French Congo, under the sovereignty of that enlightened republic. Here existence consists mainly of work, sex, drunkenness, sex, murder and sex, and all carried on, fearfully, cringingly, under the sword of Damocles which is the white man's will. The author is a mulatto, educated in France, and he tells the story almost as Batouala himself might tell it. It is, in fact, a prose poem, which has lost some, but not all, of its beauty in translation.

We Occidentals shiver with horror at recitals of the mysterious pagan rites of Africa. But here we have a startling realization of that greater terror which the white man and his merciless ways inspire in the breast of the savage. A rhythm of despair runs through this simple tale like the ominous, fateful beating of the tom-toms in "The Emperor Jones." Why take hope? Why have aspirations—even the simple aspirations of a savage chief? Nobody knows what the white man may do tomorrow—the white man, with his inexorable greed, his cold cruelty, his machine guns. Better be drunk, or lecherous, while the night lasts.

At the fete, Batouala, the chief, fortified with drink, waxes rebellious in discourse, and reviles the whites, recounting their atrocities, their shams, their lies, their vices. His father, a wizened old negro, speaks: "My children, everything that you say is so. Only you should see there is nothing to be done about it. You are not the stronger. Keep quiet. I am old. While you are talking my tongue gets dry. Let us talk less and drink more. My eyesight is not so good, but I thought I saw several bottles of absinthe. Do you intend to brood on them?"

"CHAMELEON," by Benjamin de Casseres. (Lieber & Lewis.)

INTROSPECTIVE autobiography that is as brilliant, and has as many facets, as a diamond. "The book of myselves," the author calls it, and so it is—many sides of a man who thinks swiftly, savagely and without inhibitions. There are 25 essays, and it is a small book. The style is reminiscent of the cryptic poetry of "Zarathrustra." Mr. de Casseres wastes no words. Assuming that his readers are intelligent, he makes no effort to educate them to a point where they can understand what he has to say.

There is no way of indicating the scope of the subjects except by naming them severally. They are as diverse as the thought of an active and catholic brain. One is on "The Brain and the World," another on "The Comic View," one on "The Irony of Negatives," still another on "Acatalepsy." It sounds like a New Thought creed, but it isn't. It is food for the intellect—hard food, for hard intellects.

"ESCAPE," by Jeffery E. Jeffery. (Thomas Seltzer Co.)

"THERE is Moral Value in Revolt." This maxim taught to Emily Sinnock by her father from childhood was her guiding influence in life. Her revolt was one against her environment, the environment of a suburb of London with all its narrowness and petty bickering. And after her father's death she tried to put his teaching into practice.

The first avenue of escape was marriage—she married a safe and sane gentleman several years her senior only to discover that she hadn't escaped at all. He died and left her with a small son and a small income. These encumbrances materially retarded her escape.

Next she thought she would buy her way to freedom by the use of money. Consequently she embarked upon a business enterprise and got the money with which to buy her way out. But she found that would not work and that her only escape was through her own education. This education was aided greatly by one Barty Scammell, a writer, who believed in the enjoyment of life by all.

Of course she did have some rather exciting adventures during her attempts to escape. Once she thought she was free when she fell passionately in love with her partner's brother and celebrated her freedom a la Ursula Trent, but she soon found this was but transitory and that her vision of freedom and happiness was only a mirage.

A stereotyped ending to what started out to be an unusual flight and a "happy-ever-after" finale prove pleasing, but disappointing.

The book is reported to have caused a sensation in London and added materially to the author's reputation.

"The Trail of Conflict," by Emilie Loring. (The Penn Publishing Co.)

Unless Stephen Courtlandt consents to marry Geraldine Glamorgan, Stephen's father will put Geraldine's out of business—literally. Both young people agree to the more convenient arrangement and go out West, where they fall into mutual misunderstandings and come out all right.

"The Cameo Lady," by Frances Allen Harris. (Dorrance.)

A less than half-length novel—why not revive the good old name of novellette for the class?—about a mistaken marriage and the coming of the second love.

"Letters to a Djinn," by Grace Zaring Store. (The Century Co.)

Fiction clothed in a series of letters from far-away places in the tropics, written by an American girl on an adventure of rescue. The addressee is humorously called a djinn, which signifies a spirit of good counsel. Very diverting reading.

Story of the philosophical dog Gissing in search of a divinity, and running in the dawn to find the place where the blue in the sky begins. A hidden meaning is advertised as one of the story's virtues. By the lusty literary infant of the New York Evening Post and founder of the famous Three-Hours-for-Lunch Club and First American Bard of drinking songs for consumers of cider and "beverage."

An irresponsible story built in the belief that anything may happen and with quaint absurdities galore. The hidden meaning most likely pivots about the innerseal set of New York literateurs—the Mutual Admiration Insurance Association of the New York Daily Columniators. That's what makes the allegory inaccessible to us outside. We like Mr. Morley, but we don't care for this story. Altogether we are afraid he's working too hard.

"Breath of Life, a Story of Youth," by Arthur Tuckerman. (G. P. Putnam's Sons.)

At the age of 25 this new author appears already weaned from the cynicism of modernity. His novel reflects the sunnier side, yet is refreshingly well plotted and well written.

POISON, MISTAKEN FOR MEDICINE, KILLS WOMAN

She Had Been Recovering From Illness, Husband Says, and Took Dose From Wrong Bottle.

Mrs. Nellie Stansbury, 26 years old, of 2843 Lafayette avenue, died at the city hospital early today from poison said to have been taken by mistake for medicine at her home last night.

Lamont Stansbury, her husband, told the police she had been ill for some time and was recuperating. The visited friends last night, he said, returning home shortly after 11 o'clock. Mrs. Lamont retired to the bathroom to take her medicine, he said, and a few seconds later cried out, "Daddy, I got the wrong bottle."

Stansbury found a bottle of a drug on the washstand. He believes his wife took some of the contents of this bottle. He hailed an automobile passing the home and rushed with his wife to the city hospital. The drug had been in the house for a year, Stansbury told the police.

CHOICE OF LAUSANNE AS SITE OF NEAR EAST PARLEY EXPLAINED

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1922.)

GENEVA, Nov. 8.—Th mystery surrounding the choice of Lausanne as the seat of the coming Near-East conference can be explained, according to Geneva observers, by the proximity of Lausanne to Geneva, the seat of the League of Nations.

That body probably will play a big part in the meeting. It has accumulated a mass of information about the two principal matters at issue, namely, the freedom of the Dardanelles and the Bosporus and the protection of minorities. Consequently, it is claimed, the Powers want to be as near as possible to the league without actually admitting the fact.

The indications are that the league is to be entrusted with the guardianship of the straits. Moreover, there is reason to believe that a tentative plan has already been worked out, the main points being demilitarization and an international guaranty. By the first clause the Turks would not be permitted to maintain fortifications within the demilitarized zone and a commission or delegate appointed by the league could make a tour of inspection at stated interval sto see that this restriction was loyally carried out. In return for this Turkey woudl be given absolute sovereignty over Constantinople, Chanak and the Gallipoli peninsula and would be allowed to keep gendarmes there to maintain order. Also she might be given the right to have small military forces and a limited squadron of gunboats for the express purpose of defending Constantinople.

The Independent Grocer—
A Real Samaritan

No. 4 of a Series.

If the number of acts of charity performed by the independent retail grocer could be collected and entered in a book it would mean an imposing array of good deeds in time of need that would really prove astounding. On many occasions he has actually kept little mouths from going hungry when the bread winner was sick, out of work or possibly dead.

Relief in such cases, as a rule, can only come from the independent neighborhood grocer. He is master of his own business, is in close contact with the people and knowing his patrons intimately renders aid when a distressed mother with little children to feed and an empty pocket book, would otherwise be at her wits' end to know which way to turn.

The independent grocer does not have to consult some higher official as to whether he can give aid. He does not work under printed rules which prohibit him from rendering help, no matter what the circumstances of the need may be. On the contrary, the independent grocer has a heart that goes out to the suddenly afflicted. He is not controlled by the instructions of others, but follows the dictates of his own conscience and is not forced to make a prescribed profit regularly.

There are thousands of families in this city who will readily acknowledge the help given them under sudden reverses by the independent grocer when all other similar sources of assistance were closed. They have been patrons of his, he has known them and their circumstances, and when the pinch came proved to be a real friend. He has a merciful heart and mind rather than a merciless ambition to get all he can in patronage without showing any gratitude when the occasion warrants.

The independent grocer is, therefore, something more than a mere grocer serving his patrons at a reasonable charge whether it is raining pitchforks or the sun is shining. What he does in his merciful way shows the need of upholding him.

17 PATROLMEN ARE PROMOTED TO SERGEANCIES

Other Changes Involve Promotion of Three Sergeants and Demotion of 14 Sergeants and 3 Lieutenants.

REDUCED MEN OLDER THAN 61

Many Held Splendid Records of Achievement in Detective or Uniformed Work During Years of Service.

Changes in the Police Department, involving the promotion of 17 patrolmen to the rank of Sergeant, three Sergeants to the rank of Lieutenant and the demotion of 14 Sergeants and three Lieutenants, which have been under consideration by the Police Board for several months, were announced last night.

Detective-Sergeant Albert Helmholt, who was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant, was appointed to the office of Assistant Chief of Detectives, and Lieut. William Walton, who had held his position since May 22, 1921, was ordered to uniform service in a police district.

The changes will become effective Friday morning, when the new assignments will have been arranged. Lieutenants receive $190 a month, but the position of Assistant Chief of Detectives, although of the same rank, pays $200. Sergeants receive $160 and patrolmen $145.

Besides Helmholt, Sergt. Anthony Adreveno of the Carr Street District and Detective-Sergeant Albert Wetzel, former partner of Helmholt, were promoted to Lieutenancies.

The 17 patrolmen promoted to Sergeants are:

The three Lieutenants demoted to the rank of patrolman were James G. Lavin and Joseph E. Sullens of the Carondelet District and Thomas J. Donnegan of the Page Boulevard District. They will be given special assignments, which will not require them to patrol beats.

The following Sergeants were reduced to the rank of patrolman and will be detailed at Federal and city buildings where they will not be required to work at night:

Stephen T. Hurst, Newstead Avenue District; Henry Harrington, Magnolia; John J. Dotzman, Carondelet; Matthew Cummings, Angelica; Joseph Alexander, who had charge of the Police School of Instruction; Dennis Gleason, Carr Street; Charles L. Stuart, Wyoming; Henry Griefield, Mounted; Samuel J. Sullens, brother of the Lieutenant, Deer Street; Charles L. Hall, Newstead; Michael R. Fay, Page Boulevard; John Flaherty, Page Boulevard; Charles Healy, Mounted, and Matthew King of the North Market Street District.

Many of the demoted men, all of whom are more than 61 years old, have splendid records of achievement. Hall recently distinguished himself by capturing single-handed two burglars who had looted the home of Dr. Elsworth Smith Jr., on Maryland avenue. Dotzman, as former head of the police pawnshop squad, aided in the arrest of many professional crooks. Alexander was the first teacher in the police school of instruction. Harrington, as a former detective, solved the mystery of the murder of Dennis Cummins by piecing together tiny bits of a letter found in a fireplace. Griefield, of the Mounted, was noted as one of the department's strictest disciplinarians.

Helmholt, the new Assistant Chief of Detectives, has been in charge of the Detective Bureau at night since he was wounded about a year ago in a revolver fight with an automobile thief at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue. He and Wetzel were members of the police "auto-theft squad" for several years, but recently Wetzel had been assigned to investigations concerning payroll robberies, safe-blowings and other major crimes. Adreveno for many years commanded a precinct in the Italian colony in the Carr Street District.

Martin King, promoted to a sergeantcy, formerly held that rank, but was demoted several months ago when Inspector Gerk caught him in the Lee line car sheds on a rainy night. John P. Sippel, another new Sergeant, shot and killed Walter Costello, a former Deputy Constable, in front of the Falstaff Cafe, 11 North Sixth street, four years ago, when Costello and several other men attacked him. George W. King, the tallest man on the force, who also was promoted, is the department's color-bearer.

Man's Body Still Unidentified.

Unless the body of a man, about 50 or 60 years old, found Sunday afternoon in a vacant lot at Fourteenth street and Market avenue, East St. Louis, is identified today, it will be interred in the county cemetery. It is believed the man ended his life by swallowing carbolic acid, as his mouth was seared and a bottle which had contained carbolic acid was found near by. The man had apparently been dead at least three days when found. He wore a blue serge suit, blue shirt, white tie with lavender stripes, brown fedora hat with initials "G. G. S.," and low-cut tan shoes; had light hair and mustache and was partly bald.

Spoonful for a Penny Brings Quick Relief

A SCIENTIFIC test has now proven what Dr. Caldwell of Monticello asserted many years ago, that constipation will slow you up fully 25 per cent. The test was made by Dr. Donaldson of Loma Linda upon four men in the prime of life who deliberately went without a bowel movement for four days. Within 48 hours the men had coated tongue and foul breath, cankers in the mouth, no appetite, restless sleep, indigestion, headache, depression, nervousness, cramps. The blood pressure was up 28 per cent. It is just this that Dr. Caldwell has preached to his patients in private and to the public through the printed word ever since he began the practice of his specialty, diseases of the stomach and bowels, back in 1875.

After observing for years the satisfactory effect of his prescription for constipation, he placed it in drug stores in 1892, a simple vegetable compound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with pleasant-tasting aromatics, now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. That was 30 years ago, and today over 10 million bottles are bought annually, the largest selling family laxative in the world. You will find it in any drug store you enter, a generous-size bottle costing you less than a cent a dose.

ANY FAMILY MAY TRY IT FREE
Thousands of parents are asking themselves, "Where can I find a trustworthy laxative that anyone in the family can use when constipated?" I urge you to try Syrup Pepsin. I will gladly provide a liberal free sample bottle, sufficient for an adequate test. Write me where to send it. Address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 515 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois. Do it now!

Every member of the family from the infants to the grandparents can use it with safety. It is gentle and mild. The formula is on the package. Mrs. Roy Cook of Bellefontaine, O., has been giving it to her 5-months old baby, who now weighs 19 pounds; and Mr. J. B. Dawson of Brinson, Ga., declares it the best laxative his family has ever found. Try a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for constipation or any of its symptoms. The results will delight you. And the cost is only one cent a dose.

4 MEN IN KANSAS CITY HELD UNDER FEDERAL ELECTION LAW

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 8.—Tom Lawler, Democratic ward politician, arrested here yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the Federal election laws, was released on $5000 bond when arraigned before a United States Commissioner. His preliminary hearing was set for Friday.

Three other defendants who made sworn statements, according to the police, that they were instructed how to vote and under what names to vote at Lawler's cigar store, failed to furnish bond and were sent to the county jail.

The men are Tom Gibbons, who said he arrived in Kansas City a week ago from St. Louis; C. W. Heebner, who said he arrived from Wyoming 10 days ago, and C. R. Dolan, who said he was from Nebraska. They were arrested after a Republican worker had challenged their right to vote.

Very few makes of cars have been able to pull these hills in high gear, much less from a standing start.

Thursday Evening

Dance program by Herbert Berger's orchestra. Piano solo by Herebrt Berger. Songs by Mack Linn, baritone, acompanied on the piano by Anna Linn.

Information on the prevention of deformity in children, the method of testing and grading grain, guarding against automobile theft, and interesting children in farming and stock raising was imparted to those listening in on the program broadcast last night by Station K S D of the Post-Dispatch. The list of speakers on these subjects was the longest ever presented on one K S D program, and although all the talks were short, each less than 10 minutes in length, the program was longer than any previous one on the K S D schedule.

Dr. Archer O'Reilly, an orthopedic surgeon of St. Louis, discussed the prevention of deformity, urging in his talk that parents watch their children carefully for the first signs of deformity in order that the tendency might be corrected. R. W. Taylor, grain supervisor of the St. Louis district of the United States Department of Agriculture, told how grain is tested and graded, and explained the value of the effort being made by the Government to prevent grain frauds.

In warning his hearers against the risk of having their automobiles stolen, E. L. Rickards of Chicago urged everyone not to depend upon locking his car with the little ignition lock, but to take a dependable means of retaining possession of the car. He told also how many million dollars' worth of automobiles are stolen in the United States each year, partly because of carelessness and indifference of owners. He gave a number of suggestions upon methods of preventing theft, and described the efforts the Federal Government is making to lessen this sort of property loss.

A musical program was given by the Woodbine Novelty Orchestra, and there were several unusually good solos. Miss Clara Daniel and Harold Kuester presented piano numbers; Richard McFarland rendered two interesting saxophone solos, and songs were given by Herbert Kuester, baritone.

Tonight's program will include a song recital by Miss Agnes Galvin, soprano, and E. H. Baker, tenor, of East St. Louis.

PILSUDSKI MAY BE DEPOSED

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—The Polish elections Sunday resulted in an overwhelming victory for the National Democrats, rendering the re-election of Marshal Pilsudski as President doubtful, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

The elections to the Diet held throughout Poland last Sunday were the first general elections ever held for the present-day Poland, which came into existence through the World War and the subsequent treaties of peace. In the Eastern sections, formerly under Russian domination, women participated for the first time in elections. The present Polish Constituent Assembly has been in office since February, 1919. The number of Deputies to be chosen is 144. There will be an election for Senators on Nov. 12. Eleven Senators will then be chosen. The combined houses later will elect the chief executive of the state.

Protest Against Bull Fight Films.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—Moving pictures of bull fights have caused Municipal Councilor Leopold Bellan to protest to the Prefect of Police and demand the suppression of scenes which show horses being injured by infuriated bulls. The Councilor in his protest said that such scenes had a bad effect on the people.

Catarrh of the Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It" Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How to Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour, burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened, and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach, while the Bisurated Magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot-water treatment. Moreover, the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antiacid, which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take, and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.

The Harvard Eleven Is Not Subject to Hysterics, but It Has Fitts on the Right End of Its Line

Barelegged Bears New 'Wonder' Eleven of the Football World

Team Now En Route to Boston to Oppose Boston College Has Rolled Up Total of 246 Points This Season, Beating the Aggregation That Downed Bo McMillin's Centre Men Last Year.

By John E. Wray,
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

With Nebraska back home crestfallen by its unexpected defeat at Syracuse, another wonder team from the West folded up and went into hiding, along with the waning Centre College miracle men of the past three seasons. But now comes a new bidder for fame—Baylor University of Waco, Texas.

The Baylor eleven, with a record of six victories this year for a total of 246 points, is en route to Boston, where it opposes the strong Boston College team Saturday. Boston College has just a good second-class eleven this season, although time has been when it battled on even terms with members of the Big Three and performed up to the "miracle" class.

Like Centre College, in its first year of fame, Baylor is noted for its quarterback. Like Centre, too, it is famed for a peculiarity. With Centre this was the practice of praying before games, a custom that gave them the nickname of "Praying Colonels." With Baylor the unusual feature is that the men play bare-legged—a fact which has no connection with their nickname of the "Bears."

How long they will maintain this exposure after feeling the wintry Blasts of Boston curling around their shins remains to be demonstrated.

Bradshaw Better Than McMillin?

Centre had its Bo McMillin, Baylor has its Capt. Wesley Bradshow, field general, runner, punter, drop kicker and forward passer. It was Bradshaw who, against the Texas Aggies last year, gained more than 10 times as much ground against the Aggies as did Bo McMillin, when the Aggies shocked and pained the Danvilians by beating them.

This year Bradshaw has proved a terror. On the 246 points scored by Baylor this year Bradshaw has totaled 109 all by himself. He has made 13 touchdowns, four field goals and 19 goals after touchdowns. That ought to stand comparison with almost any individual performance.

As for the eleven itself, it faced the Texas Aggies, the team that beat McMillin's crack eleven, and gave it a good spanking last Saturday. It beat the Aggies, 18 to 7, the closest game of the season for Baylor.

Other Stars on Team.

Next in value to his team comes Russell Blailock, a tackle. This wisp of a youth weighs only 215 pounds and is 20 years old. Although a tackle, he has scored eight touchdowns this season. Baylor students call him the "Flying Elephant."

Coach Frank Bridges, a former Harvard star, has developed, according to reports of the games this year, a system by which his tackles are potent factors in the ground-gaining of the eleven. Williamson, the tackle who plays opposite Blailock, scored Baylor's touchdown against Boston College last season.

Baylor will present a big, heavy line, a driving offense led by Bradshaw and a defense which has been sufficient against all opponents this season. Whether it will stand up against the attack of Boston College backs remains to be seen.

Football Form May Be All Right But It Has No Meaning, This Year

SELDOM has football "dope" been as ineffectual in affording comparison between elevens as this year. Comparative scores except as between elevens widely separated in class, have failed absolutely to give a line on the probable result of a given contest.

Navy 13, Georgia Tech. 0.
Pennsylvania 13, Navy 7.
Alabama 9, Pennsylvania 7.

According to the form shown in the first three games, Pennsylvania should have defeated Alabama by 46 points.

WEMBLEY PARK STADIUM HOLDS 125,000 PERSONS

Wembley Park Stadium, adjacent to London, will be used for sporting events and will hold 125,000 spectators. Starting next April, the final for the English Cup—the soccer classic—will be played in the new structure. The stadium will be about half a mile in circumference and between 70 and 80 feet high. To see the football game, spectators will stand on terrace steps stretching over 2½ miles.

BILLIKENS' STRONGEST ELEVEN WILL OPPOSE DALLAS MEN SATURDAY

Stars Bruised in Game With Miners Are Now Being Allowed to Rest.

A hard scrimmage against the freshman team was the St. Louis University Billiken program at Sportsman's Park yesterday. The regulars experienced slight difficulty in scoring against the "yearlings" and succeeded in crossing the "freshie" goal line five times.

Coach O'Rourke is experimenting with backfield combinations. He worked several men at the halves, including the newcomers, Murphy and Davidson, both of whom exhibited flashes of ability. "Eagle" Klausner, the fullback, and "Dutch" Schaeffering are taking a rest, in order that minor injuries received in the Rolla contest may disappear.

The Blue and White line received a setback when McCarthy, who has been playing a steady and sturdy game at guard, emerged from a line play during the scrimmage with a broken nose. The injury will keep "Mac" from the Dallas game and may lay him up for the remainder of the season. Kalkman will be sent in to "Mac's" place at guard. The "Big Boy" has been ailing from the shrapnel wound in his foot, but has told Coach O'Rourke that he is now in good shape.

Slevin Geraghty, who has missed the last week of workouts because of illness, donned a suit and took part in the scrimmage yesterday. He will start the Dallas game at the pivot. If Klausner returns to condition, Bob Hannegan will again cavort at right end, with Tommy Kelly on the left extreme.

O'Rourke stated that he was taking no chances on the Dallas team being a weak one and would endeavor to place his strongest eleven on the field for the intersectional battle with the Texans.

TIGERS WILL USE NEW BACKFIELD, SATURDAY

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 8.—With a new backfield combination composed of Forest Fowler at quarterback, Lincoln and Bond at the halves and "Tin" Adams at fullback, and Chuck Lewis, 1921 Missouri captain, in active charge of development of a new Tiger aerial attack and defense, the University of Missouri football squad is in the midst of an attempted rejuvenation with which Missouri athletic authorities hope to pull a "comeback" against Oklahoma, Washington and Kansas in the next three weeks.

Lewis, who arrived in Columbia last week for a few days' visit, has decided to remain with the Tigers until the close of the season. Hank Garrity, Tiger assistant coach, is co-operating actively with Lewis in his new task, while Kelly will continue to look after the straight football end of the job.

NEALE IS OFFERED A POSITION AT ATLANTA

WASHINGTON, Pa.—Word was received here that Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale of the unbeaten Washington and Jefferson College eleven has received an offer to become manager of the Atlanta baseball club in the Southern Association. The offer, it was said, involves the position as football coach in a leading Southern college at the close of the baseball season.

Neale said he "had yet made no decision." Neale is a member of the Cincinnati National League baseball club. He has coached the W. and J. football eleven for two seasons with remarkable success.

The St. Louis U. High football eleven will play Belleville High at Belleville tomorrow afternoon. The same team that defeated Cleveland last week will oppose Belleville.

"It's Back to the Farm for Me," Says Bambino; Made 20 Homers on Tour

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.

BABE RUTH returned to town yesterday after a barnstorming trip through Oklahoma, Minnesota, Illinois, Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado. He played in 17 games of baseball and made 20 home runs. Bob Meusel, his partner, made 11 home runs, and the big leaguers won all the games they played.

"We had a good time, though we didn't make as much money as we had expected," said Ruth yesterday. "The folks we played before were very kind to us; the newspapers in the West gave us a lot of attention, and if it hadn't been for bad weather in Kansas City and Denver, I think we would have come through 100 per cent on the trip. As it is, we have nothing to complain of, but it might have been better."

Ruth says he is going to go on his farm in Massachusetts right after Thanksgiving, chop down a lot of trees, clear up a lot of brushwood and keep himself in trim through the entire winter.

Zbyszko to Meet Tony Scalzo Here

Former Mat Champion Will Be Feature on Same Program as Champion Lewis.

Tony Scalzo, Boston, a 235-pound Italian heavyweight, will face Stanislaus Zbyszko at the Coliseum here Nov. 16 in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling match, it was announced by Promoter John Contos, today. Contos said that Scalzo was a very good man and could force the former champion to extend himself.

Zbyszko will appear on the same night that Champion Lewis, who wrested the title from the Pole and then successfully defended it last season, will oppose Baba Manacoff as part of the same show.

Yeatman Eleven May Be Weakened For Soldan Game

Disbarment of Hannegan by Athletic Council Would Compel Shift in Lineup.

Yeatman High School's hope of victory over Soldan High Saturday will be materially reduced if the Athletic Committee of the Interscholastic League decides to bar Charley Hannegan, the North End ace, who was ejected from the game by the officials last week.

Coach Hill of the Yeatman eleven is hopeful that the committee will be swayed by the contention of the North Siders that Hannegan was severely treated for attempting to stop an opponent who was advancing the ball by crawling. Coach Hill and the Yeatman players say that Hannegan stopped the runner by shoving his head to the ground and that the officials must have seen the "crawling," as they penalized the opposition on the same play.

Shift Would Be Necessary.

If Hannegan is barred, the North Side coach will be forced to use a makeshift backfield, moving Muchow from tackle to right half and Nichols to quarterback. This may mar the effectiveness both of the Yeatman line and backfield.

At Soldan, Coach Cook is sending his men along at a steady pace. He will use the same lineup against Yeatman this week that he pitted against McKinley. There is a possibility, however, that Walsh, the speedy halfback, who has been on the Brown and Gold shelf for the last few weeks, may be used in one or two periods.

Game Appears "In," for Soldan.

Soldan, playing at normal speed, should not encounter considerable difficulty in downing Yeatman. The West Enders have shown improved form in each successive out, while the Yeatman eleven has been handicapped all season by the lack of material for reserve and have practically no scrub outfit to rub the rough spots off of the regulars.

Yeatman and Soldan are scheduled to meet in the first game at High School Field Saturday at 1:15 p. m.

RUTGERS IS VICTOR IN GAME WITH LOUISIANA STATE ELEVEN, 25-0

Navy's Offense on Too Narrow A Base at Present, Camp Says

Unless Changes Are Made Army Will Tie It Up From Tackle to Tackle in Annual Contest — Cullen Not an Impressive Punter.

By Walter Camp.
(Copyright, 1922.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The danger of an attack built around a particular star may extend beyond one season. That fact has been made clear even to enthusiastic adherents in the play of the Penn State team in the last week. The system of attack of Bezdek's men, which ran so smoothly with that old star Killinger, is limping without him. So much depends on the quarterback play in that remarkable method of offense which proved itself against Georgia Tech and so many other teams in 1921, that it seems to have lost all its fire and deception with a new quarter in the lineup.

Perhaps if Wilson should be shifted from half to quarter the results would improve. Palm seems to lack the punch necessary and has a habit of taking so much time dodging about before starting after he catches punts that critics long to see Killinger back with the kind of a run such as electrified the stands in the Georgia Tech game last year.

Palm's forward passing is hardly up to the mark although it must be conceded that his protection has not been what it should be. On defense, the Penn State line is strong. In the Navy game, it sewed up the Navy attack and made evident a fault which still exists at Annapolis. The Navy offense was on altogether too narrow a base and the Army also will tie it up from tackle to tackle, unless Folwell can broaden it.

Navy Backs Slow Starters.

The Navy backs in recent days have started more slowly than has been their wont. The future Admirals have a powerful line and a heavy one, but one which is none too quick. It did not make the openings against Penn State which would have allowed the Navy backfield to shine. Unless the forward wall improves, it can expect to encounter even greater difficulty from the Army forwards.

The kicking of Folwell's men this year has been far from impressive. Unless Cullen achieves more consistency with his punts, the chances are Wood of the Army will outpunt him 10 yards at nearly every exchange and considerable time could be well spent in additional training in the catching of punts by the Navy backfield.

Yale does not know, and apparently Harvard does not either, whether Fitts will be used at end or in the backfield.

Many are wondering what the quality of the Bethany football team is this year. Permit the writer to introduce the captain, Harry Randolph, third high scorer in the whole country last year. He plays right half, weighs 195 pounds and is fast enough to circle an end. He is the man who ran 95 yards from scrimmage against West Virginia Wesleyan last year for a touchdown.

Jimmy Smith in Top Form Again

Milwaukee Bowler Averages 216 4-17 in 17 Exhibition Games at Chicago.

Jimmy Smith of Milwaukee, for many years regarded as the world's champion, did some great shooting in exhibitions at Chicago recently, when he averaged 216 4-17 for 17 games. He had a high three games of 714 and 254 as high single game. In rolling these scores he defeated five Windy City stars, including Hank Marino. Fourteen of the 17 games for Smith were over 200.

Chicago Has 142 Leagues.

According to the latest figures, 142 leagues in Chicago have entered the Chicago Bowling Association. With a delegate to the A. B. C. allowed for each 10 teams, the Windy City will be allowed something like 130. On the same basis, St. Louis with its 560 quints, will be allowed 56 votes.

Some Bowling.

Two teams in Cincinnati "knocked 'em dead" recently, when the Hay Lumbers counted 3065, with games of 961, 1054 and 1050, and the Icy Hots totaled 3053 with 991, 1062 and 1000. Frohnauer, 679, and Hattersley, 662, were the individual stars for the Hays, while Warken, 667, and Barker, 652, showed the way for the Icy Hots.

Wolken Has Good Scores.

Wolken, anchor man of the Salesmen No. 3 five in the Pevely Boosters League, bowling at the Stein Junior alleys, did some good shooting last week, when he counted 631, with counts of 218, 185 and 228. The team won three straight from the Power Plant. In the other matches the Delmar Branch won two from the Route Foremen No. 1, Office Men won two from Routemen No. 2 and Salesmen No. 2 took the odd tilt from the Salesmen No. 1.

Carondelet League Notes.

Bowlers with 400 totals are stars in the Carondelet Motor League, which rolls on the Tower Grove alleys. Last week, Doering of the Salesmen showed the way with 441, while Steizer of the Office counted 435. The Mechanics won two from the Office and the Salesmen three from the Shop five. Foley of the Office had a tough job, but finally won the "booby" honors with a 345 total for three games, with counts of 59, 81 and 105. Kerber of the same team, with 258, gave him a hard fight.

Villa's Foe May Not Attempt to Do Title Weight

By Bert Igoe,
The Post-Dispatch's Eastern Boxing Authority.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Abe Goldstein is a victim of fate when it comes to poundage. He can make 114 pounds and could really get down to 112 for his bout with Flyweight Champion Pancho Villa, whom he meets at Madison Square Garden on Nov. 16. Unless Abe gets down to that weight he cannot hope to take Pancho's title.

Those two extra pounds would mean a lot if he tried to take them off for a powerful little fellow like Villa. At 112 and less Pancho is a tough bird to whip, and the chances are that Willie Lewis, Abe's mentor, would rather win over the champion than take the chances of sending his man into the ring weakened by the effort to whittle himself down to the flyweight limit.

Jack Renault Looms Up.

If old Bill Brennan doesn't look to his work he will soon find his big stable mate, Jack Renault, the Canadian heavyweight, booming up as the real rival for Dempsey. Renault is putting his nose to the grindstone these days. His latest victim was Jack Hyatt, whom he stopped in two rounds at the Broad A. C. of Trenton on Monday night.

When Bill does get down to fighting he is going to find that his long layoff is not going to improve his speed in the least. He will have to have it if he is to fight Tom Gibbons or Floyd Johnson.

Siki May Be "There."

Siki may be able to whip Georges Carpentier every night in the week, but from all accounts he won't get far, over there. Those who saw him trim the Frenchman seem to think that Siki is ordinary.

Inasmuch as he never has been stopped, it is hard to understand how folks have arrived at this conclusion. The husky, dusky one is improving, if nothing else. Better see him first before condemning his work in the ring. It takes more than a dub to whip handsome Georges.

SHADE MUST WAIT HIS TURN, BULGER ASSERTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—"Sure I'll fight Dave Shade any time he wants to meet me," said Mickey Walker today.

"No, you won't," said Manager Bulger. "A lot of other welters calling attention just now. Shade will come in his turn."

New Qualifying Plans Proposed For Title Event

By H. B. Martin,
Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1922.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The question of handling the qualifying rounds of the American Open Golf Championship at Inwood next summer already has been the subject of much discussion. A dozen methods have been suggested for relieving the situation which was so troublesome at Skokie this year when three days play was devoted to the qualifying rounds and the tournament was set back a day by rain.

One suggestion has been that players qualify in their own sections of the country and this idea is being given consideration. It is pointed out that this method would assure more adequate representations from far distant districts. Players are loath to make a long and expensive trip with the possibility of never getting into the final two days play at all.

Advance Former Champions.

Another qualifying round suggestion is that the former open champions be automatically advanced to the final two days play. It is felt among many of the professionals that this would be a deserved honor and compliment which would tend to enhance public interest in the matches and which would involve only a comparatively few places on the qualifying list. The ex-champions in this country would include Hagen, Barnes, Sarazen, Smith, McLeon, Sargeant, Ouimet, Evans, Travers and Ross. Abroad, Herd, Taylor, Vardon, Braid, Duncan, Hilton, White, Ball and Ray would be eligible.

How Far Does Golfer Walk?

How far does a player walk in covering 18 holes of golf? That depends on how good a golfer he is. If he is a star and is keeping his shots straight, he will cover about 4 miles in getting around the average course. If he is a duffer he will easily cover 5 miles. Walter Hagen figured up the other day that he had walked approximately 500 miles in the games he has played this season. Joe Kirkwood estimates he has walked 700 miles in the 150 matches he has played this year.

Kirkwood played about 11,000 strokes while Hagen used up about 10,800. Neither has made a hole in one although each has holed long mid iron shots. Hagen has had approximately 500 birdie holes or holes one under par and 20 eagles or holes 2 under par.

Each of these golfers expects to break C. L. Fletcher's record of having played over 250 golf courses, before the year is out. Hagen played around 60 courses this year on which he never set foot before.

WILHELM WILL NOT MANAGE PHILADELPHIA NATIONALS NEXT YEAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—William F. Baker, owner of the Philadelphia National League baseball club, admitted last night to the Associated Press that he would not retain Irvin K. Wilhelm as manager of his team next year, but he denied that he was negotiating with Hugo Bezdek to take charge, as reported from State College, Pa.

Baker returned yesterday from a month's hunting trip and said he would go to Philadelphia tomorrow to begin plans for the 1923 season. "I have not been in touch with anybody and have not been negotiating with Bezdek, but I've got to have a new manager and I don't know who he will be," he declared. He declined to say whether Bezdek would be considered for the job.

Wilhelm took charge of the Quakers during the season of 1921 and finished last, climbing out of the cellar to seventh place this season. He formerly was a pitcher and has been in major league baseball since 1903, except from 1914 to 1921. He first was with Pittsburg and then with Boston, Brooklyn, Baltimore and finally Philadelphia.

BEZDEK REFUSES TO DISCUSS REPORT THAT HE WILL LEAD PHILS.

By the Associated Press.

STATE COLLEGE, Penn., Nov. 8.—Hugo Bezdek, director of athletics of Pennsylvania State College, and coach of the baseball and football team, last night refused to confirm or deny a report that he had been offered a managership of the Philadelphia National League baseball club for 1923. Bezdek formerly manager the Pittsburg National League team, coming to Penn State in 1918. Under his leadership the Pirates advanced from last place to a position in the first division.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—William J. Shattsline, business manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, and James Hagen, secretary of the club, said last night they had no knowledge of a movement to bring Hugo Bezdek here to manage the club. President Baker of the Phillies is in New York, they said.

Arrangements were made yesterday for the second round United States Football Association cup games between Municipal League elevens to be played at Sportsman's Park next Sunday.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre At Once

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

NEW YORK WITHOUT ELECTION "EXTRAS"

Publishers Shut Down at 7 P. M. When Pressmen of the Evening World Refuse to Work Overtime.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—At 7 o'clock last evening the force of pressmen employed by the Evening World quit work for the day. It had been the intention of the Evening World, in common with the other afternoon newspapers, to issue "election extras" up to 10 p. m., and the men had been requested to work overtime for this purpose. This they refused to do.

Under an agreement reached at a meeting of the Newspaper Publishers' Association last Monday, the publishers of other evening papers released their press crews at 7 p. m., and no "extras" were issued. Also, as a result of this agreement the morning newspapers got out no special editions before 10:30 p. m.

The publishers' resolution also provided that any pressmen who refused to work overtime on election night should be discharged and that the union should be called upon to fill their places. The Evening World men were not replaced, and a meeting of the Newspaper Publishers' Association has been called for 10:30 this morning in its offices in the Pulitzer Building.

Statement of Union Head.

David Simons, president of Pressmen's Union No. 25, said last night that if the Evening World locked out its pressmen as a result of the publishers' meeting this morning, the action might lead to a general strike of pressmen on all the papers in the city. He declared that the refusal of the men of the Evening World to work overtime was due to their interpretation of the Manton award, and he added that pressmen of the Brooklyn Eagle, the Mail and Globe had worked until 7:30 p. m. and were willing to continue working when they were informed that they were not wanted any more.

The pressmen who walked out last night said that according to their interpretation, the Manton award makes overtime optional after 7 p. m. They contended that they had worked the required number of hours stipulated in the agreement and that the pressmen of the morning newspapers should have relieved them when their period of work had been completed.

Reply From the World.

Replying to the statement which Simons is quoted as having made, a representative of the business office of the World said last night:

"There was no question of wages or overtime payment. The Manton award clearly states that the publisher has a right to determine the time his editions are published and overtime payment is provided for. The men shall continue their work and refer to a Joint Standing Committee of the publishers and the union. The president of the union ordered the men to continue at work but the men overrode their officers' decision."

MISSIONARIES TO USE PLANES

Workers in China Also Decide to Use Radio in Future.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Radiophones and airplanes as aids in carrying on missionary work in virtually inaccessible parts of China will be used by missionaries of the Methodist Episcopal Church, announces the Committee on Conservation and Advance of that church.

This was decided upon at a meeting of missionaries in Tzechow, West China. The delegates at the missionary meeting could see the mountains of Tibet. It is several weeks' journey from Shanghai and there are no railroads in that region. The Tzechow territory lies in the heart of China's wealthiest province, Szechuen, with 60,000,000 inhabitants. Because of the lack of transportation facilities and inaccessibility of some sections, missionaries have been unable previously to reach many of these localities. The missionaries, planning work for the next 10 years, voted for four sets of wireless telephones with which to link up the widely separated main stations, and four two-passenger airplanes with which to reach hitherto inaccessible sections.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY LARGE

State Organization Has 1607 Members; Is Second in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 8.—The State Historical Society of Missouri has an active membership of 1607, in addition to 600 editorial members, thus giving the organization the largest active paid membership of any historical society in the Mississippi Valley and the second largest of any state historical society in America, Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary, said today.

"This membership," Shoemaker said, "is an indication of a new state pride and state historical consciousness on the part of our people." If one recalls that in such statistics one has comparisons with practically all of the states, it is really a remarkable honor and a compliment to Missouri that her people have expressed in such a high degree their pride and interest in the history of their State."

DAUDET WITHDRAWS HIS NOVEL AFTER CRITICISM

French Deputy Agrees That Certain Passages Might Shock "Innocent Souls."

By FERDINAND TUOHY.
(Copyright, 1922.)

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Parisian Deputy and Royalist leader, Leon Daudet, has withdrawn his novel, "The Procuress," from circulation. Daudet signalized this literary departure in an open letter to the Archbishop of Paris, agreeing that certain passages might shock "the innocent souls for whom the book was not intended," adding that his publisher, Flammarion, has acquiesced in the suppression.

Fifty thousand copies have, however, been sold and there was a great last-minute rush yesterday morning on Flammarion, who is supplying the volume beneath camouflaged covers.

Daudet's Explanation.

"I tried to pervert nobody," declared Daudet in an interview yesterday. "I was once a doctor and it was natural that I should choose a medical case as the basis for my novel. My political enemies precipitated this campaign, though I will admit 'The Procuress' is not quite healthy."

Daudet's book is a tale of an abnormal woman with a hobby of bringing others together, and contains a central scene of corruption of an extreme order. This is not the first book which Daudet—in a kind of Jekyll and Hyde church respectability and licentious novel writing—has contributed.

His self-censorship follows a violent press campaign against Victor Marguerite's "The Bachelor Girl." In fact, for the first time, there is a definite set against literature of this kind in Paris, famous writers asserting that the name of France is being trailed in mud before foreigners.

"The Bachelor Girl," which is selling at 2000 daily, is a tale of a post-war girl who decides she is capable of circumventing the pitfalls of the average bachelor man.

Character of Story.

The novel is "Madamoiselle de Maupin" over again but set in an opium and abnormal vice atmosphere of Paris 60 years after.

It is a true photographic picture of doings of 1 per cent of the set of foreign and French able to indulge every caprice. Many leading papers call for the author's arrest, in view of the description of orgies unapproached by Joyce in "Ulysses."

Marguerite, in a heated letter, defends his action on the score of truth, claiming that if his "Bachelor Girl" has taken a false step first, she at least has taken a first step toward emancipation from the cave man. "The Bachelor Girls," in effect, runs to extremes in her self-chosen liberty, unapproached by the average bachelor man of similar situation.

ODEON THEATER REMODELING TO COST MORE THAN $50,000

Entrance Hallway to Be Widened to About 50 Feet and Interior Renovated.

Remodeling of the entrance to the Odeon, 1042 North Grand boulevard, including the widening of the present hallway to the theater to about 50 feet, and renovating the interior of the theater, are included in plans for reconstruction of these parts of the structure at a total expense of more than $50,000.

Work has begun on the proposed change, and the four shops now fronting the Odeon theater on Grand boulevard are being vacated to make way for the improvement. There will be only two shops left when the new entrance is completed, the center two now flanking the hallway to be absorbed in the widening process. A covered exit at the north side of the building, opening at the north end of the foyer, is to be built. A new drop curtain is included in the plans for new scenery.

WILD DUCKS VISIT CHICAGO

Hundreds Tarry in Zoo Lagoons Undisturbed by Nearby Traffic.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Almost within sight of Chicago's loop and within a stone's throw of a busy boulevard down which thousands of automobiles pass daily, hundreds of southward bound wild ducks are tarrying for their semi-annual visit to Chicago. The Lincoln Park lagoons are teeming with wild fowl, apparently undisturbed by the thousands who pass.

Some of the mallards and other species are regular residents of the park. Superintendent William Parker of the zoo has set aside one of the lagoons for a breeding preserve, and last spring a large number of wild ducks took advantage of the artificial nests and remained over the summer. Approximately 360 young ducks were hatched there this year. Some fly away each year, but more stop the next and there is always a plentiful supply of birds paddling about the open lake.

W. E. Johnson in New Zealand.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 6.—W. E. Johnson, the American prohibition advocate, recently passed through Sydney on his way to New Zealand to take part in the anti-liquor fight there. A lunch-hour meeting was held in the Sydney Town Hall to welcome him. In the evening he addressed a big meeting in the Hippodrome. He declared that prohibition in America was a tremendous success. Experience had shown, he said, that prohibition was for the benefit of the race and the advancement of civilization.

Homemade Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The Best Cough Medicine You Ever Used. A Family Supply Easily and Quickly Made. Saves About $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few minutes. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

Do You Want to Hear Your Money Talk?

"If you want to hear your money talk, invest it in a talking machine," advises the facetious one. Sound advice. No investment pays bigger dividends in amusement. The place to invest is the phonograph department of the Prufrock-Litton Furniture Store, Fourth and St. Charles.

They handle the Windsor, the aristocrat of talking machines; the Aeolian Vocalion, Columbia and other well-known models. Many greatly underpriced for disposal before Xmas. A visit to this department and to their twenty furnished rooms will prove interesting.

PRICES IRREGULAR IN QUIET TRADE ON STOCK MARKET

Little Attention Paid to Election Results—French and German Exchange Demoralized — Sterling Strong.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Today's stock market was a quiet affair and paid little attention to election results. Such an attitude is not, after all, surprising since it is difficult to see how, excepting the tariff, any issues affecting business were clearly drawn. In any event an irregular opening was followed by a firming up which persisted through the rest of the session. Toward the close some irregularity existed, rails being slightly lower, but a number of leading industrials were a point or so higher. Bonds showed a mixture of small gains and losses and call money, after opening at 5 per cent, was raised to 5½ per cent shortly before noon and to 6 per cent after that hour.

"Continued demoralization in French and Belgian francs and in German marks was the feature of the foreign exchange market. These currencies had been exceedingly weak in London on yesterday and before our opening today. When grading began on this side of the water the declines were continued. Thus German marks sold down to a new low of .01 1-16 of a cent and French francs dropped to the lowest price of the year at 6.18 cents which was 42½ points below Monday's close. Belgian francs lost 52½ points at 5.61 cents. The movement plainly was predicted on disappointing reports as to the success of the Rearations Commission's visit to Berlin. While these declines ere taking place sterling was strong and most o fthe former neutrals were steady. The former rose as high as 4.46⅛ and after receding half cent from the day's best price was still able to show a net gain of 1⅛ cents. Italian lire also were firm, gaining 8½ points at 4.22 cents.

"Cotton continued its recent remarkable advance. Thi smarket paid no attention to th eweakness in foreign exchange or to Turkish rumors and advanced strongly to new highs. December reached 26.43 cents and at a alte price of 26.18 was up 74 points on the day. The Government ginning report was substantially as expected, showing 8,140,000 bales to Nov. 1. Whether the ginning figures indicate that the crop will be nearer 10,000,000 than 9,000,000 bales remains to be seen. It must be admitted, however, that the market has shown a surprising ability to absorb profit-taking.

Steel Industry Situation.

"Confirmation of favorable reports regarding activity in the steel industry is now furnished by the figures for pig iron production in October. Output for the month averaged 85,000 tons a day which not only shows that the strike losses have been made good, but sets a new high record since December, 1920. Furthermore, the number of furnaces in blast increased during the month by 29 and the daily capacity of the furnaces active on Nov. 1 amounted to 88,030 tons. Productions of finished steel apparently has kept pace with that of pig iron and fully 75 per cent of the country's steel making capacity is active. Improvement in the transportation situation has played a part in the industry's recovery and the Iron Age now states that car supply is more liberal and should become increasingly so when the movement of coal to the Great Lakes tapers off in the course of the next few weeks. Pig iron prices are still receding from the scarcity level, but steel prices are steady with much interest displayed in the expected announcement of the Steel Corporation's first quarter prices on sheets and tin plate."

Wall Street News and Comment

—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—In today's markets it was hard to say that Tuesday's election results cut much of a figure. Some professional selling occurred at the opening on the Stock Exchange, obviously by way of experiment. But there was no real liquidation.

That the heavy domestic vote denoted widespread dissatisfaction with the high tariff was conceded in Wall Street as elsewhere out from the practical standpoint the main consideration was that no amount of adverse voting could result in a change in the new import duties, at least for another two and a half years to come. Consequently, there was not a ripple of excitement even in the shares of industrial companies which are the chief beneficiaries of the Republican tariff.

Trading in stocks was rather quiet judged by recent standards, but interests committed to the side of higher prices showed clearly enough their supremacy. A few weak points developed, among them General Asphalt, and Allis Chalmers, because the third quarter statement fell below anticipations. But with these exceptions the principal movements were nearly all upward.

The Bond Market.

There was great irregularity in the bond market today. Libertys were active and lower. Inquiry for high-grade rail issues was better than for a long time. As to the Libertys, both the new Treasury 4¼s and all the war issues sold at substantial declines in the first half of the day. The demand for investment rails was particular as to quality and price, but for desirable issues the market was good, especially over the counter. Another interesting development was the switching from short to long-term obligations, contrary to all the recent trend. It was this apparent great confusion in opinion as to the future prices which caused the irregularity. Among special issues Market Street Railway first 5s and the 6 per cent collateral notes were features. Both sold at substantial advances probably in response to the carrying of the amendment to the San Francisco city charter to permit purchase of the lines by the city. Active trading in both the Chile Copper bonds continued today. Both the 7s and the 6s made new highs. Cerro de Pasco 8s scored another advance. New Orleans Terminal 4s at 79 were up over 3 points from the last sale. This bond is secured by first lien on valuable real estate in New Orleans and is guaranteed by the Southern Railway. The low for this year was 70½ and the high was 81½. Among industrials Goodrich 6½s gained ground. The issues were heavy, although some of the bonds gained fractionally in the early trading, notably the convertible Bs and the general 4s. The prior lien 4s got down below 59. All the St. Paul issues were soft. Among high-grade rails Reading general 4s were active and higher, as were Kansas City Southern 3s and ... Bonds of the local utilities moved uncertainly, but generally the tendency was upward. As might have been expected from the acute weakness in the continental exchanges, particularly francs, the demand for French bonds was very poor. French made a new low for the year.

The total net earnings of the company for the nine months ended Sept. 30 were $2,-464,564.37.

Solar Refining Co. stockholders will receive a 100 per cent stock dividend when the directors meet Dec. ... to vote on increasing the capital from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000.

COTTON UP $5 A BALE; DECEMBER AT 26.43C

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The census report showing 8,139,839 bales of cotton ginned to Nov. 1 was taken by local traders as in line with recent crop estimates and was followed by an opening advance of 25 to 43 points in the early cotton market. Buying was prompted by the relatively steady ruling of Liverpool. There was active buying and after selling at 25.56c on the call, January held around 25.43c during the early trading.

The market showed continued strength and activity later; traders appeared to pay little attention to the unsettled ruling of foreign exchange rates or the Turkish situation. Early settlers for a reaction covered on the late forenoon advance, which carried December contracts up to 26.31c and January 26.08c early in the noon hour, or about 90 to 95 points above Monday's closing.

The buying movement tapered off around 26.43c for December and 26.15c for January or about 100 to 106 points net higher and prices showed reactions of some 20 to 25 points from the best.

A quantity of January cotton for sale around 26 cents with a large buying order at 25.85c, held fluctuations within a 20-point limit during the afternoon. The buying orders were filled on closing realizing sales.

8,139,839 Bales of Cotton Ginned.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Cotton ginned prior to Nov. 1 amounted to 8,139,839 running bales counting 143,086 round bales as half bales, and including 13,335 bales of American-Egyptian, and 3077 bales of Sea Island, the census bureau announced.

To Nov. 1 last year, ginnings were 6,-646,354 running males, counting 110,981 round bales as half bales and including 11,-812 bales of American Egyptian and 1816 bales of Sea Island.

Ginnings to Nov. 1 by states follow: Alabama, 709,029; Arizona, 16,640; Arkansas, 820,031; California, 8349; Florida, 22,446; Georgia, 631,854; Louisiana, 313,592; Mississippi, 839,331; Missouri, 90,270; North Carolina, 577,003; Oklahoma, 540,801; South Carolina, 413,481; Tennessee, 280,745; Texas, 2,855,606; Virginia, 13,503; all other states, 7158.

New Orleans Spot Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—Spot cotton firm, 87 points up. Good middling 26.25c. Futures closed 80 to 94 points higher.

CATTLE AND HOG PRICES RULE ON STEADY BASIS

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Nov. 8.—Receipts today, estimated: Cattle, 7000; hogs, 13,500; sheep, 2500; horses and mules, 250.

CATTLE—Receipts normal and market slightly uneven, with the average about steady; possibly strong in Western steers and some butcher stock. Best price was $10.60 per cwt., paid for yearling steers, followed by $10.40 for a mature drove. Veal calves moved up 25c to 50c; top $10 and bulk $9.50 to $10.

Quotations: Best fed steers and yearlings, high $13.25, bulk $10.50 to $12.50; native grass steers, bulk $4.50 to $6.76; plain native grass yearlings, bulk $3.50 to $6.75; butcher cows, bulk $3.50 to $5; cutter cows, range $2.50 to $3.25; canner cows, range $2.25 to $2.50; beef bulls with weight, bulk $4.25 to $4.75; bologna b... to $4.25; stocker and feeders steers, bulk $4 to $6.75.

HOGS—Receipts again fell a little below the preliminary estimate, although the run was fair in volume, amounting to 13,500 head. There was a right good carry-over in first and second hands, aggregating 5000 hogs so that altogether a generous supply was on sale. So far the current week the receipts aggregate 41,300 head, a loss of 35 per cent from the preceding week, and a drop of 40 per cent from the corresponding days a year ago. Again the market got off to an early start with Eastern order buyers, city butchers and the big packers all in the competition. Once more weight was in demand and the best sellers were good quality hogs above 200 pounds in weight. Such kinds were quite active and generally cleared at $8.55@8.60, with a forenoon top of $8.65, order buyers giving that price. The best butcher hogs ruled strong to 5c higher. Packers got most of their 190@210-pound hogs early at an average of $8.50. City butchers paid up to $8.60 on the opening rounds for hogs 200 pounds and better. Under 170 pounds, it was generally a steady market, although the movement on the lighter weight offering showed more life than was apparent yesterday. The light shipping hogs, 150@170 pounds, generally sold at $8.40, with a price range of $8.35@8.50. Light lights around 130@140 pounds cleared from $8.35@8.45. Peewee pigs were again in demand and offering of this class light in volume. Strictly choice pigs around 80 pounds in weight quotable up to $9. Market on rough packer sows was generally steady to strong. The good light sows cleared mainly around $7.25, with heavies and mediums largely at $7@7.15. Stags showed a wide range of $6.25@7.25.

SENTIMENT MORE MIXED IN CHICAGO WHEAT TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Sentiment was a little more mixed in the wheat trade today and some of the original bulls are advising getting out of long wheat for profits, but they still feel that short sales are not warranted at the moment. This opinion is based on the fact that there is too much company on the bull side and when sentiment becomes almost unanimous it is past history that the culmination of the movement is about ended. There was enough in the situation to warrant purchases. The strength in corn was first as an influencing factor and the 1c to 3c advance in red wheat premiums indicated that if exporters were indifferent that mills were willing to pay the price. Receipts were heavier, reflecting an increase in the car supply. Cables were weak today and this checked export business, even Winnipeg reporting a slowing up in the export demand. Argentine exportable surplus is officially estimated at 145,000,000 bu., compared with 92,000,000 bu estimated, but actual exports were nearly 130,000,000 bu.

Wheat weakened late to the session as the result of local liquidation. At the close prices were unchanged to ⅛c lower. December $1.15⅛ to ¼; May, $1.15 to $1.15¼; July, $1.05⅞ to ¾.

Sentiment remains bullish, but conservative longs are getting out of their corn and look for a reaction. Receipts are heavier and the country offered corn to arrive freely on the bulge.

Oats were affected by the action of corn. Heavier receipts and easier corn premiums are modifying bull sentiment.

SPECIALIZING IN GOVERNMENT AND MUNICIPAL BONDS

The Free Bridge Was Sold Last Week

One billion dollars were frittered away in 1920 and 1921 by folk looking for easy money.

What they got is what the bridge buyer got—a pretty document of gold and scrolls—but the city still owns the bridge.

These things should make the investor observe the "Stop-Look-and-Listen" sign when buying.

The relation between you and your bank should be one of personal and mutual understanding, especially when considering the investment of your funds.

In Buying Bonds Be Sure of—Enduring safety,
Regular income,
Relief from care,
Sale and loan value,
Convenient denomination,
Satisfactory duration,
And responsibility of selling agency.

The line was the result of a dispute between the States of Maryland and Pennsylvania over their respective boundaries as described in their charters.

APPLES.—Following is the taffy recipe used for candied apples: 2 cups light brown sugar, ¼ cup molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 2 tablespoons water, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter, 2 teaspoons vanilla. Boil first 5 ingredients until, when tried in cold water mixture will become brittle. When nearly done add butter, dip apples in and let cool. The Oregon State Experiment Station after tests pronounce the following varieties of apples the best for pie making: Northern Spy, Rambo and Maiden Blush, Gano, Grimes Golden, Jonathan, Winesap and Giant Geniting. For apple dumplings: Maiden Blush, Minkler, Grimes Golden and North Spy, Ben Davis, York Imperial and Rome Beauty are best. "Selected Apple Recipes" will be sent you free upon request to the College of Agriculture, Columbia, Mo.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association.)

OLD READER.—It depends on what kind of water it is, and how it ruins your property. Write again, stating all the facts.

F. O. B.—A peddler's license would probably be required for canvassing the Christmas novelty. Inquire of the License Collector at the city hall.

A. F. G.—You can garnish your husband's commission or salary, whether he receives them in this State or elsewhere. Consult a lawyer.

OSCAR.—You do not state what kind of property it was, or how you purchased it, whether on credit, chattel mortgage or conditional sale. Write again, stating all the facts.

A READER.—The man cannot get a divorce from his wife on the ground that you state, as he has lived with her for 10 years since the trouble, but he may be able to get a divorce on some other ground.

S. D.—You have no legal right to know of all his business affairs. If he leaves you without cause and refuses to support you, then you can sue him for separate maintenance.

S. B.—The company can take the furniture away, but in that case they will have to return to you 75 per cent of your payments, unless you gave them a chattel mortgage on the furniture. If you gave a chattel mortgage they do not have to return 75 per cent of the payment made.

ANXIOUS.—If the wages assigned had not been earned at the time the assignment was made, the assignment was null and void, and you could contest it and compel the railroad company to pay you instead of the broker. But the amount involved is so small that it would not pay you to do this. If the wages had been earned and were due, at the time of the assignment, then the assignment is legal.

A. R.—The foreclosure depends upon whether the incumbrance is a simple mortgage, or a deed of trust or a mortgage with power of sale. If it is a mortgage without power of sale, or a deed of trust, the foreclosure may be by suit, and the mortgagor cannot redeem the property after the sale under the judgment or foreclosure. If it is a deed of trust or a mortgage with power of sale, the property can be redeemed during the 20 days' notice period, or at any time before the sale. In that case the mortgagor has to pay the costs which have been incurred up to that time, such as publication of the notice of sale. If at the sale the property is purchased by the mortgagee, the property may, under certain circumstances, be redeemed by the mortgagee within one year from the date of the sale.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

ANNA K.—An ulcer of the stomach or small bowel might cause such symptoms. You had better have an examination made.

MRS. BROKEN-HEARTED.—Repeat your question, sending stamped addressed envelope. It would be well for you to see a physician. Your ailments are too many for us to give an intelligent answer.

FRIEND.—Coffee agrees with some persons and does not agree with others. It is not likely that coffee is making or keeping you thin, unless it is disturbing your general health, for instance, your digestion. You might demonstrate by refraining from its use for a while.

S.—The main treatment for dandruff can be summed up in the word "stimulation." Brushing and combing the hair and massaging the scalp will help. Weekly, semi-weekly or even daily cleansing of the scalp should be practiced. This is best done with the following wash: Saponis viridis 4 ounces, alcohol 2 ounces. Dissolve with heat and filter. After shampooing with this the hair is thoroughly rinsed in clear water and dried as thoroughly as possible and the following applied: Carbolic acid 15 grains, glycerine 2 drams, cologne water enough to make 1 ounce. Mix thoroughly and apply as follows: Make a part in the hair and drop the mixture on the scalp at intervals of an inch and rub in with a soft brush, a tooth brush serves well. Cover the scalp by this method, making one part after another. After a time the shampooing may be done less often, but the mixture should be applied faithfully and persistently until the hair ceases to fall.

General Motors GMC Trucks

Built for Hard Work

Ability to continue the haulage of the heaviest loads day after day over longer periods of time has been assured to GMC trucks by the surplus strength that has been provided in every part.

Such features as radius rods, relieving the springs of the driving thrust, oversize brake drums, oversize bearings and bushings are not necessary for the first few months of a motor truck's use. But they are vital to the long life that a truck must have to be a profitable investment.

TWO WOMEN INJURED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Were Crossing Street When Driver Swerved to Avoid Another Woman; Six Hurt in Accidents.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Wolff, 42, of 3806 Utah street, and Mrs. Paul E. Nolan, 4004 Arsenal street, were seriously injured at 10 o'clock last night when knocked down by an automobile driven by John H. Barry, 4202 Delmar boulevard, at Grand boulevard and Utah street, as Barry swerved his machine to avoid striking another woman who was crossing the street.

They were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital, where it was said Mrs. Wolff had suffered a fractured left arm and leg and injuries to the left hip, knee and ankle, and possible internal hurts, and that Mrs. Nolan had suffered a fractured skull and right hip, internal hurts and bruises on the body.

Barry told the police he was driving north on Grand boulevard, when, at Utah street, a woman ran in front of his machine and he swerved sharply to the west side of the street to avoid striking her. Mrs. Wolff and Mrs. Nolan were crossing from the east to the west side of Grand boulevard, arm-in-arm, when the machine struck them.

Charles Payne, 6, of 1810 Rutger street, suffered scalp wounds and body bruises at 5 p. m., when knocked down by an automobile driven by Isadore Rosen, 1208 South Eighteenth street. In attempting to avoid the accident, Rosen wrecked his machine against a fence in front of 1809 Rutger street.

John Cain, 12, of 2507 South King's highway, suffered concussion of the brain when thrown from an automobile driven by Theodore Swarthout, 4973 Odell avenue, when the automobile collided with another machine driven by Rolla Cole of 425 0Botanical avenue, at Tower Grove and Shaw avenues.

Walter Timmerman, 17, of 2730 North Twenty-first street, and Leo Burkhart, 5, 2024 Rutger street, were knocked from a bicycle in a collision with an automobile driven by Clarence Hobbs of 5421A Robin avenue, at Florissant avenue and Farrar street, while Burkhart was on the handle bars of the bicycle. Both were cut and bruised.

WEALTHY RETIRED BUTCHER MISSING SINCE SATURDAY

Relatives of Oswald Matt, 76, Ask Police for Investigation, Following Disappearance.

Oswald Matt, 76 years old, of 835 West Tesson street, a wealthy retired butcher and former city meat inspector, departed from his home at 11:30 a. m., last Saturday, and his failure to return has alarmed relatives, who have requested a police investigation.

When he left home he said he was going to accompany an old friend, John Strassbach of 3115 Pennsylvania avenue, to the Federal Building, to be a witness for Strassbach in an application for passports to France. John Matt, a son of the missing man, told the police that he interviewed Strassbach and that the latter told him his father was not at the Strassbach home Saturday, but was there last Thursday.

OWNER OF CAR FOUND WRECKED SAYS HE WAS ROBBED BY 3 MEN

George A. Norton of 2611 Allen avenue explained to police yesterday the circumstances surrounding the finding by police of his automobile wrecked against a telephone post Monday night at Eighteenth and Biddle streets.

Norton said that three men, one with a revolver, approached him Monday at 10 p. m. while he was stopping to adjust his automobile engine in Fairground Park. He said they forced him back into the machine and one of them drove while the others beat and robbed him of $87 and his watch. Two of the men left the car at Jefferson and Cass avenues, he said, the other continuing to drive until the machine ran into a pole. Norton said the remaining robber again beat him. Norton said a passerby found him on the sidewalk and took him home.

French Seek Business in Moscow.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Oct. 6.—More representatives of French commercial houses have been visiting Rusisa this fall than at any time since the war. Some have come to negotiate with the Government for concessions of various kinds, while others are here to buy or sell goods. The first concession to be granted a French company under the soviet regime was that of the municipality of Moscow, by which deal a group of capitalists from Paris are given a 49-year lease upon certain city blocks. The buildings are to be improved by the French and subleased for business purposes, or as living quarters, the company paying the city government each year a percentage of its income.

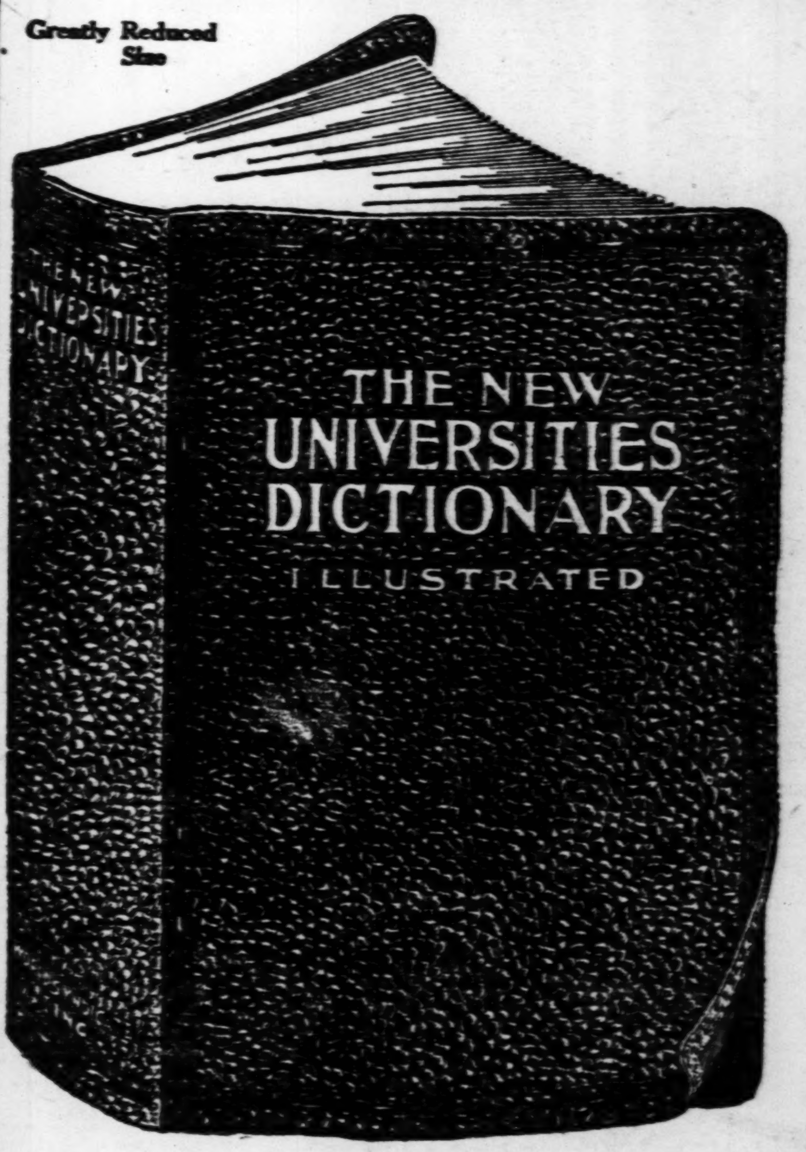
THE NEW UNIVERSITIES DICTIONARY

Greatly Reduced Size



THE publishers of this Dictionary, knowing that the readers of the Post-Dispatch are interested in better education, desire to give men and women, boys and girls, more chance for self-advancement, and offer Post-Dispatch readers exclusively a Dictionary containing the many new words recently brought into general and proper use by scientific, religious, artistic and political advances.

You cannot understand the big ideas that are rebuilding the world unless you have The New Universities Dictionary constantly at hand in home and office for quick reference.

The leading English and Latin teachers of five great universities have contributed articles to this Dictionary: Percy W. Long, A.M., Ph.D., of Harvard; Clark S. Northrup, Ph.D., of Cornell; John C. Rolfe, Ph.D., of Pennsylvania; Forrest S. Lunt, A.M., of Columbia; Morris W. Croll, Ph.D., of Princeton, and the Editor-in-Chief is George J. Hagar, whose biographical sketch in "Who's Who in America" takes up about a half column to relate his great services to education.

The New Universities Dictionary has not a dry line in the whole book—every page is of vital interest. Besides the adequate vocabulary printed, it contains twenty-two separate and distinct vocabularies of special activities, such as automobiling, golf, war, aviation, music, and many other arts, sciences and sports. Furthermore, it presents special dictionaries of Americanisms, foreign words and phrases, etc.

The book that is thus placed within your grasp at this remarkably low price, is illustrated with expensive pictures.

Word-study is the short-cut to self-education. A well-stocked brain and a well-trained tongue provide the right word at the right time, and a whole fortune changes hands. That's the way millionaires are made. Make your start today. Grasp the opportunity with the valuable coupon found elsewhere.

TRUSTFUL WOMEN and TREACHEROUS MEN

By SOPHIE IRENE LOEB.
(Copyright, 1922.)

HE was the last man under the sun who I thought would do any wrong." These were the words of a woman who was "taken in" by a smooth-tongued gentleman who got her money and then said, "Well, I cannot help it if things go wrong."

In this way thousands of women are being swindled every day. An instance of this is the decision of the General Sessions jury a few days ago against a promoter of stock who swindled women out of approximately $1,000,000.

It would seem that in this day and age women would have learned a lesson and not follow blindly the man who has only one object—getting money. The trait of being too trustful and not seeing through swindlers is one about which women should be wary.

The trouble is that women do not recognize the signs of the swindler right off. He is very suave and just knows how to "get around women." He does not use direct methods. He does not come right out with the proposition when he is first acquainted. Oh, no; he is too careful for that. He works and worms his way into the confidence of the women and then proceeds to take all he can get.

One woman, a widow, told me the maneuvers of one particular man. His system was cultivating women socially. So this woman happened to meet him at a dinner party. He became very "sweet" on her and paid her considerable attention. For months he lavished many friendly attentions upon her, invited her to dinner and to the theater and other amusement places, and became very friendly.

Very slowly and methodically he proceeded to tell her how he had a little bit of some very excellent stock. Of course he would not think of the widow putting her money into it—not at all. He would drop the subject and resume it as though it was one which should not be talked about. This was the method he used in arousing the woman's curiosity, and it did get her interest. One does love to make money, and especially such "easy money" from the tip of a good friend.

As it always happens, in this case also, the woman approached the subject herself and insisted on knowing more about this stock business whereby so much money could be made, but he was always reluctant even in speaking about the matter. It was one where only man should venture. Women had no business in these matters, he told her, etc., etc.

But even in his remonstrance with her he got in a few hints as to the value of the stock and how much there was to be made and how quickly it would be materialized. "In fact," said the widow, "I actually had to beg him to take my money and use it and invest it with his own in his great scheme. I was so dead sure of his unwillingness to let me risk it that I even insisted that a woman should be permitted to risk her money even as man. And he got it. It was not long after that his visits became less frequent and he was always busy. Then I began to wonder what was to become of the money I had invested. I had a few ornamented papers to show for my hard-arned cash, but that was all.

"And the hurt to my pride was even more to me than the money," this woman admitted. "To think that he had left me cold in the fashion that he did!"

Well, as again is the case, this woman demanded a "show down," where was the money and how soon could she expect to derive some benefit? And then she saw the man in the real light—the light of a thief—for that is what he really is. He knows what he is doing every minute.

While woman may not readily discern the ways of him who is seeking to inveigle her into a deal, yet there is one safe rule to follow. When men begin to talk money, be cautious. The best men will not urge women to invest their money, especially if they are friends. If they do, they will insist that her best friends or her lawyer shall go over the whole proposition before she puts up a single cent.

A glib fellow will never stand for this sort of thing. He will not want any one to know about it. He will insist on secrecy, if possible.

In short, a good friend who really has something of value to give to a woman, in order to help her make money, will not permit her to go into anything unless all those closely associated with her are satisfied that the proposition is the kind it ought to be.

And the wisest plan of all is to take no tips from anybody on making money—tips that cannot be thoroughly brought out into the light of day and closely scrutinized.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

Have You Selected Your New Window Curtains?

THE new curtains are fascinating this season, especially those of thin material—in fact, this is a story about just thin curtains. In another article you shall hear of the heavier window draperies and the right modes of making and hanging them.

While sash curtains are a window necessity in the city, they are also used in suburban homes, especially where windows are opposite or nearly opposite those of a next-door neighbor. The unwritten law in the selection of the sash curtains is that they should be appropriate in quality and design to go with the heavier curtains used over them, and that they should not be too obviously expensive for their surroundings.

Adjustable rods or those of the straight type are used where they are fastened to the sash, but where rods are fastened at the side of the window on the moulding, so as not to interfere with the raising or lowering of the sash, adjustable wire tape is used frequently, for it is convenient to run the curtains on and in this way make it easy to put up and take down curtains.

There are two ways of using sash curtains. One way is to fasten the curtain flat on the window sash, firm at the top and bottom, which is done where medallion lace is used or the gathered curtain, which is the most popular. For wide windows, two widths of material are generally considered right, for the selvedge edges should be cut off and the sides hemmed with narrow, fine hems. To allow for the usual shrinkage, the curtains should be made to fall to the sill. Then they will shrink to just the right length. If this precaution is not taken they are sure to be too short. If curtains are pressed while damp, then hung immediately while still slightly damp, they can with care be drawn or stretched into shape.

The new polka-dotted marquisette is charming for sash-curtain use. The dots are in cream or white to match the shade of the net, or in pink, blue, yellow, green or lavender. For over-curtains, blocked marquisette is quite new. The two-inch square plaid has an eighth-inch heavier weave and a little square of color at the corners of the blocks. This material is in the usual widths, and some marquisette curtains are made with ruffles of organdy to match the tiny color squares, and are very pretty for bedroom use. Striped marquisettes are being shown with hairline color stripes, and they also make up prettily with antique lace or little ball fringe on the edges.

Dotted Swiss with white or colored dots seems to be having a revival. The curtains are made with plain Swiss ruffled edges. The center of the valance or lambrequin top has a white fan pleating set in for trimming. Overcurtains are made in two lengths, those to reach just below the sills and those that fall within two inches of the floor. The latter suggest height to a low-ceilinged room. Overcurtains are always hung well outside of the shade and sash or glass curtains on the extreme outside of the window casement.

Where windows are of the old-fashioned casement type, which open out and are wide, or where there are two or three sashes in a group, then the overdrapery should run right across, for no shades or glass curtains are used over the diamond-shaped panes, and overcurtains are the only protection. This style of curtain should be swung from a pole by rings, which a valance must cover, and they are worked by draw-cords. About eight yards of pulley cord, two heavy-weighted tassels, and two small brass pulleys that are fastened to the ends of the curtain rods are required. The cord is run over the pulley and through the rings, fastening the cords to the two center rings, on the order of arranging draw-strings in a work-bag. The weights hold the cords and open and close the curtains. It takes a little bit of skill to arrange these so that they close just right, but when once you "get the hang of it" there will be no further trouble.

As height and width of windows have no form of standardization, each person must use her own discretion in the proper curtaining of her windows. The most desirable windows to curtain are those of medium size, which do not quite reach the ceiling.

SQUASH BISCUIT

ONE-THIRD cake of compressed yeast, one-half cupful of lukewarm water, one-half cupful of scalded milk, one-half cupful of cooked squash, one-quarter cupful brown sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter cupful of melted butter, three cupfuls of white flour, a little starch and sugar.

Soften the yeast in the water, add the other ingredients and mix to a soft dough. Knead for 10 minutes and use no more flour than is absolutely necessary. Cover closely and let stand over night. In the morning the mixture should have doubled in bulk. Turn out on a floured board, pat and roll into a sheet about one inch thick. Use a floured cutter and cut into rounds. Set these close together in a baking pan, but first brush the surfaces that will come in contact with melted butter. When they have risen to about double in bulk and are very light, bake about one-half hour. Glaze with the starch and sugar, just before removing from the oven.

A Swedish mother lays her child's head on a book in order that it may be quick to learn, and puts coins in its first bath in the belief that her action will insure the infant's future prosperity.

Fashion News Notes

NEW YORK.—It is a pleasure to be buffeted by autumn winds if the buffeting spreads to the breeze one of the delectable new veils. Many of these were worn at football games in this vicinity. One was of silvery net with an eight-inch border of leaf green. Another was black with a georgette border of coral.

NEW YORK.—A winter coat that gives the long, slim line, so greatly to be desired seen on the way to the Polo Grounds achieved this effect by means of a long-waisted bodice to which the coat skirt was gathered. The collar tapered to a point slightly toward the left hip and fastened with a big metal button.

NEW YORK.—Certain of the new boudoir caps look as though they had been put on wrong end foremost. There is a deep ruffle from ear to ear in back, but only a bit of ribbon across the forehead. The arrangement, however, is an eminently practical one for the lady with tousled hair.

NEW YORK.—Gold and silver and ivory are to be prime favorites among the colors in which the fashionable woman is selecting her accessories for the operatic season. Slippers of gold or silver brocade will take stockings in gold, silver and blonde. Cigarette cases and holders in gold and ivory are smart, and there is starting a vogue for ivory tinted gloves.

PARIS.—Swathed to the ears in heavy fur, covered to the ankles in velvet or wool, the Parisienne, in spite of cooler weather, today still persists in wearing the thinnest of hosiery and the lowest of shoes. So far she has scorned the boots of fine glace kid which the manufacturers are trying to thrust upon her.

LONDON.—A famous portrait painter was obliging enough today to outline a few fundamentals in dress for various types of women. The pale, fair-haired woman, he says, looks best in black. The dark woman looks best in gold and silver, the auburn-haired girl in green and the brown-haired woman in color combinations of brown.

NEW YORK.—It is noticeable that many of the new hats are of the "squashy" type. They may be made of the most luxurious plush or velvet, but their tendency today is to be floppy of brim and crushy of crown, no matter what their size. An attractive trimming for the black hat of this sort is a garland of varicolored roses which are hardly more than swirls of soft silk.

NEW YORK.—A sumptuous cape, intended for wear at the opera, exhibited here today, is in cloth of silver and American beauty velvet. The velvet lines the cloth of silver and swells over the top of it in a great shirred roll to form the collar.

PARIS.—Pockets are decidedly "in" today and all femininity is rejoicing. No longer must hair pins, powder puff, stamps, keys, small change and cigarettes be kept in a wrist bag, from which everything must be emptied when any one article is to be found. The winter coats have pockets galore, the larger one even taking the place of a muff.

UNCLE SAM SAYS

Poultry Trap Nests

Many persons who keep a small back yard flock of poultry are wasting large quantities of grain and valuable space by keeping poor producers and drones. To weed them out is an uncertain process without a trap nest and the expense of trap nests for a small flock seems needless.

The Bureau of Animal Industry has issued this booklet which contains illustrations and a description of the homemade trap nests which are used on the Government poultry farm.

Readers of the Post-Dispatch may obtain a copy of this booklet free by addressing the Division of Publications, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., asking for "F. B. 682."

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 268—The Overfull Glass.

A TUMBLER is filled with water to the rim. Apparently nothing more can be added without spilling the water. Nevertheless the performer drops some 20 pennies into the tumbler and not a drop of water overflows over the edge of the glass.

The trick is due to the cohesive attraction of the water, but much care must be exercised in its performance. The rim of the glass must be perfectly dry and the water must be carefully poured in. The pennies are held one at a time edgeways upon the surface of the water and are dropped without a splash. Care must be taken not to wet the rim of the tumbler.

The Daughter of Helen Kent

By Sarah Comstock

Her hour was almost here. It was to be the hour for which all the artist soul of her had bided; the hour for which body and brain and will had toiled; the hour which was to open to her the gate into that great world of consecrated work and fame, the world of her long dreams.

The shadows of afternoon deepened among the pine, charging them with mystery. As the day waned, a hint of autumn crept in, adding to the somber spell of the haunted woods. Here and there a flaming sword was brandished by some maple or oak; already the raucous chirp of crickets, the rude controversy of katydids gave warning. The sulky blaze of fire-weed, the still sulkier of Joe-Pye, mingled with goldenrod along the path. The year hung in that glowing, breathless suspense which is as equisite a beauty and as exquisite a pain as the last days on earth of a beloved.

Bequita, at the window, gazed forth upon it all in the awe and exaltation of one who witnesses a noble death. It was her first death-bed watch; the seasons of her California had wrought no tragedies. But this dying summer—she felt a new, a poignant agony as it slipped from her grasp, and a more acute sense of beauty than she had ever felt in beauty's security. The day and her mood flowed back and forth into one another, merging like waters. There was the stillness of exaltation in both; and the breathlessness of suspense.

Bec nodded.

"Not scared, are you?"

Bec did not reply in words; but her eyes must have answered as they met the other's with a long, full gaze that was like still water. At that hour she was above fear; she stood on a plane where the excitement of elation was so intense that it stilled itself, like the heart of a whirlpool.

Miss Clifton took a rapid survey with her shrewd little eyes—a survey that included every detail of the White Maiden's marvelously wrought costume of floating gauze which parted upon faintly discerned rainbow gleams, the willow wand, and the Maiden's eyes "large and glowing like those of a fawn at night," as the legend ran, her skin "no less white than the snow in winter," and cheeks "like the first coming of the sun on mornings when the corn is ripe."

"Quite so," Miss Clifton snapped out her brisk conclusion. "You're altogether as you should be. In fact, my child, you are doomed to success—and may the Lord pity you in the tribulations which that brings! Now—it's time for you to slip out to your place in the woods, ready for your entrance. Good-by—and keep your nerve!"

But, as she turned to go:

"Cousin Ress!"

"Well?"

"Where is Helen?"

"In a front seat, looking perfectly stunning and in a mood to be delighted with anything, for she's got that doctor dangling. He's a fine man, and I wish to goodness she'd drop her tommyrot about 'romantic delusions' and marry him, like a sensible woman, and not set herself up as knowing such a darned sight more than her great-grandmother Eve."

Bec was grave. "I hope she will be happy when she sees my success. I wish that Helen and I might"—a wistful shadow crossed her face—"might understand each other better again. If only the old days could come back!"

Miss Clifton again eyed her sharply. "You're not going to be afraid of what she thinks, are you?"

"I'm not afraid of anything any longer, except of being untrue to the truth." Bec left the cryptic little phrase unexplained; but Miss Clifton read finality and self-sureness in her quiet tone. "I'm ready for—whatever comes."

Bec waited in her hiding place in the woods behind the stage. Unseen herself, she could watch actors and audience. Here, almost beside her, on the cleared stretch of ground which served as stage, the Indian figures moved back and forth in the somber fire of the setting sun.

Artist brains had conceived a spectacle of rarest beauty, and lavish purses had spared nothing to carry it out. The spirit of the mountain legend had been captured. At that point of the story where the tribe, stricken by thirst, made a plea to its deity, one felt the wild appeal of such worship as belongs to the childhood of a race.

The chant of suffering and prayer mourned in strange cadence. The woods took up the moaning and echoed it. The Indian women and children lay upon the ground, exhausted by thirst; now and then a woman would raise her head and feebly join in the chanted prayer which the men were still able to utter, as they stood with arms raised to the heavens, their figures outlined in a melancholy picture, like drouth-smitten pines against the darkly burning sky. The acting was superb; actors themselves were under the spell of the scene's illusion, and one watched in a trance, doubting his own calendar, here in the surroundings where just such a scene might verily have taken place in the forgotten centuries.

The stage was met at the rear and on one side by woods; on the other side it came to an abrupt end at the edge of the ravine. This was the precipice, a sheer drop of rock wall, greenish with slimy growth, where the little waterfall was wont to cascade in lithe leaps to the boulders at the foot.

But now no cascade was to be seen. By a clever bit of trickery, abetted by a genuine drouth which had greatly reduced the water's volume, the small stream had been dammed back and temporarily deflected at some distance to the rear, so that it seemed verily to have vanished off the face of the dry earth. Its release was to be so timed that at a smiting of the White Maiden's wand it would gush forth to its fall over the rocks. To the minutest detail this pretty deception had been worked out so that not a slip could occur.

Bec's alert eyes noted the spot where her wand was to strike as a signal, and the curtain of branches behind which she was to vanish at the water's release. Her eyes traveled on to the audience. No figure in it was discernible from where she stood; it appeared but as a mass of mingled colors, broken by the dark lines of men's garb.

droned the chant. One of the braves collapsed, fell—another. Their dying groans rose, desolate echoes of the prayer that the survivors still raised to a merciless deity.

"Na sa ha nee ga ha do wayhe ah"——

Bec was lost now to every thought save the reality of the entrancing scene. She strained forward, listening for a moan of wind in the forest, which was to be her cue.

"Ha u na ha ah ha"——

A weird sound rose. It was the cue. The moan of wind was caught up by the actors, and it pierced the woods like a chorus of lost souls. They roused to join in it, where they lay exhausted and dying, as if it were their last utterance on earth. The three who remained standing raised the cry to a shriek, hands uplifted, and fell. The cry died, whining slowly to silence. It seemed a world of the dead. . . .

Bequita raised hands that were thrilled beyond the weakness of trembling, and parted the leaves. What Is a Budget?

First of a New Series on "You and Your Pocketbook"

By Mrs. Christine Frederick

A "BUDGET" is a plan of spending in advance. The term is taken from the "budget" or "bag" holding the money for next year's expenses which was brought before Parliament. In the old-fashioned plan of "household accounts" we kept track of what had been spent; in using a budget we plan what will be spent.

To follow a budget plan think of every expense you must meet and separate them under the following six heads:

SHELTER—Rent, taxes, insurance, repair of house, carfare to work.

FOOD—All meats, groceries, dairy products, husband's or child's lunch, any meals eaten away from home.

CLOTHING—Ready made garments and clothing materials, pressing, mending, cleansing.

Spend It on Paper.

Spend your income first—on paper! Instead of buying and spending just as the need arises—say $40 for food one month, and $50 the other, squeezing down this week, then "splurging" the next—apportion in advance how much, and no more, you can spend for that item throughout the entire year. The budget plan takes an annual, not a daily or weekly, view of your entire income. Its object is not skimping or doing without, as much as wise, balanced spending.

Wife, father and children must all share and understand the plan of spending which the family proposes to follow. There's no such thing as "my money" or "your money" but only "our money" under the budget plan.

Now, how much shall the spending be? That depends on the amount of income, the work and professional standing of the father, the location of the family, and particularly on what the family wants to get out of life. For greater convenience we speak of an "average" family as having two adults and three children under 14 years of age.

Have Your Own Budget.

No family can accept the "budget" worked out by anyone else, except as a rough guide. All that any typical budget can do is to give you a guide to follow. It's just as if you were going to cut a dress from a pattern as nearly fitting as possible, and yet you had to allow for an extra pleat here, or take in a seam there—to fit your particular family.

What is your income, and the size of your family? Have you a $1200 income, a $2000 one, or is it much larger? In another talk we'll take up how you should divide ideal incomes into the six groups we have just discussed today.

Love and "The Conqueror"

By WINIFRED BLACK

HAVE you read it—the book they're all talking about?

I have, and I wish I knew right where I could find the author. I would throw the book at his head and I would take perfectly good aim, too—be sure of that.

It is all about a man who runs away from his wife and children, not because he is in love with someone else, not because his wife is in love with someone else.

She is just a regular woman, dead in love with her husband, devoted to her children, pretty, sensible, and self-respecting.

That is what's the matter. She is too self-respecting.

She Is Just Honest.

She takes good care of her home. She is a good housekeeper. She attends to all her husband's wants, but if he thinks one of the children ought to be punished and she thinks the child ought not to be punished, she sticks to her opinion and says so.

If she believes that the neighborhood is not healthy she says that, too, and sticks to it, even when she realizes that her husband knows that what she says is true, but that he will never admit it until she gives up and says that of course he is right as he always is.

No, she is not argumentative, she isn't quarrelsome, she isn't self-assertive, at all. She is just an honest human being. And because she is, her husband cannot bear it and runs away.

He goes into all sorts of places, into the wilderness and lives with the savages, into the slums of the great cities and lives with the outcasts, into the student quarters and lives with the students, and always he is followed by the humiliating thought that he could not "conquer" his own wife—could not bend to his will the mother of his children.

Is It Really True?

And finally he goes back, drawn by the aching chords of love—for the strange perverted creature really has a kind of love for the woman he is trying to dominate—but when he looks at her through the window he sees that she is still—unconquered.

Poor, alone, struggling—she still wears the look of one whose soul is her own, and the man steals away in the darkness and leaves her, broken-hearted and miserable.

What do you think of making such a fool as that into a hero and what do you think of critics who declare that the man who wrote the book is the spokesman for the male sex and says for them what they dare not say for themselves?

Is it really true, gentlemen?

Do you really want to "conquer" the woman you pretend to love? Do you want to humble her spirit, break her pride and humiliate her to the very soul—to please your own vanity?

I don't believe it—I really can't believe it. Maybe it is because I don't want to believe it.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

DANGER SIGNALS.

SAM SMITHERS was a trusty man, whose eyes and nerves were prime. The engines that our hero ran arrived always on time. He took no chances any trip and never made mistakes, but watched each axle, tried each grip and tested bolts and brakes. His record ran for many years without one blot or stain, and all who knew him had no fear when riding on his train. Said they: "We're safer than at home, locked in with bar and bolt, for Sam could take this train to Nome without a single jolt. If Sammy ran a Chinese junk, we would not pass him by, and though we've none too much of spunk, Sam's airship we would try." And then, one day, there came a crash, he ran into a freight; four passengers were chopped to hash and Sammy broke his pate. It seemed he slumbered in his cab, unheeding lights he passed and now he sleeps beneath a slab that's guaranteed to last. The danger signals, glowing red, threw out their warning light; but Sammy did not raise his head, and so, for him, good night! It always has been, will be so, however far you've gone, more danger signals still will glow, whatever road you're on. Don't rest on laurels you have won, past records cannot do, for each day's race must still be run past signals that are new. And, as you make some sudden curve or climb to dizzy heights, it takes keen eyes and steady nerve to read those signal lights.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

PARE and core nice apples, one for each person. Then make a rich biscuit dough and roll thin. Cut into pieces large enough to hold one apple, quartered and sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon. Roll dough about apples and put into a pudding pan to bake until a good brown. While baking, boil two cups water, one cup sugar and a piece of butter the size of a walnut. When the dumplings are brown, pour over this syrup and return to the oven until the apples are quite soft.

(It is nice to fill the centers of the apples with chopped nuts and raisins.)

Nevada is said to have the highest percentage of divorces to marriages—one divorce to every 1.54 weddings. North Carolina has the lowest with one divorce to every 39.14 marriages.

Farmer Brown's Boy Misses Hens

By Thornton W. Burgess

> In placing blame be very slow
> Unless you absolutely know.
> —Farmer Brown's Boy

THE young Fox who was the prisoner of Farmer Brown's Boy was beginning to really enjoy life again. Yes, sir, he was doing just that. You see, he had discovered a way of hunting, even though he was chained to a post in Farmer Brown's barnyard. Three times now when Farmer Brown's Boy had let the hens out of the henyard for exercise the young Fox had caught one without being discovered. He had been smart enough to take those hens inside his house to eat, and so there had been no telltale feathers scattered outside.

It was the day after he had caught his third hen that Farmer Brown's Boy noticed that his flock didn't seem as large as it should be. He went into the henhouse to make sure that none of the hens was in there. Then he went out in the henyard and began to count them. Of course, he knew just how many there should be. When he had finished counting he was three short of the proper number.

"That's queer," said Farmer Brown's Boy with a puzzled frown on his freckled face. "I must have miscounted." Then he began to count them over again. Of course, the hens were running around and it was not easy. This time he was two short. He tried it again and this time he was four short.

Farmer Brown's Boy began to lose patience. "I simply can't count these hens while they're running about," said he. "I've counted them three times and each time got a different number. But not once did I get as many as there should be. It looks to me as if some are missing. I've got to make sure. I don't see how any can be missing because I don't see what could have happened to any of them. I'll drive them all into the henhouse and count them as they go through that little doorway. Only one at a time can go through."

So Farmer Brown's Boy once more made sure that not a single hen was left in the henhouse. Then he closed the henhouse door, leaving open only the little sliding door made especially for the hens. Then he drove the hens in and counted them as they went through that doorway. When the last one had disappeared the number was three short of the proper number and so he knew that three of his hens had disappeared.

If ever there was a puzzled boy that boy was Farmer Brown's Boy. He thought of all the things that might have happened to those missing hens and couldn't see how one of those things could have happened. He went into the henhouse and searched very carefully to see if Robber the Rat had gnawed a hole from underneath. There was no hole. The henhouse was perfectly tight. There wasn't a crack that even so slim a fellow as Shadow the Weasel could have squeezed through. He went all around the henyard. There was no place where any fur-coated thief could have crept in. The only thing he could think of was that a Hawk might have dropped down in the henyard when no one was about.

"That must have been it," said Farmer Brown's Boy at last. "Redtail the Hawk must have been paying this henyard some visits. I'll have to keep an eye out for that fellow. I certainly will have to keep an eye out for that fellow. If he has caught three he certainly will try for some more. I'll keep my eye on this henyard for the next three days and see what happens. I can't afford to let Redtail have any more hens."

How that young Fox would have chuckled could he have heard and understood what Farmer Brown's Boy was saying. My, my, how he would have chuckled!

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB.

HOW THE REFORM WORKED.

WHEN the Union troops under Grant, early in the Civil War, took possession of West Kentucky some difficulty was encountered in controlling the populace, for that end of the State was a hotbed of Southern sentiment and most of the young men had enlisted in the Confederate army. Gen. Grant issued proclamations stating that no citizen would be molested unless he undertook to give aid and comfort to the enemy.

In one town in the invaded district, though, there was an elderly gentleman whose sympathies with the Southern cause were especially outspoken. Whenever word came of a victory for the Southern armies his jubilation was undisguised.

The Union Provost-Marshal, hearing complaints from his men of this man's actions and words, decided to make an example of him. He sent a squad to arrest the offender and presently, under guard, the old gentleman was brought before him.

"Look here," said the Provost, "I'm getting tired of your behavior. Every few days I hear that you've been going about again spreading reports that our forces have been defeated and bragging about the courage of the other side. Now, then, I've decided to reform you. Either you take the oath of allegiance to the Union right now or off you go to a military prison. Which shall it be?"

The prisoner decided to take the oath. After it had been administered the Northern officer felt that a further admonition might be in order. "Now, then," he said, "I hope you understand what this thing means? If ever again you utter a word of disparagement for the Union cause or a word of approval for the Confederates, and I hear of it, you'll suffer severely, because now you're a loyal Unionist. And if you make a single disloyal remark you're guilty of treason."

"Major," he said, "they ain't no law against thinkin', is they?"

"That depends," said the Major. "What's in your mind now?"

"Well," said the Kentuckian, "I was just thinkin' that them rebels certainly did give us fellers hell day before yistiddy down below the State line."
